Deputies say they have 'greasepaint bandit'

A man believed to be the "greasepaint bandit" responsible for at least 13 armed robberies in the valley area and six robberies in Riverside County was arrested Monday afternoon by Riverside County sheriff's deputies.

Officers said Phillip Don Parra, 27, of 1253 E. Rosewood Court, Ontario, was arrested outside a Riverside economy service station about 4 p.m. Monday after an attempted robbery.

Riverside deputies said one of their officers on routine patrol in the area was seen by the suspect as he was in the process of robbing a service station.

Deputies said the sight of the patrol car panicked the robber and he grabbed his robbery note and ran to his car in the service station with the money. The deputy saw the suspect running to his car and became suspicious. The deputy minutes later took Parra into custody.

Ontario police Sgt. George Cherry said Riverside deputies are holding Parra as a suspect in six robberies in their area since Friday. Cherry said Parra matched the description of the "greasepaint bandit" wanted in the Valley.

Cherry said this morning he learned from the Riverside sheriff's office that Parra had been arrested with a starter pistol and a robbery note. In addition Parra at the time of his arrest had grease spots on the right side of his face covering four moles.

Cherry said the fingerprints of the suspect matched those lifted off a counter at Ole's Hardware Store in Upland following a robbery there last week.

Cherry said Parra made several admissions to the Riverside deputies, but would not talk about the robberies in the valley. At least 13 armed robberies of small service stations and convenience stores have occurred in Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Upland since Aug. 27. In each of the robberies a man with greasepaint on the right side of his face drew a small black pistol on clerks.

Cherry said a record check on Parra's background has yet to be run, but officers know that the suspect is not a heroin addict as first believed.

Cherry said preliminary investigation revealed that Parra had been unemployed for the past seven months. His last job was listed as a Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Department part-time employe.

Cherry said the investigation is continuing today with detectives searching for a possible accomplice in the robberies.

Ontario officers said the assistance rendered by the local merchants and residents of the valley area was invaluable in the investigation. Cherry said numerous merchants and residents called in information about persons matching the general description of the greasepaint bandit. He said most of the suspects checked in the case were very close in description to the greasepaint bandit.

Parra is in the Riverside County Jail this morning, being held without bail pending further investigation. He is charged with armed robbery.

BEATS THE SYSTEM

Robert H. Simpson, the 95-year-old man who has been arrested approximately 315 times for picketing inside the California Capitol in Sacramento, gives the victory sign Monday after Gov. Brown signed bill into law repealing the measure that bans picketing in the Capitol. Simpson is self-described as muckraker-in-chief.

N.Y. schools close as teachers strike

By The Associated Press

The nation's largest school system began shutting down today as 65,000 teachers in financially strapped New York City went on strike.

Initial reports indicated that the walkout by the United Federation of Teachers was generally effective in disrupting classes for the 1.1 million pupils who started the fall term Monday.

Early reports indicated that about 150 of the city's 950 schools had been closed.

Working conditions, not pay, are major issues in the strike. The teachers now earn from $9,700 to $20,350 with the median salary $17,350.

Asked when negotiations might resume, union President Albert Shanker said, "as soon as the other side is ready — hopefully today ... We are available right now and we will continue to be."

Contract negotiations, held in the shadow of a fiscal crisis that could result in the city's going bankrupt, broke off Monday night.

"We cannot expect quick results," said union chief Albert Shanker as 25,000 teachers chanted "strike, strike, strike" Monday night at Madison Square Garden. "This strike may go on for a long time."

School board spokesmen said the strike was illegal and a court order would be sought under a law that bans strikes by public employes.

Three New York City schools closed and attendance dropped at others on Monday when teachers and parents protested budget cuts that increased class sizes and ended services such as school crossing guards.

Board demands for increased productivity — less preparation time, a longer school day and elimination of sabbaticals — was the main stumbling block to the union, officials said.

New York's fiscal crisis resulted in the union trimming its wage demands. The city cut $230 million from the school budget and laid off 12,000 teachers. The city now has 65,000 teachers.

Early reports indicated that about 150 schools had been closed.

Shanker joined a picket line outside Mabel Dean Bacon High School — a girl's vocational school — in Manhattan and predicted the strike could be a long one. He said the walkout was "very effective — it's unfortunate it had to happen."

The teachers' overwhelming walkout vote came Monday night despite last-minute pleas from state mediators to extend the old contract until the city's economic situation — now teetering near bankruptcy — is more clearly defined.

Shouting "Strike! Strike! Strike!," more than 25,000 rank-and-file packed into Madison Square Garden to overwhelmingly approve by voice vote Shanker's call to strike the city's 950 schools. Another 10,000 teachers overflowed into the streets and a nearby auditorium

Early today, a UFT spokesman said a secret ballot vote of the teachers in the garden ran 22,870 for a strike, 900 against.

"This strike may go on for a long time," Shanker warned. "...But when we do come back, it will be under conditions that will enable use to teach."

The strike fueled frustration and anger already felt in schools throughout the city that already have been hit by a $230-million budget cut and the recent layoffs of 7,000 teachers and other school employes. Athletic programs alone have been reduced by 40 per cent and waiting lists for a place in kindergarten are lengthy.

The first day of the fall term on Monday was marked by scattered boycotts and demonstrations protesting larger classes. Six schools in Manhattan were closed or operations curtailed by the protests.

During contract talks, negotiators for both sides have conceded that any salary adjustment in a new contract would probably be frozen because of new state fiscal controls that are almost certain to be slapped on the city.

Emergency N.Y. City plan enacted

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After more than 19 straight hours of negotiations and debate, the state legislature early today enacted an emergency plan imposing strict state controls on New York City's budget and advancing some $2 billion to keep the city from financial collapse.

The bill was immediately signed into law by Gov. Hugh L. Carey.

The legislation is supposed to end the latest in a series of fiscal crises the city has faced this year as it limped closer and closer to default on its massive debt.

The basic bill passed the Democrat-controlled Assembly 80 to 70 Monday evening over solid Republican opposition, and passed the GOP-controlled Senate early today 33 to 26. Ten Republicans joined the minority Democrats in approving it.

And in Washington, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was to discuss with President Ford today renewed pleas from the state for federal assistance in the city fiscal crisis. Both have previously rejected such aid.

The measure enacted today creates a new board controlled by state officials to impose what amounts to a condition of receivership on the city's budget process. And it provides some $2.3 billion from various public and private sources to keep the city solvent through November.

But without renewed investor confidence or federal aid, the city could still default in December. And opponents of the bill warned that its heavy commitment of state cash threatened to wreck the state treasury if default were to occur then.

Lifting oil controls to hike food costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — As key Democrats all but conceded defeat to President Ford in their fight over oil prices, government calculations showed today that lifting controls would increase the price of food as well as costs to farmers and food processors.

The President scheduled a veto later in the day of a bill extending oil price controls for six months.

Saying the veto would be sustained in the Senate, minority leader Hugh Scott told reporters after meeting with Ford for an hour and 40 minutes, "The President feels that unless the veto is sustained, action on any energy legislation will be stalled in Congress until after the 1976 elections."

The Pennsylvania Republican said the President is willing to accept a 45-day extension of controls after he vetoes the six-month bill — if he is certain Congress can reach an agreement based on his original proposal that prices be decontrolled over a 39-month period.

J. Dawson Ahalt, an Agriculture Department economist, told a Senate panel, meanwhile, that the immediate lifting of controls would increase retail food prices seven-tenths of one per cent over the next 27 months.

Ahalt called the increase the maximum "if all estimated cost increases were passed on to the consumer." His calculation was based on a 10 per cent jump in energy costs, with energy accounting for 7 per cent of the retail food dollar.

Total U.S. expenditures for food are about $175 billion a year, Ahalt told a reporter, so the decontrol-related increase works out to $1.23 billion over 27 months.

The Agriculture Department calculations reached a conclusion considerably smaller than a study released Monday by the Library of Congress, which said fuel would cost farmers, food processors and consumers $2 billion in the next year.

Including related costs, lifting controls on oil prices would add nearly $10 billion to the production costs of farmers and food processors by 1980, the library study concludes.

Can't get narcotics, youth shoots 2 men

Two young men were wounded Monday night in Pomona when a youth who asked them for narcotics sprayed the interior of their parked car with four shots.

The shooting occurred shortly after 11 o'clock in the 700 block of W. Grand Avenue.

The most seriously wounded was Sergio Munez, 19, of Pomona. He was struck near the center of his chest with two bullets, believed to be .32-caliber. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center where his condition was termed fair.

The other victim, Edward Alvardo, 20, Pomona, was struck in the thigh by one bullet. Another hit the watch he was wearing, shattering it but causing the bullet to richochet.

A third Pomonan, Ralph Ruiz, was unhurt in the fusilade.

The victims said they were sitting in their car when two youths approached from the other side of the street. One asked for narcotics and when he was told by the victims that they didn't have any, he drew a revolver and began shooting.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Who says kids don't have respect for the law these days?

Police said they couldn't free the suspect until the other boy brought in his handcuff keys.

The 10-year-old walked into the police station and said an apartment burglary ring of four youngsters had given him $11 to persuade him to keep his mouth shut about the thefts.

But he gave the money to police and led them on a raid of the ring, which reportedly had stolen about $1,000 in cash this summer in five burglaries, police said.

County labor chieftan dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sigmund Arywitz, head of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor since 1967, died today of an apparent heart attack, authorities reproted.

Arywitz, who was 61, was transported to New Hospital near his West Los Angeles home by Fire Department paramedics who had failed to revive him, a spokesman said. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital about 5:30 a.m. authorities said.

His wife, Barbara, and a private physican were at his side when he suffered the predawn attack at his home, the Fire Department said.

Light drizzle in valley

The formation forced temperatures down to a high of 80 Monday, nearly 10 degrees less than forecast, and the outlook is for more of the same, with the mercury hitting the upper 70s today and Wednesday afternoon.

Some showers are predicted in the mountains, but the clouds are expected to dissipate over the valley this afternoon bringing hazy sunshine.

High humidity will continue throughout the day but there will be no smog. A low of 62 is expected tonight.

Weather

Low clouds overnight with hazy sunshine in the afternoons. High today 75, low tonight 62, high Wednesday 77. The high Monday was 80, and the overnight low was 61. Wednesday's sunrise 6:31, sunset 7:04.

'Brainwashed' by Manson, says murderess

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Convicted murderess Susan Denise Atkins says she was brainwashed by drugs and hippie cult leader Charles Manson "into believing that death was an illusion" before she helped in the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

"I was brainwashed through the use of drugs into believing that death was an illusion — that there was no such thing as death," she said in an interview, the transcript of which was copyright, with KTVU-TV Monday night.

"Charlie would take the truth and salt and pepper it, I think because he had it salt and peppered," she said. "I don't think he had the truth down pat, but I think he believed he did. I was deceived, Charlie was deceived, everyone involved with the whole thing was deceived into believing what we were doing was right."

Miss Atkins, 27, is serving a life prison sentence with former "Manson girls" Patricia Krenwinkel, 28, and Leslie Van Houten, 26, at the California Institute for Women at Frontera for the murders of seven persons in August 1971.

Miss Atkins, Manson, Charles "Tex" Watson and the two other women were convicted in the murders of actress Sharon Tate, coffee heiress Abagail Folger, hairstylist Jay Sebring, Steven Parent, Voyteck Frykowski and Leno and Rosemary LaBianca.

Miss Atkins said she was a heavy drug user when she met the cult leader in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district in 1967. She added that Manson, now serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison, seemed at first to advocate love.

"When I met him, he began to say things to me that for the first time made sense to me, but only in relation to my warped mind through drugs already," she said.

PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Optimistic views have been expressed by several California congressmen over the recent signing of the peace pact between Israel and Egypt.

The optimism does not come, however, without some reservation. In light of the fact that a vote for treaty ratification is expected here soon, some congressmen have openly shown concern with portions of the agreement.

Drawing most congressional attention are apparent agreements that the United States will deploy some 200 civilians in the Middle Eastern Sinai mountain passes to monitor security systems, and the possibility that $3.3 billion will be supplied to Israel in the form of military and economic aid.

While several Republican and Democratic congressional leaders have generally supported the agreement, there have been some holdouts, notably Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

Mansfield's position seems to be in the minority though, at least as far as several California solons are concerned.

Discussing deployment of civilians in the Sinai passes, Sen. Alan Cranston said, "I support the volunteer monitor system. There are some risks but I think they have to be run because the risk of a collapse of peace is so much greater."

Sen. John Tunney said the civilians are needed to "help stabilize relations between Israel and Egypt."

He added, "I believe the agreement is sound when it provides they (civilians) can be withdrawn whenever their safety is threatened."

Democrat freshman Rep. Jim Lloyd, whose 35th District includes the valley area, said, "Anyone who goes over there goes with the understanding that life is precarious.

"(Civilians in the passes) poses many problems. But I favor anything that will reduce the tension in the Middle East — I think we've done that," he said.

"In Southeast Asia we had two warring nations and we entered on the side of one of them. Here we are wanted by both nations."

Cranston had similar remarks, adding, "Here (Middle East) we are a neutral party that each side feels it can totally trust."

Commenting on outcries that the United Nations should play a larger role in the peace agreement, the House member indicated the world today was inacceptable to Israel because of past U.N. actions.

Lloyd added, "At this point the United Nations has not been effective . . . some of the member nations don't want it to be."

Lloyd indicated he would support the overall agreement and predicted it would receive Congressional approval.

Sens. Cranston and Tunney indicated the agreement was a "major breakthrough" but said they will withhold final judgment or prediction.

Tempers flare as malpractice bill passes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The first major medical malpractice insurance bill to win approval of the California Legislature resembles in some ways what the doctors ordered.

But no sooner had the measure by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, won a 57-20 vote Monday than the California Trial Lawyers Association threatened to fight it in "the highest court."

Even Keene, the author, complained that the bill had suffered so many injections and amputations that it should go to a conference room for more healing instead of to the governor.

A major purpose of medical malpractice legislation is to cut the price that doctors pay on insurance premiums, thus heading off a doctors' strike threatened by the California Medical Association.

The CMA lobbied for passage of Keene's bill, but Keene asked his colleagues to reject the final version so that a Senate-Assembly conference committee could get a chance to add more features to control skyrocketing costs.

Others who argued against it said it didn't do enough to regulate the insurance industry.

The opponents, by a parliamentary maneuver, held the bill over for later reconsideration.

Foes also said the bill would trim benefits for patients.

The president of the trial lawyers, Elmer Low of Los Angeles, issued a statement saying, "Two powerful special interests — the CMA and the insurance industry — have won a major victory...at the expense of the citizens of this state."

"We are fully prepared to go before the highest court, if necessary, to overturn a law we consider both inequitable and unconstitutional," Lowe said.

Keene said he was disappointed it passed, but he was "85 per cent pleased" and is optimistic that Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. will sign it.

Major provisions shorten the time period in which victims can file claims, revamp the state Board of Medical Examiners, and limit the amount of fees attorneys can collect.

One foe, Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, said: "It is really kind of a fraud on the public and particularly on the doctors who are literally dying for relief."

He said the estimates that it might cut malpractice insurance costs by 30 per cent were insignificant in the face of estimates of increases of 300 per cent to 400 per cent.

Said Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley: "It doesn't do anything except tax those who can least afford it."

"It doesn't attack the insurance industry. What we are talking about is significant rights being compromised without reform.... This is one of the worst bills we've ever had to vote on on this floor," Meade said.

Keene said a conference committee should "beef up the insurance company portions of the bill." It has already been amended 10 times.

The Trial Lawyers Association said the bill would limit the ability of injured patients to recover damages, thus weakening "the public's most effective protection against bad hospitals and doctors."

Key provisions would:

—Increase the membership of the Board of Medical Examiners and give public members a majority.

—Require that every claim paid over $3,000 be reported to the state, and create an extensive monitoring system.

—Limit contingency fees to attorneys of victims to 40 per cent of the first $50,000 recovered, one-third of the next $50,000, and a quarter of the next $100,000 plus 10 per cent of any settlement over $200,000.

—Impose a statute of limitations on filing claims to three years after discovery of the malpractice except in a few cases, such as the leaving of a foreign object in the body after an operation.

State Senate votes to limit farm tax loophole

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Senate has voted to narrow tax shelter loopholes, such as the so-called gentlemen farmer deduction once claimed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill by Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, won a 24-10 vote Monday even though opponents said it would hurt farming by discouraging investments in agriculture.

Its backers said it would produce about $25 million in annual revenue.

Reagan, in his first term as governor, paid no state income tax for 1970 by claiming losses in farm investments from his non-farm income.

Boatwright's bill, supported by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., has been decribed as a move toward tax equality.

But Sen. James Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, said it was a "shame" that government officials "cry for more food" but pass laws "against people who invest money to make food or call it tax hedging."

Boatwright said about 70 per cent of some 6,000 Californians in the $50,000 to $500,000 income bracket benefitted from preferential income taxes last year.

The bill affects such tax shelter investments as accelerated depreciation of real estate, capital gains and stock options.

It returns to the Assembly for consideration of amendments.

It is AB 1206.

Teacher bargaining bill forwarded to governor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has received a bill giving teachers collective bargaining rights, but the author isn't sure he will sign it.

After the vote, Rodda said he didn't think it would guard against strikes by teachers and the other public school employes it covers.

Brown has said he favors a single collective bargaining bill for all public employes, and that he opposes separate laws for separate employe groups such as teachers and police officers.

But Brown's efforts in favor of all public employes have failed in the legislature.

Rodda's bill does not authorize teachers to strike. And it provides for binding arbitration only on disputes on contract language once a contract is in effect.

Rodda said its scope is restricted to salaries and working conditions. It does not cover curriculum and other matters of school administrative policy.

"I think it will be beneficial in its effect, because it will give teachers better understanding of the issues and fiscal state of their districts and encourage more responsibility," said Rodda.

The Senate vote was to concur in Assembly amendments.

It is SB 160.

Jobless benefits for farm labor

Second day of school busing without trouble

By The Associated Press

The busing of thousands of pupils in Boston and Louisville, Ky., went off without major incident today following turmoil in both cities over controversial school desegregation programs.

Yellow school buses escorted by motorcycle policemen quietly carried pupils to classes in Boston, where attendance today appeared to be higher than Monday, the opening day which was marred by numerous incidents.

No major problems were reported in Louisville.

In Boston, where 26,000 of the public school system's 75,000 pupils are being bused this year, 1,800 city and state police were ordered into the streets for the second day of the new school term and 600 National Guard military police were on standby.

The police ringed schools and guarded school bus routes.

In Kentucky, some 1,000 National Guard troops backed up hundreds of local and state police on the fourth day of school under a desegregation plan under which 26,000 of the 135,000 pupils in the Jefferson County school system are being bused.

Officers skirmished throughout the day on Monday with bands of youths in Boston's Charlestown section, which is included in the desegregation busing for the first time this year.

In South Boston, where violence flared when busing started last year, antibusing motorcades roamed the area until after midnight.

Police reported that a fire damaged the birthplace of President John F. Kennedy in Brookline Monday night and that a sign reading "Bus Teddy" had been painted on a nearby sidewalk.

The reference apparently was to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the late president's brother. The Massachusetts Democrat has been a public supporter of the court-ordered desegregation plan.

"It looks like things were thrown into the kitchen from the backyard ... Molotov Cocktails and that sort of thing," a National Park Service spokesman said of the fire.

A neighbor told reporters he heard glass break and saw two men run from the backyard of the Kennedy birthplace before the fire broke out. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Boston police reported 86 arrests on Monday, including 74 in South Boston when members of a group calling itself the Committee Against Racism attempted to stage a probusing demonstration.

Boston school officials said 58.9 per cent of the pupils who were expected to attend classes on the first day of school were in attendance. Last year, first-day attendance was 65 per cent. In previous years, first-day attendance has averaged 80 per cent.

Boston School Supt. Marion Fahey termed Monday "a highly successful day" and said attendance is expected to grow day by day.

In the Louisville area, Monday passed without the violence of the previous four days in which nearly 200 persons were injured and some 600 were arrested.

U.S. District Court Judge James F. Gordon and Mayor Harvey Sloane have banned all demonstrations and public gatherings.

Armed officers were aboard school buses to safeguard children on Monday, and the same procedure was ordered for today.

School officials said 95 of school bus drivers failed to show up for work on Monday, and authorities said some drivers had been threatened if they took the wheel. Also, 84 of the Jefferson County school system's 6,300 teachers were no-shows on the third day of classes in the new term.

School authorities said 68 per cent of the pupils who had been expected to register for the new term had signed in.

KENNEDY BIRTHPLACE

Inside of the home where former President John F. Kennedy was born shows the damage of a fire early today. The National Park Service, which administers the landmark in Brookline, Mass., said it looked like a fire bomb was thrown into the house. An antibusing slogan was found scrawled on the sidewalk in front of the house.

Hoffa son thinks his dad dead

DETROIT (AP) — The son of missing former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa said today for the first time he believes his father is dead — the victim of assassination — but does not know who killed him.

James P. Hoffa said he bases his belief on the length of time his father has been missing — nearly six weeks — and the fact that investigators have come up with no solid leads as to the ex-Teamsters boss' whereabouts.

James P. Hoffa, a Detroit attorney, said he believes his father was "assassinated" and that his body will never be found.

"Whoever assassinated my father did it in such a way that we won't find him," said the young Hoffa.

Witnesses, however, supported Giacalone's alibi that he was at the Southfield Athletic Club the day Hoffa disappeared.

Giacalone is the man Hoffa's family says Hoffa planned to meet the day he vanished, July 30. Giacalone has denied he had scheduled a meeting with Hoffa.

In invoking the Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination on Monday, Giacalone became the second key witness to refuse to cooperate with the federal grand jury.

The other was Hoffa's foster son, Charles L. "Chuckie" O'Brien.

Giacalone refused to talk to reporters. His attorney, S. Allen Early, said Giacalone "has nothing to hide in the Hoffa situation."

Early said Giacalone exercised his Fifth Amendment right because he is already under indictment for tax evasion and mail fraud.

Giacalone, through his attorney, told U.S. District Court Judge Ralph Freeman that pretrial publicity in the Hoffa matter has jeopardized his right to a fair trial in the mail fraud case. The charges involve fees paid to Giacalone for selling a medical plan to the Teamsters. Giacalone will ask next Monday for a postponment of the trial, now scheduled to begin Sept. 23.

Claremont family harassed by trio

Three men, one armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, invaded the apartment of a Claremont man late Monday afternoon and threatened to cut the arm off a child there if they were not given money.

The incident occurred in the apartment of Robert Dewey Pepe, 25, at 750 W. San Jose Ave. Pepe was slugged on the forehead with the butt of the shotgun during the incident but declined treatment later at a hospital.

Police gave this account:

The three men forced their way into Pepe's apartment and held Pepe, 1½-year-old Robert Dewey Pepe Jr., 3-year-old Tammarie Jean Pepe and Stephanie M. McKee, 19, prisoner while they ransacked the place. The victims were forced to sit on the floor.

Then, after finding no money, one man armed with a five-inch hunting knife grabbed the little girl and told Pepe he would cut her arm off if he didn't tell them where Pepe's money was. When Pepe moved towards the intruder, he was hit with the shotgun butt.

During the time the victims were held captive, the man with the shotgun once put the weapon's muzzle against the back of Mrs. McKee's neck and another time warned that if they were not given money, the little boy would be the first killed.

Before leaving they forced Pepe to remove his clothing, forced Mrs. McKee to disrobe partially and cut the telephone wires.

The leader of the trio was described as a Negro, 5 feet 4 inches tall and stocky at 160 pounds. He had a scar over his left eye, wore a goatee and had pink curlers in his hair.

WEST END sheriff's deputies have arrested two 17-year-old Cucamonga youths in connection with the Sept. 2 shooting of an 83-year-old Cucamonga man investigating a burglary of his store.

Detectives arrested the two youths at homes Monday afternoon after interviewing Lorenzo Cerda Rodriquez, 83, owner of Avila's Market, 10149 24th St. in Cucamonga. Rodriquez was shot several times in the upper legs last week by one of four or five burglars who had broken into his store. He remained hospitalized today in San Antonio Community Hospital recovering from his wounds.

Detective Lenn Allen said this morning information gathered at the scene of the shooting with other information gleaned from informants led to the arrest of the two juveniles. Allen said other arrests are pending in the case.

Third day of violence

Lebanon warfare rages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians and Moslems battled in the streets and houses of Tripoli with guns, fire bombs and rocket salvoes today as religious warfare raged in northern Lebanon for the third day.

Five miles to the east a private army of 3,000 Moslems laid siege to the Christian hill town of Zagharta, the hometown of President Suleiman Franjieh. They bombarded it with mortars and rocket grenades.

The Christian-Moslem split paralyzed the cabinet of Premier Rashid Karami. Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, a Maronite Christian, demanded that the army end the fighting. But the premier, a Sunni Moslem from Tripoli, was reluctant to order army intervention because of Moslem charges that Christians dominate the senior army command.

The biggest Moslem militia in Tripoli, the United Military Authority, announced it would only accept army intervention if a command council representing all sects was formed to supervise the decisions of the army commanders.

A senior security official said it was impossible to estimate the casualties in Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut and Lebanon's second largest city. But he said there are "areas littered with bodies."

The police said a partial count showed 26 dead and 50 wounded, but other sources said between 50 and 100 had been killed.

The city of 175,000 people was reported without water. Residents said Moslems had gutted about 300 shops belonging to Christians, and mobs of Moslem and Christian looters were rampaging through the city.

It is the fifth major outbreak of religious warfare this year in Lebanon. The country's 3 million people — about half of them Christian and half Moslem — are divided into numerous political and religious factions with private armies, and the conflict is often aggravated by feelings for and against the Palestinian guerrillas.

Beirut was the scene of heavy street fighting in April, May and June with an official death toll of more than 2,000.

In August, 34 persons were killed in Zahle, about 30 miles east of the capital.

STILL A PROBLEM

Janet Gracki, second grade teacher in Trenton, N.J., doles out water from vacuum jug to students Eric Williams and Lisa Gerber in class recently. The patched-up water system in the state is working, but the emergency order banning most commercial use of that water is still in effect, and probably will be for the next six months.

1,500 evacuated after explosion

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — About 1,500 persons were evacuated from their Ohio River homes Monday night after an explosion sent phosphorous drifting from a chemical plant, Mason County sheriff's deputies said.

"There's a big, white cloud hanging over the plant," one witness said.

Other witnesses said the chemicals were staying high in the air, drifting south.

There were no reports of injuries from police or nearby hospitals.

Viking II craft hopefully has overcome its problems

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space officials hoped technical problems were left behind as they launched the unmanned Viking II spacecraft today to search for signs of life on Mars.

The launch is the second half of a $1 billion project. Viking I was launched Aug. 20, and officials say there still is a slim chance it can land on Mars July 4, 1976, to mark the nation's Bicentennial.

If all goes well, Viking II will reach Mars and go into orbit around the Red Planet Aug. 7. It is to beam back pictures of the surface, taken from as close as 930 miles. Scientists will study the photos to determine whether a predesignated landing site is suitable.

Remember D.B. Cooper? They're still looking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating the possibility that a suburban Annandale, Va., heavy equipment operator, Jerry A. Cooper, is actually D. B. Cooper, the airline hijacker. But the FBI agent directing the probe says he is almost positive he is investigating a case of mistaken identity.

A man using the name D. B. Cooper parachuted with $200,000 ransom money from a Northwest Orient 727 jet on Thanksgiving eve 1971, and has not been seen since.

"Very, very recently," according to Michael A. Morrow, special agent in charge of the FBI's Alexandria, Va., office, the agency received an anonymous tip that Jerry Cooper was D. B. Cooper.

Jerry Cooper, 30, met voluntarily with FBI agents Monday, to deny that he had any connection with the skyjacker, who was responsible for the only U.S. hijacking that remains unsolved

Both Coopers are about six feet tall, weigh about 180 pounds and have dark hair and dark complexions. And Jerry Cooper is an accomplished skydiver, although he reportedly gave up the sport five years ago.

"I'm almost 100 per cent sure that Mr. Cooper of Annandale is not D. B. Cooper the skyjacker," Morrow said. "We have almost completely ruled him out."

Lawyer says Bronfman had a chance to leave

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The lawyer for one of the accused kidnapers of whiskey heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd contends his client offered to free the youth before a $2.3 million ransom was paid but that Bronfman chose to remain captive "for reasons of his own."

Defense lawyer Peter DeBlasio told Westchester County Court Judge Isaac Rubin on Monday that his client, Dominic Byrne, made the "offer" several days before Bronfman was freed unharmed and the ransom recovered.

Goncalves temporarily back in Portugal office

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves was temporarily back in office as Portugal's premier today, four days after other military leaders stripped him of all power.

The government said Goncalves, in response to a request from President Francisco da Costa Gomes, had agreed to withdraw the resignation Costa Gomes accepted Sunday. It said he would serve with his cabinet in a caretaker status until his successor, Vice Adm. Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo, can form a cabinet.

The communique said the admiral expects to announce his cabinet Thursday instead of Tuesday as had been expected. The delay was believed due to demands of the Socialist and Popular Democratic parties, which the admiral is trying to bring back into the government along with the Communists and a number of military men.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy submarine skipper says he was relieved of his command after a go-go dancer performed topless on the ship's deck as it sailed out of Port Canaveral, Fla.

The incident occurred last July 10 as the USS Finback left port for another tour of undersea duty, Cmdr. Connelly D. Stevenson said in a telephone interview Monday night from Norfolk, Va., where he now has a Navy desk job.

In acknowledgement of his crew's extra work, he acceded to its request that a go-go dancer, whose stage name is Cat Futch, dance topless on the Finback as the submarine left port, he said.

The stunt was designed partly to impress the rival Alexander Hamilton, a missile-firing submarine also tied up at Port Canaveral.

The dancer duly did her stuff as she was accustomed to doing then at the Cork Club in Cocoa Beach and now at the Evil People's Lounge in Fort Pierce, Fla. Then the Finback headed into the Atlantic.

But on Aug. 1 Cmdr. Stevenson was told by radio to return to Norfolk where he was relieved of his command and given a desk job, he said.

Now, he said, "there are administrative proceedings under way the outcome of which are in doubt." He declined to go into the nature of the proceedings when asked if it is what is known as a captain's mast for officers — a non-judicial proceeding, not a court-martial.

Stevenson wants his command back and said he has talked to a lawyer about it. "My only purpose in calling a lawyer is to insure I'm able to take full advantage of the rights accorded me within the Navy's administrative system," he said.

He added: "I have been a naval officer and have been proud to be one and want to continue to be one."

Stevenson reportedly is trying to convince the Navy that letting a go-go dancer perform on board is not a serious enough offense to justify being relieved of command.

The 41-year-old officer commanded the submarine for three years. He said he had received letters of commendation for saving "millions of dollars" for getting the submarine through her overhaul at Norfolk in good time.

Russian state

Carbon 14 dating of charred wood from the remnants of a 500-mile-long earthen wall that once surrounded the present site of Kiev points to the existence of an organized state in the present territory of the Soviet Union in the 4th and 6th centuries, about 500 years earlier than previously thought.

Dutch elm fund approved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $950,000 appropriation to fight a Dutch elm disease outbreak in California was sent to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. by a 62-14 Assembly vote Monday.

The Assembly approved Senate amendments to the bill by Assemblyman John Thurman hiking the appropriation from $50,000.

Since his measure passed the Assembly June 24, said Thurman, D-Modesto, the fungus spread by beetles has been discovered on trees in Sonoma, Napa and Santa Clara counties.

The bill is AB 1874.

Residents offered low-cost pet neutering

Valley pet owners may now receive help from a local chapter of the Pet Assistance Foundation in having their dogs and cats altered.

Barbara York of Pomona, who is co-chairman of the local group with Theresa Baker of Cucamonga, said the group will assist pet owners in having their animals spayed or neutered at reasonable rates through the cooperation of veterinarians in general area.

The group has an answering service to advise residents where they can take their animals and approximately how much the operation will cost. Financial assistance is also available in some cases.

The group's phone number is (714) 983-5353. Persons may call from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. York said that persons calling may leave their phone number and a description of their animal. A volunteer of the group will then return the call within a few days.

Although the group has only been operating since May, she said that the 12 volunteers have been averaging almost 200 calls per week.

The local organization also undertook a special project at the California Institution for Men in Chino, where cats that have been adopted by inmates were altered and then returned to the prison.

She said that persons are needed as Volunteers in the group, and that memberships in the Pet Assistance Foundation are also available. Membership dues in the national organization is $5, voting membership $7.50, sustaining membership $25 and life membership $100.

As of now, she explained, the local group is being supported by the Los Angeles Chapter of the foundation.

"People out here should be willing to help support this program. There's definitely a need for it," she said.

The foundation estimates that as many as 35,000,000 puppies and 50,000,000 kittens are born nationally each year, many of which must be humanely destroyed because there are not enough homes for them, and millions of others are abandoned to face starvation and disease.

Mrs. York said the local group has been working closely with the Pomona Valley and Chaffey humane societies.

She urged pet owners to call for assistance if their pet has not been altered. She said that persons should call immediately if their animal is pregnant.

Dead Sea Scrolls topic for lecture

An illustrated lecture about the Dead Sea Scrolls will be presented at the Pomona Public Library on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be presented by James Brashler of the Claremont Graduate School's Institute for Antiquity and Christianity. The program, first presented at the library in July, is entitled "The Dead Sea Scrolls: Records of a Religious Commune."

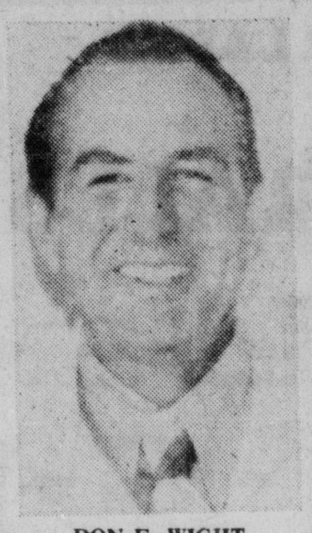
Illustrated with slides, the program will tell the story of the excavations of the Essene communal center near the Dead Sea, where the scrolls were written. The program compares the ancient and modern religious communes and lifestyles.

The program is free, but seating is limited.

Children's programs at the library this week include preschool story hour on Wednesday at 10 a.m., films for youngsters on Wednesday at 7 p.m., and paper bag puppet crafts on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 16, the library will offer free guitar lessons for children from 8 to 14. The lessons will be held each Tuesday at 4 p.m. through Oct. 28. Class size is limited and advance registration may be made at the library.

For further information about library programs, persons may call 620-2017.



DON E. WIGHT

United Way Division D head named

Don E. Wight has been appointed chairman of Division D for the 1975-76 West End United Way campaign.

As Division D chairman, Wight will coordinate fund-raising campaigns for businesses with one to 14 employes.

Wight is a certified gemologist and registered jeweler of the American Gem Society. He is president of Wight Jewelers, Ontario. He is past general chairman of the Ontario Community Chest, chairman of the Salvation Army capital fund drive and past chairman of the West End YMCA drives.

White Cane Center seeks participants

New participants are being sought at the White Cane Center, social and recreation facility sponsored by the Pomona-Ontario Chapter of the National Federation of the Blind of California.

The craft section meets each Thursday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at 423 N. Main St., Pomona, in the basement of the Christ the Victor Lutheran Church.

Participants take a sack lunch. Tea or coffee is furnished.

At the present time crafts include mosaic tile, macrome, knitting, crocheting and simple jewelry making. The cost to the participants is only for materials used.

Relatives, friends and neighbors of people who are blind or partially sighted are losing their sight are requested by center personnel to call either 626-3698 or 628-8887 for more information.

The White Cane Center is a group of active blind people who believe only the blind can lead the blind and help them adjust to a new way of life.

Classes offered adults

A class for adults in business and vocational English will be offered this fall by the Bonita School District.

The course will be given from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays at San Dimas High School. Instructions will include letter writing, business forms and specialized vocabulary of the professions.

The class is one of several offered by the district, not only at night but also during the days. Other classes include instructions in painting and drawing, personal and home decorations, and sewing.

All classes begin during the week of Sept. 22. A registration fee of $3 will be charged for each course.

Those who are interested in any part of the adult education program may get more information by telephoning the Bonita Adult Education Center, 599-6787.

Police get new pistols

The Claremont Police Department has adopted the .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol as its service weapon.

Claremont thus joined Pomona, El Monte and several other police agencies which have switched from the old standby, the .38-Special revolver, to the .45. The same pistol has been the sidearm of the U.S. military since 1911.

Claremont Police Chief Charles R. Lines said the department switched because the .45 has more stopping power and is safer because the bullet does not richochet as much as the revolver bullet.

Claremont officers must buy their own pistols, he said.

Signups open for medical aide class

The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays starting Sept. 10, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Valley View High School in Ontario.

There are no tuition fees. Those 18 and over may enroll in the adult education office in the mobile trailer behind Tower Hall on the Chaffey High School campus.

The telephone number is 983-2010.

The objective of the course is to prepare students for work as nursing assistants, orderlies or health aides.

Instruction will include anatomy, physiology, medical terminology, infectious diseases, nursing techniques and procedures and ethics.

Instructors are Gary Porter and Elizabeth McClure.

New course offers credit

Pepperdine School of Continuing Education will offer an evening course in "Modern Political Reform: Success or Failure" beginning Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. at Garey High School in Pomona.

It is open to the public and offers three units of upper-division or graduate-extension credit.

Classes will meet Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 622-7831.

Weekly art workshop set in Glendora

The classes begin Sept. 18, and will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekly. Basics will be provided for beginners as well as for those who want to brush up on the work.

Those who are interested may call the Glendora school district for more information.

Sugar crystals

Sugar crystals are piezoelectric, meaning that vibrations set up in the sugar bowl by dinner table conversation probably generate millions of volts of low-amperage —and harmless —electricity in the sugar.

Solid solution

An alloy is a solid solution of two or more metals.

Does Lindora think Losing Weight is easy?

It is not a simple task for a patient to reach and maintain "lean weight" for life. First the patient must have an honest desire to cure his problem then accept professional guidance from trained Medical Doctors.

Lindora's unique 10-week treatment and training program will teach patients how to reach and maintain their "lean weight" for life. A safe and practical plan, with proper nutritional diet, and continual emotional support. New audio and sub-liminal visual aids are used to motivate the patient. The entire program is under the strict supervision of Medical Doctors, specialists in Bariatric Medicine.

Lindora Clinics are owned and administered by Medical Doctors that restrict their practice to Bariatrics. ALL Clinic Personnel are licensed by the State of California

State voter shift? Poll backs Congress role in foreign policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A majority of Californians believe that Congress, not the President, should have the strongest voice in foreign policy, the California Poll said Monday.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said the poll "strongly suggests that the public is reappraising its earlier tendency to accept without question any Presidential initiatives in foreign policy."

"If so, Gerald Ford and his successors are likely to find that they have a much less free hand in world affairs than their predecessors were given," Field said.

The survey of 1,006 California adults revealed that 54 per cent believe Congress should have the strongest voice in foreign policy, while 28 per cent feel the president should. About 12 per cent felt the President and Congress should have equal voices while 5 per cent had no opinion.

Sixty-five of the poll also believed the nation's voters should have more to say about foreign policy than they do now.

The survey, taken between Aug. 6 and Aug. 13, showed that 56 per cent of those polled felt the United States needs the support of other nations. Seventy-three per cent also believed the nation should continue to be the leader of the free world in opposing threats to peace.

"Most Californians understand that the U.S. needs the support of other countries as much as they need ours," said Field. "While there is a lot of sentimental attachment to George Washington's advice to avoid foreign entanglements very few people today are willing to have the U.S. go it alone in true isolationist fashion."

Field said his poll indicated that most Californians take a pragmatic view of foreign commitments.

"They are willing to support our goals and aims in the world struggle, but they are reluctant to share U.S. standards of living without any regard for political beliefs," he said.

GOP solons appeal for a Republican Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans Monday unveiled a program they said they would pursue if they get control of Congress. It emphasizes budget balancing, strong defense and review of social and other governmental programs to cut out abuse and duplication.

Heading a panel of GOP congressional leaders at a news conference, Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, said "the nation need a Republican Congress" and insisted he thinks his party has a chance to win control in 1976.

The program developed by a special Republican task force and endorsed by the party's House policy committee largely tracks positions already taken by the Ford administration.

Rhodes agreed this is so, but said the GOP legislators proposed innovations in the areas of individual retirement plans, a study of government programs and bureaucracies and unemployment insurance changes.

Much of the program is necessarily general, Rhodes said, and on some of the topics treated legislation could not be developed until Republicans control the congressional machinery.

Rhodes, who organized the idea of a Republican congressional program, emphasized that it implies no break with Ford personally or with his administration. Some White House staffers, he said, had expressed such concern.

But Rhodes said Ford not only did not agree with them, but favored the idea and reviewed the final document at a private meeting with Rhodes and raised no objections to it.

At the same time, Rhodes said he considers the document important as a way of showing the country, which will be voting next year on all the House and two-thirds of the Senate, what it could expect from a Republican Congress.

City erases bank plan, renewal pact

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A proposed one-story bank buildling on the northwest corner of Mission Boulevard and Garey Avenue in downtown Pomona was rejected by the Pomona City Council Monday night, and the council also terminated the contract of Pomona Development Co. for redevelopment of the site.

Officials of the development company attempted, for the third time in recent weeks, to convince the council that the proposed 8,000-square-foot Security Pacific Bank building was the best possible development for the site within the foreseeable future.

By a 3-2 vote, however, the council rejected the development and terminated the company's contract for redevelopment.

The council's action came as no surprise, since a majority of the council stated last month that the proposed bank was too small for what they described as "possibly the best site in the city."

Councilmen Benjamin Ochoa and Charles Bader were joined by council member Georgia Grove in rejecting the development. Mayor Ray Lepire suggested that the decision be left to the bondholders for this site.

Councilman Adrian Wright, while refusing to vote against the bank project, was unenthusiastic since construction of the bank would probably mean Security Pacific would vacate its present location on Pomona Mall East.

"I'm not sure what we would gain by that," said Wright.

Also speaking in support of the proposal was Jack Booth, Pomona Realtor and another partner in the development company.

C. T. Richardson, former publisher of the Progress-Bulletin, also addressed the council, urging the city to move as rapidly as possible on redevelopment, although he did not specifically endorse the proposed bank project.

"We do need redevelopment as fast as possible. The city's tax base is eroding," he said. Richardson added that the city must be realistic and stop "hoping for too much."

With the ending of the Pomona Development Co.'s contract, the city regains control of the site and it will probably be opened to competitive bidding by would-be developers.

Originally, a six-story bank and office building was proposed for the site. Although council members agree that is now economically unfeasible, it is not clear how large a project will have to be to get council approval.

The council withheld action on a proposal to buy the old five-story Investment Building at the northwest corner of Third and Thomas Streets for $1.

Council members expressed doubt that it was feasible to rehabilitate the 62-year-old structure, and its resale potential was also questoined.

The matter was held over until a staff could determine some specific costs of rehabilitating the structurally sound, but deteriorated building.

Pomona police accord snags on work clause

Pomona City Council withheld approval Monday night of the three-year agreement raising police salaries in the city, pending further study and meetings with police negotiators over a section of the pact that would not allow any changes in working conditions.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce told the council that budgetary problems next year might force layoffs of city employes, in any or all departments, and that could change working conditions.

Gonce said that the section of the police agreement concerning working conditions had never been included in any previous agreement, and that its implications should be reviewed in light of the expected budget crisis in the next fiscal year.

City Atty. Patrick Sampson told the council that a manpower layoff in the Police Department might become a negotiable item if the council adopted the agreement as proposed.

The council considered approving the agreement and deleting the section in question, but decided to hold the entire matter for one week, at the suggestion of Councilman Benjamin Ochoa, and contact the Pomona Police Officers Association to discuss the matter.

No representative from the association was present at the meeting.

The delay in approving the agreement should have no effect on the salary increases approved for police, since the first phase of the salary settlement is retroactive to July 1. The first phase is for three per cent, followed by a four per cent increase in January, and a seven per cent increase next July.

The agreement will also give police a raise in July of 1977, although the amount of that hike will remain unknown until the city's firemen receive their wage increases in 1976-77.

In a related police matter, the council discussed in executive session the decision of the District Attorney's office not to file charges against attorney Stephen Silver, police association negotiator, for his alleged disruption of the city council meeting on Aug. 18.

No announcement of any action or decision by the council was made, however.

Ping-pong issue back to planners

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

After hours of debate, the San Dimas City Council decided Monday night to send a controversial zoning issue back to the Planning Commission for development of a specific plan.

The action regarding properties on the north and south side of Arrow Highway between Lone Hill and Valley Center avenues brought city officials closer to resolving the question of commercial or multiple family residential zoning. It was also two months after planning commissioners had requested a specific plan for the area, and been refused by councilmen quibbling over the public hearing process.

The General Plan, adopted in 1974, projects apartments for the area that is currently zoned commercial. There are a large 50-acre property owned by Mrs. Vera Dunning and approximately 44 acres of smaller lot sizes.

The controversy began in November 1974 when the city initiated a zone change to make the zoning conform to the General Plan. The Lone Hill Homeowners Association launched an amendment campaign for the area to remain commercial in the hope that the Dunning property would become a regional shopping center and the surrounding property would serve as supplemental commercial sites.

Following months of public hearings, staff investigation and expert testimony, the Planning Commission recommended denial of the amendment request for commercial. It pointed out that neither population nor existing nearby commercial centers would support another regional center.

San Dimas and valley residents are currently served by such regional centers as the Montclair Plaza, the West Covina Plaza, Indian Hill Village in Pomona, Puente Hills Mall in Industry and Eastland in West Covina.

Peter Bray of the homeowners group said apartments in the area would cause problems of dust, traffic congestion, overcrowded schools and overloading of police and fire services.

"No one has shown the need for apartments. Apartments will bring nothing but disaster," Bray declared.

He told councilmen a petition with 1,223 signatures would be presented to the city. A letter accompanying the petition drive, and read in the council meeting, began "Help Stop Apartments" and predicted holocausts in a population of more than 70,000 people and a spiraling crime rate with apartments. Most of the negative predictions were later refuted by expert witnesses.

A.H. DuBois claimed that property owners "have forfeited sales on many occasions because the zoning situation is not firm in San Dimas."

Mrs. Dunning commented that "I could have gone many times not only around the world, but to the moon with the taxes I've paid for 25 years. I never defaulted on my taxes."

Terry Dipple, chairman of the city's Park and Recreation Commission, reported that there are not sufficient parks to deal with an influx of apartment dwellers.

Jack Carruthers, manager of the San Dimas Chamber of Commerce, read an official statement from the chamber opposing commercial development for the properties in question and supporting the General Plan projection for multiple residential units.

The chamber manager pointed out that top consultants had studied the city extensively and recommended a balance of commercial and residential development. He also stated that the city has an updated and strong building code to prevent low income or poor quality units being developed.

Supt. James Johnson of Bonita schools said the district does have ample room for new children at the secondary level and some room at the elementary level. He reported that under Senate Bill 90, schools receive state funds based on a per pupil formula. Therefore, a large commercial development would not, at this time, benefit the district, he noted.

He objected to homeowners' comment that the school board opposed apartment development.

Tiny-tot program signup underway

Registration is being accepted at the Claremont Parks and Recreation Department, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., for the fall tiny-tot program.

Classes will be held at Lewis, Memorial and Blaisdell parks. The 12-week session will include songs, body movement, paints, arts and crafts, field trips and fun activities pre-schoolers enjoy.

To attend the program, tiny tots must be 3 by Dec. 1 this year. Children who are 3 will be enrolled Tuesday and Thursday, while 4- and 5-year-olds will enroll for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Both groups will meet from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m. with classes beginning Sept. 15.

The program fee for three days a week is $45.50. The fee for two days a week is $30.50.

More information may be obtained by phoning 624-4531, extension 273.

Man kidnaps, molests valley youngster, 7

A 7-year-old girl was kidnaped, taken to the Rancho Santa Ana Botanical Gardens in Claremont Monday afternoon and molested by a red-haired man her companions sensed was "bad," police reported.

The victim later was treated by her family doctor and was said to be emotionally troubled by the incident.

The child and two companions were playing near their homes shortly after 3 p.m. when the man approached and asked to join them, investigators reported. The two little girls the victim was with told police later that they "knew the man was bad" and each left separately. After they had left, the man forced the victim to accompany him to the botanical gardens where the offense took place. Then he released her and ran.

The molester was described as a 6-foot, thin Caucasian with a mustache. He wore a checkered shirt and blue trousers.

Crash injures Ontario man

A 26-year-old Ontario man was injured Sunday morning when his car slid out of control, overturned and crashed into a chain link fence near the east runway of Ontario International Airport on Archibald Avenue in Ontario.

Daniel Chavez of 14974 Valley Place, Ontario, was treated at Ontario Community Hospital for multiple injuries and released.

Chavez told officers he was southbound on Archibald Avenue when he attempted to make a left turn and the vehicle slid out of control.

Association names speaker

Kenneth D. Newsom, director of marketing for Irving C. Rubin and Associates of Los Angeles, will be the main speaker at the September meeting of the Mt. Baldy Area Apartment Association at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be at the Claremont branch of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan.

Other speakers will be Robert Wells of the J.E. Wells Insurance Co. of Los Angeles, and Paul Morsen, director of public relations with the Human Resources Agency of San Bernardino County.

Walnut school district growth prompts study

Administrators will start assembling an ad hoc group to study secondary education in the Walnut school district as a result of board action Monday night.

Supt. David L. Brown reported to the board there is urgency in getting planning for future grades 9-12 underway as the high school student population is projected at 2,700 by September, 1979.

He said the high school enrollment might reach 5,000 eventually and suggested these planning possibilities:

—Two large comprehensive high schools with enrollment of 2,400 to 2,500 or three of moderate size (1,600 to 1,700).

—Separate schools small enough to make possible a higher degree of program coordination among them than is ordinarily the case between the high schools of any one district.

—Provision of the instructional program for all high school pupils within a single facility not much larger than the present Walnut High School, given certain conditions.

"I don't begin to pretend that I know what these conditions would be," he stated. "I am certain that they would be brought about only by quite radical departure from the patterns of organization and instruction that we now practice and accept as normal."

Board members also approved Walnut Elementary School as the name for a school to be built on a 10-acre site at Lemon Road and Lycoming Street. The elementary school now known by that name will house the district's continuation school.

Modification of the 1975-76 school district calendar was approved to allow the minimum 175-day year but future planning will be directed toward an 180-day instructional year.

Walnut schools will open next Tuesday instead of Monday because Monday is Yom Kippur, a Jewish religious holiday.

Sr. citizen classes at SAC

Ten courses ranging from languages to psychology, writing and physical education will be offered for senior citizens this fall by the Adult Education Department of Mt. San Antonio College.

Preregistration ends Wednesday. After that students will be accepted as space permits. The classes start next week.

Courses include instructions in Spanish, French, German, psychology, the law, writing, drawing and painting, crafts, automobiles, and physical education.

The courses will be given at the San Dimas Community Center, the San Dimas Library, the Church of the Brethren in La Verne and the First Presbyterian Church, Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Palomares Community Center and the Pilgrim Congregational Church, all in Pomona.

Those who want more information are urged to telephone the college, 598-2811.

Fleet units eye union issue

The Pomona Valley Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 211, and the Ladies Auxiliary, Fleet Reserve Association, Unit 211, will hold monthly meetings Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Ave., Chino.

Branch President Robert Carter of Pomona will explain to members that the Fleet Reserve Association is asking for opinions as to whether the military should be organized into a union.

A letter from the local branch will contain opinions of local members and will be sent to the national Fleet Reserve Association headquarters at Washington, D.C.

All retired and active duty naval personnel, Marine Corps personnel and Coast Guard personnel are invited to attend. The American Federation of Government Employes, which represents the civilian workers, is planning to organize the military, Carter said.

Immunizations offered

Immunizations against various communicable diseases will be given free of charge Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona.

The public may get immunizations against 10-day measles, rubella, polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Parents are reminded that children must be immunized for enrollment into school. Children and adolescents must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Individuals are requested to bring all previous immunization records to the clinic.

A high blood pressure testing clinic for adults will also be held at the same time. Adults already under the care of a private physician or members of a health care group are asked not to attend this free clinic.

Round 2 on Walnut lot size

Changes in residential restrictions will be considered for a second time Wednesday night by the Walnut City Council.

Affected are model house location in new tracts, frontage on cul-de-sacs, setbacks, lot sizes, average house sizes, storage in side yards and permitted uses with a conditional use permit.

Councilmen held a public hearing on the changes July 23 and then returned them to the Planning Commission, the body that recommended them in the first place.

Controversial issues among the suggested changes are minimum lot widths, setbacks and house square footage.

The fate of a hill is also on the council agenda. The hill stands between a proposed tract and an existing tract southwest of Lemon Avenue and La Puente Road.

OPARC starting new schedule of classes

Classes for parents and babies, kindergartners and adults will begin Wednesday at Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens (OPARC), 9160 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair.

Classes for persons in allied health fields who are learning to work with the developmentally disabled are scheduled also.

Through a program of planning goals, systematic reviews and evaluation, OPARC aims to have youngsters absorbed into public schools and adults into employment wherever possible.

A class in parent-child relationships is sponsored in part by Chaffey College and taught by Mrs. Allen Cook of Diamond Bar and Mrs. Veronica Blake of Fontana.

For adults with developmental disabilities there is a class in family life and independent living skills, sponsored partly by Chaffey College. Instructors are Mrs. John Rael of Chino, Mrs. Burton Hall of Cucamonga, Mrs. Dennis Buchholz of Montclair and Mrs. Charles Gerard of Upland.

Mrs. Dick Doesburg of Chino, day school principal, plans to involve more volunteers and community services to expand the services already provided by OPARC.

George Underhill of Claremont, president of OPARC board of directors, said visitors are encouraged to see the programs available and to investigate the opportunities offered at the school.

Kent State: will the wound heal?

The words of Robert I. White, who was president of Kent State University at the time of the shootings on the campus on May 4, 1970, probably sum up the feelings of a great many Americans regarding that tragedy.

Interviewed by reporters after a jury in Cleveland absolved him, along with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and 27 Ohio National Guard officers and men, of civil damages in the deaths of four students and the wounding of nine others, he said that he was "pleased and relieved, but no, I cannot say that I am happy. It is not possible to be happy."

It is not possible for any American to be happy over the outcome, for nothing can ever restore to life the two young men and two young women senselessly cut down that day, or restore to full health the one student who will be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

But at least it is possible to hope that, at long last, the dead will be allowed to rest and the nation to put the Kent State tragedy behind it. The parents of the students and the other complainants have had their day in court — indeed, many long days in a trial that lasted 14 weeks.

"My daughter will never rest in her grave," cried the mother of one of the slain students,' however. Anguished, unbelieving of the verdict, newly embittered, she and the other parents immediately claimed that the trial was unfair, the judge biased, the jury "ignorant" and vowed to appeal.

Who, really, can blame them? They have been living with this thing for five years, hoping for the day when their children's killers would be brought to what they considered to be justice — but also ignoring the fact that it has not been easy for the accused to live under a legal shadow for five years, and steadfastly refusing to acknowledge that the guardsmen, as much as their children, were the victims of a series of events they had no part in starting.

Neither in this trial, nor in a previous criminal trial of guardsmen that ended in a directed acquittal, nor in other hearings and inquests, was clear and unmistakable proof of guilt and premeditation on anyone's part brought forward. To have found the defendants liable for damages would not have been justice for the dead but injustice to the living.

If the Kent State parents continue to press the issue, is there anything really to be gained other than a deepening of their sorrow?

A yen for sunshine

The "Land of the Rising Sun" is becoming the land of disappearing sunlight. This is especially true in Japan's larger cities where, in addition to pollution and smog, another enemy of sunshine is at work.

The proliferation of high-rise buildings in recent years has been causing disputes between owners of the multistory buildings and nearby residents and landowners over the "right to sunshine."

Sunlight is important to the Japanese for more than aesthetic reasons. Because their homes are lightly built and uninsulated, they need as much sun as they can get in the chilly wintertime. And in these days of rapidly rising fuel costs, there is an actual monetary value attached to the amount of sunlight one's home receives.

The government has decided to step in and provide compensation for those forced to live in the shadows, reports Focus Japan magazine. The Home Affairs Ministry has devised a scheme to allow local municipalities to reduce property taxes on plots of land near high-rise buildings that are deprived of sunlight. The decision acknowledges the fact that property in the shade has realized lower selling prices recently and that landowners have suffered financial losses.

The tax reductions, which will be determined by the local government but which cannot exceed a 20 per cent ceiling set by the ministry, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1976, when the next official revaluation of land prices is scheduled to be conducted.

In previous revaluations, such adverse influences on the price of land as automobile noises, vibrations and exhaust emissions, have been taken into consideration. Loss of sunlight, however, has never before been regarded as a minus factor.

People of India content

Your editorial on "destroying India" by the policies of Mrs. Gandhi shows a jaundiced, Western-oriented view of "democracy" as practiced in India. To compare "democracy" in India with that of the United States (and Dr. Spock's idea of what freedom should be like) is the same as comparing "communism" in the Soviet Union with "communism" in Yugoslavia.

The sub-continent of India has a population of approximately 700,000,000 who were subjugated for centuries by a series of absolute rulers including the last rajas — the British.

India has, for many years, been socially governed, as well, by a despotic system of castes that still persists in some forms even though it has been outlawed since the 1940s.

It has only been since 1947 that India adopted a "democratic system of government" but the central government in New Delhi has twenty-two far-flung states, fifteen major languages and a disparate people with vastly different customs, cultures, and ideas. Seventy percent of Indians live in rural areas and about eighty percent of the people are basically illiterate.

Having just returned from traveling throughout India I experienced conditions before and during the state of emergency that was called by Mrs. Gandhi. I believe that she and the Congress Party which she represents should be congratulated for maintaining calm and order in what could have become a volatile situation.

The law-abiding people I saw in Bombay, Delhi, Calcutta, Madras and several other cities went about their daily activities as they had always done. Most of the people who were jailed were people who broke the laws (laws that were on the books long before Mrs. Gandhi assumed power). Most of these people were involved in smuggling or currency manipulation (both of these things very lucrative in an economically-deprived country that cannot afford to import foreign "luxuries").

The political dissidents who were jailed were incarcerated because they were inciting people to riot and break the laws: — laws that the Prime Minister Mrs. Gandhi was compelled by the constitution to uphold.

I spoke freely with Indians from all walks of life, from the well-educated to the illiterate. Most of these people seemed content with the present government in New Delhi and probably will continue to be as long as the status quo is maintained.

Mills' secret trial

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who was considered the most powerful member of the House until his escapades with stripper Fanne Foxe became the talk of the nation, has been secretly expelled from the Masons.

A 33rd degree Mason and a Grand Lodge Medal of Honor winner, he was particularly proud of his standing in the fraternal order. Now he probably will be asked to return both his ring and his medal.

Some Masons wondered whether he still had the ring, since Fanne Foxe has alleged that Mills gave it to her during a secret "marriage ceremony."

But the Argentine firecracker told us she returned the ring right after the mock wedding. She described the ceremony as "kid stuff" but said it was "important to me and to him."

Mills was expelled from the Masons after a secret trial before his home lodge at Kensett, Ark. Witnesses have described the dramatic scene for us.

He was accompanied by his Masonic lawyer, William Nash. Together they faced a five-man commission, with about 200 lodge members in attendance.

Grand Master Lee Overstreet outlined the charges against him. The Grand Master took pains to explain that alcoholism, per se, was not the offense. Rather, it was Mills' intemperate behavior which, Overstreet charged, violated the Masons' code of ethics.

The embattled Mills responded, first, by defining an alcoholic. It is a person, he said, who thought one drink was good but a thousand were better.

Then Mills submitted detailed medical records, outlining the nature and treatment of his illness.

As the trial wore on, he became testy and irritable. At one point his attorney argued that Mills had the support of the upper echelons of Masonry. Overstreet retorted sharply that HE was the upper echelon.

The tribunal did not reach an immediate verdict. But a few days later, the commission met secretly and voted to oust Mills permanently from the fraternal order.

Footnote: We made repeated but unsuccessful attempts to reach Mills, his attorney and Overstreet for their comments.

PLAY FOR PAY: In an earlier column, we reported that a former record industry executive had broken ranks and had given a detailed statement to the Federal Communications Commission on the industry's payola practices.

Mike Viner, the executive, delivered the damning document to FCC Chairman Richard Wiley. From the confidential memo, we described some of the abuses. Here are others:

—To encourage influential broadcasters to play their records on the air, record companies pay them to produce records. MGM Records made such a deal, according to Viner, with Ken Dowe, who then worked for the McLendon radio stations. Dowe told us the record, featuring singer Buddy Greco, flopped. All Dowe got out of it, he said, was a trip to Los Angeles and expenses.

Solzhenitsyn a nice guy but...

I didn't know how I felt about Alex Solzhenitsyn going around the United States mean-mouthin our foreign policy until I remembered how much time, effort, anxiety and money Americans wasted in 1950 building fall-out shelters.

When an American flees America — to Cuba, Russia, Africa, wherever — and begins to make public statements over there condemning our government over here we expect that.

Alexander Solzhenitsyn is in much the same position over here now. He cannot possibly be objective where East-West diplomacy is concerned.

Our freedom of speech entitles him to speak his piece, but his words are not written in stone. And overtly to try to influence U.S. foreign policy is just plain bad manners for any newcomer.

Yet anybody who is interested, for any reason, in driving a wedge between President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger has tried to make this exiled Russian author that wedge.

Solzhenitsyn, in his zeal to protect us from the Russians who imprisoned him, seems to forget that if today's Soviets were as ruthless as he proclaims them to be — he'd not be here talking about it.

I hope Paul Harvey can examine the principle of detente without being suspected of siding with the Communists. I was seeking to alert our citizenry to that menace a long time before Solzhenitsyn was.

But some of us have sought to keep our intellectual arteries sufficiently pliable to adapt to inevitable change. Today's mainmost menace to the United States is not the Soviet Union.

Indeed, we have much more to fear from homefolks who are so irresponsible that they are about to prove that freedom won't work here, either!

But that is a digression. Let's get back to Solzhenitsyn's theme that our country "sold out Eastern Europe" by attending the summit meeting in Helsinki. He construes any getting-together as a threat to us and as support for Russian ruthlessness.

Secretary Kissinger asks the valid question, "What do those opposed to getting along with other nations propose as an alternative? Solzhenitsyn wants the United States to pursue an aggressive policy to overthrow the Soviet system.

"I believe," says Kissinger, "that if his views became the national policy of the United States they would sustain hostility and might well eventuate in war."

Kissinger considers that option unacceptable, and so do I. Now this big brouhaha about selling wheat to Russia.

The United States needs those dollars more than Russia needs that wheat. It is those incoming wheat dollars which are offsetting our outgoing oil dollars. We are "using" the Russians altogether as much as they are "using" us.

I would agree with the Soviet author that Russia respects firmness. All nations do. The United States needs to practice a little "enlightened selfishness" for a change.

Can pay hike raise esteem?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "I attempted to make an amendment on the floor of the House (of Representatives) to make the salary of congressmen a minimum of $5,000 and a maximum of $50,000, and provided that every member should come in at the beginning of the session and sign an affidavit as to what he thought he was worth within that range, and that is what he would be paid."

Such was the cynical reaction of Congressman Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) to the debate on raising congressional salaries by providing every member and his staff with regular automatic cost of living increases from here on out — so that they never again will personally feel the effects of inflation, so worrisome in the lives of all the rest of us, their constituents. Hays, nevertheless, voted for the raise.

As has been reported, this perpetual cost of living increment, along with similar favors for federal judges, several thousand top government officials and 600 generals, was so unobtrusively tacked on to a minor Post Office bill and so carefully shepherded by Senate and House leaders that passage was quick and with little debate.

The entire action was carefully orchestrated to be introduced and passed before public opinion was aroused and thousands of nasty editorials written — a development which could have killed the raises aborning.

In the midst of the short debate, Representative Bauman, (R-Md.) observed in a session with his colleagues " . . . you know what is happening in this circle of canary-eating grins . . . "

But the ayes had it. Sen. Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) argued that the Congress had to do something "to help those members who are barely getting along with their $42,500 salary . . . "

Congressman Peter Peyser (R-N.Y.), on the House side, said that the economics of being a congressman "are murder." He indicated that coming to Congress had been an economic disaster for him, but that he was willing to make this sacrifice in the public good. However, he wanted the raise.

One representative emphasized that even the boost being voted would not catch congressmen up with the 40 some per cent cost of living increase since their last raise.

A number of congressmen, who will remain nameless, piously argued they did not want or need the increase but were going to vote for it. Since other officials were getting increases, they said, it would be unfair for Congressmen not to vote equal benefits for themselves. It would smack of discrimination.

It was also argued that if congressmen didn't vote raises for themselves, they might in due time have some staff members earning more than congressmen.

But the ultimate rationalization was put forward by Rep. Abner J. Mikva (D-Ill.), who, noting that only 15 per cent of those questioned in a recent poll approved of the way Congress has been acting, argued that their low salaries is the cause of the low esteem in which senators and representatives are held. The solution, and the key to greater respect, Mikva indicated, was to raise congressional pay.

With these compelling arguments before them, the Senate voted the raises by 58 to 29 and the House by a slippery 214 to 213. One man, Rep. Herbert Burke (R-Fla.) changed his vote to aye in midstream, saying the day for those who believed themselves overworked and underpaid.

The majority was in no mood to listen to those who argued caution. Rep. William Armstrong (R-Colo.) expressed the view of a minority when he asked " . . . are we going to insulate ourselves from the concerns of our constituents? We are so pampered and so coddled and so isolated from the day-to-day concerns . . . (of) our people at home . . . it becomes almost impossible for us to represent them."

I concur.

Heartline: I have been receiving Social Security retirement benefits, but this year I returned to work. However, I will not work after December. My earnings will be considerable and I would like to know if my benefits may increase. — T.R.

Answer: Earnings credited to a Social Security beneficiary after he retires are reviewed each year. Any benefit increase due because of these additional earnings is automatically processed during the year after the year of earnings. For example, 1975 earnings would be reviewed in 1976 after the employer reports are processed, and any increase would be fully retroactive to January 1976.

Heartline: Is there a bill that has been introduced to provide for a cost of living raise every six months instead of once a year? — Mrs. P.L.

Answer: Yes. H.R. 3138 introduced by Rep. Robert Traxler, D-Mich., to amend the Social Security Act so that the automatic cost of living increase in Social Security benefits may be made on a semiannual basis, rather than the present annual basis.

Heartline: Could you tell me about your guide to medicare? — Mr. J. J.

Peeling onions without crying

Dear Readers: With everything that is happening in the world, do you know what people are concerned about this week? Would you believe it's how to peel onions without crying?

Recently I printed a letter froma reader who had the thing licked. "I learned the trick from my mother-in-law," she boasted. And then she went on to say, "If you start at the root of the onion and peel up you'll never shed a tear."

Well, I did a little home research and ended up with bloodshot eyes and a runny nose. I told my "little helper" to give my regards to her mother-in-law.

This is what the mail has been like all week:

"Weep no more, my lady. Just put an electric fan on your work-counter when you peel onions and it will blow all those awful fumes away." — Michigan Fan

"Why cry when you can put a plastic bag over your head and get the job done dry-eyed and in record time?" — Cincinnati Clara

"Our home-ec teacher taught us how to peel onions and keep smiling. Just put on sunglasses, sweetie." — Atlanta Fan

"If you stick a whole slice of white bread in your mouth you'll never shed a tear. Grandma taught me this trick when I was a bride." — Grand Rapids Fan

"No more bawling over the onions. Not since my next-door neighbor told me to slice them submerged in a bowl of cold water. But be careful and don't cut your finger." — Rosemary In Rochester

"Just put the onions in the freezer for 15 or 20 minutes before you cut them and your problem is solved." — Las Vegas Hash Slinger

"My great uncle served in World War One and brought a gas mask home from France as a souvenir. The darned thing is perfect for peeling onions. But don't answer the door wearing one. The paper boy came to collect one day and the poor kid almost fainted." — St. Louis

"Put a clothespin on your nose and keep your mouth open. It never fails." — Memphis, Tenn.

"I wear my husband's motorcycle helmet with the goggles when I slice onions and I haven't shed a tear since I thought the stunt up." — Manhattan Cook

"Put a large hunk of raw potato in your mouth and you'll never cry over an onion again as long as you live." — Jackson, Miss.

"If you wear contact lenses keep them in. They make your eyes 'onion proof.' " — Little Rock

So, there you are, Dear Ones, a whole host of helpful hints to choose from. But remember — I'm not guaranteeing any of them. You're strictly on your own. And please don't write and tell me what works and what doesn't. If I never see another letter about onions again it will be too soon. — Yours Truly, ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've been sitting here for 30 minutes trying to say this in language you can print. Here's the best I can do. After 15 years of marriage my husband is suggesting things I think are far out. What is right and what is wrong in married sex? —N.N.

Dear N.N.: There's no "right" or "wrong." If two people agree, anything is O.K. It's up to them to decide. Note, I said TWO people.

Telephone's the 'blower'

A client of British extraction asks how Englanders came to refer to the telephone as "the blower." Long ago, it was the practice at the outset of a call to blow into the receiver. To her if the line were live. That's what our Language man found out. He did not find out, though, how, Americans came to refer to the telephone as "the horn."

MOST COLLEGE men like and most college women dislike to neck at length on dates. Or had you surmised as much? Anyhow, a study by Robert O. Blood at the University of Michigan has proved that fact.

CROWBAR HOLE

Q. "What's a crowbar hole?"

A. That's what the citizenry in Oklahoma calls a knot hole in a house wall. You push a crowbar through it to test the wind. If the crowbar bends, the wind is normal. If it breaks, you'd better not go outside.

REMEMBER, the temperature of your liver is always a degree or two higher than the temperature of your kidneys.

CREWMEN on Great Britain's royal yacht Britannia are required to wear gym shoes to silence their footsteps on the decks.

YOU KNOW that Mt. Rushmore sculpture of Abraham Lincoln's face? It's so big a man can stand upright inside of one eye. This comes to mind because a client asks how far away you can see those chiseled faces on a clear day. About 60 miles.

BALD

Argument continues over the claim that men who can wiggle their ears rarely get bald. But a note from a customer says that must be right. "I can only wiggle my right ear," he says, "and my bald spot is distinctly over on the left." Remarkable! Wish he'd sent a snapshot.

MAYBE YOU know the gourmet delicacy known as pate de foie gras is made from the enlarged livers of well fattened geese. But do you know how those geese get well fattened? Women in Eastern Europe force feed the birds by pushing potato dumplings down their throats with their fingers. Chet L. Switell told me that, too.

Dr. Miller

Nervous pup heriditary?

DEAR DR. MILLER: Yesterday I bought a 10-week-old mostly shepherd puppy. Today I am wondering if I got the wrong one. He is quite friendly with me, but he kind of jumps at everything he sees. I never saw such a nervous pup. Was he born unstrung or will he get over it?

— H. U.

DEAR H. U.: By now you probably have the answer. If he is already coming out of his shell, it may simply have been a case of no previous exposure to anything new or strange. He may have led a very sheltered life with little, if any, new input or stimuli. But if he has shown no improvement to date, hereditary factors merit more consideration. He should by now have been thoroughly checked over by his doctor, who may have found a physical defect such as poor eyesight to be a factor.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When Tidy, our cat, was shedding so much a few months ago, I thought she was getting rid of her winter coat. I guess she was. The trouble is she got rid of her winter coat, her spring coat, her summer coat. Now she must be working on her fall coat because she is still shedding. By the bucketful all over the house. It is now to the point where if we are wearing light colored clothes and we get out of the house fast in the morning. We don't dare sit anywhere or we'll be covered with Tidy's black hair.

I can't understand how come she is not bald. My husband, wishing she was, threatened to shave her so she would have no more to lose. The questions are (a) how could she possibly still have any hairs left and (b) should we shave her or is there some way we can get her to hold on to her hair?

— B. S.

DEAR B. S.: Household cats tend to shed partly in response to generation of light, natural and artificial. The old dead hair is pushed upward in the skin and finally lost as the newly arrived hair grows in to replace it. Varied stages of this process occur continuously in any given area of the skin, over the entire body. Under normal circumstances then, the lost dead hair is replaced by new living strands.

Some cats have a more rapid cycle (hence more rapid hair loss and replacement) than others. Medication may, on occasion, also slow this cycle and thus reduce the number of dead hairs being lost at any one time. Most often though, it's a case of daily gentle brushing, combing to remove as many of these dead hairs as possible at one time. Frequent follow-ups with vacuum cleaning equipment remain the most efficient way of minimizing the free floating and other dead hair which is strewn about. Shaving Tidy would solve the problem for a time, but would cause other, even greater, problems during and after the deed, so don't do it.

Testy over driving tests

In my day I have driven a hundred different cars, big and little, new and old, on mountain, plain and suburb, fair weather and foul. I have driven motorcycles and 4-ton trucks. I can frequently travel miles along the freeway with hardly more than a scraped fender or dented bumper.

What I cannot do, however, is pass the driver's written examination for a license.

In the first place, my old schoolboy neuroses return in Technicolor whenever anyone hands me a pencil and a list of questions. I had a teacher, way back then, who seemed to my young eyes eight feet tall and 100 years old. Miss Honoria Schultz had grey hair and thick glasses and carried a ruler.

When I enter the office of the Department of Motor Vehicles to apply for a license, the Schultz shadow rises like a specter, and the palms of my hands begin to smart again with the smack of a long-stilled ruler.

Taking my examination sheet in nerveless fingers, I listen unheeding to the brusque instructions of the clerk. Read the instructions. How to Answer the Questions: If your answer is YES mark an X in the box like this. If your answer is NO, do not make any mark in the box. That's a cinch.

Then it says, "Passing grade — six errors or less." I'm dead. On all examinations, I START with six errors. Sometimes I misspell my name. I hear a ghostly Schultzian chuckle; dew bespangles my brow.

1. "Does the law say you need not dim or lower your headlight beams until you come within 200 feet of an oncoming car?" Does the law say — would you mind repeating that? Does the law say . . . . ?

What do they want? I'm in agony. I know you have to dim your lights. I put in an X, then erase it. You need not —? I turn to ask the clerk and find myself unconsciously raising my hand.

2. "Is it true that you are not permitted to drive with just your parking lamps lighted?" It is true that you — huh? No, it is not true that you are permitted — or rather, it isn't not true that you aren't not — no, you can't. Leave it blank.

On goes the litany of vehicle code laws I have apparently been violating for years. Yes, it is true that you are not permitted to slow down when . . . No, the law does or does not allow you to pass or fail to pass when . . . . Yes, I am slowly going mad.

When at long last I turn in my test paper, I stand there waiting nonchalantly for the results, a cigarette in each hand and another in my mouth. The clerk glances over the paper and emits a low whistle. Fellow clerks come and gaze in awe.

In 35 years I have driven 985,760 miles without an accident, but I flunk the driving test. From the results I am apparently stupid, careless and malicious and how strong suicidal tendencies.

I said to the DMV clerk, "Is it true or not true, that you will or will not consider my application for a license?"

Then I walked off, leaving him scratching his head.

Dr. Lamb

This diet asks for trouble

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me what I am doing wrong. How much weight can one expect to lose on a 400-500 calorie diet? I do not cheat. My daily exercise is the routine housekeeping plus a two-mile or more walk plus a half-hour bicycle ride.

According to some information I should be losing at least 10 pounds per week, but all I can manage is six. I am female, 46, and have lots to lose. I want to do it quickly.

DEAR READER — What are you doing wrong? Going on a 400-500 calorie diet. That is an invitation to developing a number of medical disorders and is not safe. As a rule of thumb no one should go on a diet of less than 1200 calories a day without medical supervision. And the maximum one should be losing after the first week (when you lose fluid and empty the digestive system which is not loss of fat) is about two pounds a week.

Your diet must be deficient in calcium and a number of important vitamins.

Now, let's do a little sensible, plain arithmetic. A pound of body fat contains 3500 calories. If you are losing six pounds of fat a week that would mean your body used 21,000 calories more than you ate or an average of 3000 calories a day. Add to that the 500 you are eating, and your body under present conditions would be using 3500 calories a day. That is a lot of calories for women. Your two-mile walk a day uses only about 120 calories. The bicycling will be helpful, but the amount of calories used depends on speed and other factors. It is likely, though that you are using more than 400 calories for this, so your exercise program uses perhaps as much as 600 calories a day.

What happens to the other 2900 calories a day? Do you really think your daily housekeeping and basal needs would use that many calories? I don't.

Then why are you losing so much weight? If you are, it means you are losing important muscle tissue, not just fat. When you get through with that program you will have lost a lot of body strength, and you will have altered your body so that it will be more difficult for you to avoid obesity in the future.

Muscle cells use more energy at rest than fat cells. As you lose them the amount of energy your body uses at rest will decrease. Crash diets lead to loss of vital muscle tissue.

The proper way to lose weight is to lose fat, not muscle, gradually. It is good to have an exercise program along with a diet to protect against loss of muscles.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, 78, has to get up every night with cramps in his leg, sometimes in both legs. The cramps are very painful. First he thought it came from eating eggs once a week, but he hasn't eaten any for a long time now. He doesn't eat any fatty meat. Will you please explain what he can do about the cramps?

DEAR READER — He will need a careful examination. He may have poor circulation to his legs and feet. Don't let him put it off.

For relief of symptoms he might get some benefit by wearing long, wool socks to bed at night. Keeping the feet warm with some safe device such as warm socks often helps prevent cramps. That is not a substitute for a good examination as he may need some medicine or other treatment.

Astrographs

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Wednesday, Sept. 10

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The actions of one you're very fond of will disappoint you today. However, she'll soon be back in your good graces.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Early today you won't take your commitments as seriously as you should. Later you'll rationalize your reasons.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Though it may be a trifle inconvenient, shop a bit to get better prices today for even the little things.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Shun stores carrying luxury items that might tempt you today. Your will is far weaker than your whim.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You find dozens of flimsy reasons for not handling an unpleasant situation today. It will have to be resolved eventually. Why not do it now?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful or your little flirtations today could cause you some embarrassment. Though they may be harmless, they could offend a third party.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This can be a profitable day if you keep your mind on business. Forgo pleasurable pursuits till serious matters are attended to.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lots of little interruptions early in the day will sidetrack you temporarily. Later you'll get in high gear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You won't be able to call the shots as independently as you'd like today. Another will have some control over your comings and going.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't expect more from friends and associates today than you would be prepared to give, if the roles were reversed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Goals important to you can be attained now, if you don't saddle yourself with any ally lacing initiative.

Your Birthday Sept. 10

A friendship of a lasting nature will be developed this coming year with one slightly older than yourself. This person can be relied upon when a real pal is needed.

Jacoby's bridge

With any sort of excuse

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It has been said that bad cards make bad players. We aren't sure that this is so, but we do know that bad players tend to do even worse with bad cards.

West had one queen and no singleton and resigned himself to a loss the moment he looked at his hand.

Thus, it never occurred to him that when his partner bid all the way up to four clubs on his own that four spades to the queen-10 would warrant a four-spade bid.

Furthermore, West's hand fulfilled one requirement for a sacrifice bid. He was pretty sure that South would make four hearts.

South did just that, but look what would have happened if West had pulled himself together and bid four spades.

North and South might have gone on to five hearts — down one. They might have doubled four spades or let East play there. If they had they would have been sorry. East would make four spades with no trouble at all.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregonian asks what sort of hand South should have. North has opened one diamond, East has doubled and South has bid one notrump.

The answer to this one depends on partnership understanding, but in common with almost all experts and bridge teachers we play the bid to show eight or nine high-card points, a balanced distribution and certainly no five-card major suit.

Kibler and Abel vows exchanged

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Allen Kibler have established a home in Azusa, following their marriage at Sierra Madre Congregational Church.

The bride, the former Marjorie Jean Abel, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Abel of Glendora. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Allen Kibler of La Verne.

Twins' moms invited to annual fete

The Pomona Mothers of Twins Club has planned its annual membership party on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Marylen Hart at 7:30 p.m.

An evening of games is planned for members and prospective members to acquaint them with the organization.

Mrs. Edla Becker will report to the group on her recent trip to New York City where she attended the National Mothers of Twins Convention.

MRS. PHILIP O'BRIEN

Miss Betty Lou Karns of Pomona and Philip J. O'Brien of West Covina were married recently in the garden of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lois Clifford of Pomona.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Karns of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil B. O'Brien of Covina were married in an afternoon garden ceremony read by the Rev. Keith Korstjens.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Lori Karns of Orange.

Following the rite, a poolside reception was held. When the couple returns from a wedding trip to San Diego, the newlyweds will establish a home in Newport Beach.

Joyce Brothers
Expects fidelity

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I married my husband two years ago and after the first year he started to be restless and unfaithful. Maybe it started even before then, but at least that's when I began to notice he was having extramarital affairs. He now admits that he can't be content with one woman and he says it wouldn't make any difference who the woman was. He thinks he's perfectly healthy and that this is the normal state of man. He says he's just smarter or more honest than the rest.

Do you think all males are like this, and am I just being naive in expecting some kind of emotional fidelity? — P.T.

Dear P.T.: This may be a normal state for immature men and women but adults of either sex who cannot find contentment and happiness without running frantically from one human being to another are in trouble. They are seeking not the gratification of adult, mature love goals but the fulfillment of infantile, immature cravings.

Frequently, the person who turns himself into a kind of on-again, off-again vending machine is afraid of close relationships. As long as the encounter is brief and fleeting, he will not have to expose his innermost feelings and he will not be subjected to really looking into and sharing the feelings of another person. Such a person is afraid of responsibility, of any kind of commitment and so limits himself to strangers. The moment he gets involved or starts to know or care for someone, he runs.

In your case, your husband is running by deliberately setting out to destroy his relationship.

The sexually promiscuous adult who finds it impossible to settle down with any one person may be in flight from himself. He may be rushing from one heterosexual encounter to another in a desperate attempt to prove to himself and others that what he fears most is not true — that he is homosexual and that he really neither likes nor appreciates women. Oddly, admitted homosexuals often have a much deeper understanding and appreciation of women than this particular kind of male.

In general, promiscuity in a man is an effort to find a loving mother. He is a man who has never broken the childhood relationship with his mother. He may unconsciously feel that if he really gets to know and love a woman, he is being unfaithful to his mother, while as long as his relationships with other women are fleeting, his mother wouldn't mind.

No, you are not being naive in expecting more than you're receiving from your husband. Unless he gets professional help, your marriage is doomed to failure. There is no reason for two lives to be ruined, however, and if he refuses to recognize his need for help, then it may be necessary to leave him in order to save yourself.

JO ALENE BENTLEY

Winter nuptials charted

Mrs. Milton Bentley of La Verne announces the engagement of her daughter Jo Alene to Timothy Keith Bateman of Montclair.

The bride-to-be is a recent graduate of Citrus College where she majored in nursing. She is a graduate of Claremont High School.

Miss Bentley is also the daughter of the late Milton Bentley.

Mr. Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar D. Roe of Montclair, is employed by Plaza Villa Apartments in Montclair. He is a graduate of Montclair High School.

The couple will be married February, 1976.

Beginners dance class scheduled

A beginners square dance class will be sponsored on Wednesday evenings by the Star Steppers Square Dance Club.

Jim Garlow will be the instructor for the classes at Washington Park Clubhouse, Towne and Grand Avenues, at 8 p.m.

Singles are welcome and teen-agers may participate if accompanied by an adult. Registration will be open for three weeks.

The Star Steppers Club dance is planned Saturday at 8 p.m. at Washington Park with Lou Sperling as caller. A Back-to-School theme is planned.

Tropical

Lightly drizzle sliced bananas with rum. Flavor whipping cream with chocolate extract and instant coffee powder; beat to soft peaks and fold in roasted diced almonds. Spoon over bananas.

Hospital tour set by group

The San Antonio Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary has planned its annual organizational coffee in the Aita Auditorium of the hospital from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Sept. 15.

Members of the board of directors will review the purposes of the auxiliary. Also there will be a preview of the new emergency outpatient area which will soon be open for use. Mrs. George M. Gibson, president of the auxiliary, will welcome members and guests which include presidents and representatives of community organizations.

SOMETHING TO HOWL ABOUT — This plush setting in the northwest Chicago suburb of Barrington has "gone to the dogs." It is the proving ground for pet food developed by Quaker Oats Co. The grounds feature immaculate individual kennels, play areas and maternity and hospital quarters. Pets are catered to by white-cloaked attendants.

Pets really pampered in this home

BARRINGTON, Ill. (AP) — A dog's life? More than 500 cats and 300 dogs live in a swanky setting where all they have to do is eat.

Research scientists and veterinarians oversee the colony which is operated by the Quaker Oats Co. as a proving ground for pet food.

Few cats or dogs in the world are raised with silver spoons in their mouths like these pets in their immaculate individual kennels, play areas, and maternity and hospital quarters. They room and board in and around an updated mansion on an estate hugged by trees and flowers in this fashionable suburb northwest of Chicago.

And few cats or dogs are watched over so closely. Their meals are assayed by analytic and organic chemistry staffs, exploring nutritional theories and food acceptability.

Food is served on stainless steel dishes wheeled to the "taste panels" on stainless steel carts by white-cloaked attendants.

Small amounts of newly developed pet food are fed to white mice, guinea pigs and hamsters before being offered to the dog and cat colony.

The dogs and cats test their taste buds not only on Quaker products but also on competitors' pet foods and reactions are carefully noted.

If they turn up their noses at a certain meal — it doesn't happen very often — it's back to the drawing board. If they gobble with unusual gusto and it turns out to be a competitors' brand, conferences are called and midnight oil burned.

All age groups are evaluated in testing what is best liked in terms of flavor, texture, odor and appearance. The number of dogs and cats is steadily maintained by newborns, and there even is an "old folks" home.

Several different breeds of dogs, all registered with the American Kennel Club, are in the colony.

"For instance, we have boxers because they have nose and mouth problems in getting at the food," said a specialist. "We have pointers, a hypertensive breed prone to have nervous stomachs. There are dachshunds, they have back problems. We have labradors because of their largeness and little poodles because of reaction to particle sizes of food."

The cats mainly are domestic shorthairs, better known as alley cats, plus a few Siamese. They live in fluorescent-lighted, pastel-colored rooms with scratching trees and resting shelves and stroll in a large aluminum screened porch.

"Nothing is too good for our cats and dogs," says the specialist.

Bus firms offer low-cost fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Greyhound Lines and Continental Trailways Bus Co. both announced Monday that they will offer low cost tickets that will allow all Americans unlimited travel on their bus lines for one week.

Greyhound made its announcement at a Washington news conference. Trailways announced a similar far in newspaper ads.

The Greyhound plan will allow travelers to go anywhere in the United States on Greyhound buses for one week for $76. Trailways will offer the same plan for $75.

Greyhound said its tickets would be offered for sale today and would be good for travel through Dec. 15. Trailways said its tickets will be effective for the same period.

Greyhound also announced it will offer a 15-day pass for $125 effective Sept. 15 through April 30. Greyhound already offers a one month pass for $175 and a two month pass for $250.

The new fares will allow big savings for bus passengers. For example, Greyhound said the normal round trip fare between Washington and Los Angeles is $247.20. The trip takes 69 hours each way.

The new fares follow on the heels of the Trailways proposal approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission last week that will allow unemployed Americans to take trips at one half the regular fare.

Greyhound said it did not intend to match that fare because it felt the Trailways' proposal was too selective.

"You can be drawing unemployment and still have more money than a pensioner," said Greyhound's director of sales, Charles Kirkpatrick.

Ford's son influences 2 new cars

DETROIT (AP) — Those who buy one of Ford Motor Company's 1976 Stallion or Cobra models will be driving a car designed in part by the firm's heir-apparent, Edsel B. Ford II.

"I found we didn't have a '75 or '76 product that seemed to be youth-oriented," said Ford, 26, son of company Board Chairman Henry Ford II.

"Cars like this are very big in California. We wanted to hit the 18 to 30 age group with something exciting."

The Stallions are sporty versions of the Pinto, Maverick, and Mustang II, while the Cobra II is a milk-toast version of the Shelby GT-350 which screamed through the mid 1960s.

The models feature special paint and other sporty embellishments and have a black-on-red stallion head on the front fenders. The head was one of Edsel's contributions, too.

He says the Cobra II will get 35 miles per gallon, but is also available with a less fuel-conscious V8.

Edsel "was very deeply involved" in the Stallion-Cobra work, said a Ford spokesman.

"When he says they were his idea, he's right," said Allen Patrick, who managed the Stallion research project.

Ford Vice President William P. Benton said the youth market "was thoroughly researched" and planners and designers created "small cars specifically tailored to what the young buyer wants."

"One other guy and I worked on the research," said Edsel. Helping young Ford was Vince Fazio, a research analyst in the Ford Design Center, where Edsel worked when the project was created last year.

Now, he's working in the Detroit District Sales Office.

"I helped plan them, now I have to learn how to sell them," he said.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 9, the 252nd day of 1975. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1893, for the first time in the history of the United States, a child was born to the first lady in the White House. Mrs. Grover Cleveland became the mother of a baby girl.

On this date ...

In 1776, the term "United States" became official in a ruling of the Second Continental Congress.

In 1830, Charles Durant made early aviation history by flying in a balloon from New York City across the Hudson River to Perth Amboy, N.J.

In 1850, California was admitted to the Union as the 31st state.

In 1919, Boston police went on strike and Massachusetts Governor Calvin Coolidge ruled they would not be permitted to return to their jobs on grounds they had no right to strike and endanger the public safety.

In 1926, the National Broadcasting Company was formed as a service of the Radio Corporation of America.

In 1946, the formal surrender of about one million Japanese soldiers in China took place in Nanking.

Ten years ago: President Charles DeGaulle indicated that France would withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1969.

One year ago: On his one-month anniversary in office, President Ford encountered his first public protest and much Congressional criticism over his pardoning of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Gov. Cooke of Rhode Island informed George Washington that a Frenchman by the name of Du Ville offered to provide a vessel with French documents and sail it to Bayonne, N.J., where he was confident he could procure a large quantity of gunpowder.

Safety standards questioned after hepatitis cases

CHICAGO (AP) — Two recent hepatitis epidemics caused by contaminated oysters raise serious questions about the adequacy of government safety standards, a team of public health investigators say.

The outbreaks, in October and November 1973, affected 263 persons in Houston, Tex., and 15 in Calhoun, Ga., who had eaten raw oysters harvested from two bays in the East Delta marshes of Plaquemines Parish in southern Louisiana.

The investigators, reporting in the Sept. 8 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, noted that the bays had been contaminated with polluted Mississippi River water two months before the oysters were harvested.

But at the time of harvest, they said, the bays met specifications set forth by the National Shellfish Sanitation Program for an approved shellfish growing area.

Because of that, "these outbreaks raise important questions about the adequacy of current shellfish certification programs," said the team, headed by Dr. Benjamin L. Portnoy of the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta.

The team noted that the water safety tests measure the amount of coliform bacteria, but do not test the virus content of the water. Hepatitis, a seriously debilitating liver disease, is frequently caused by a virus.

The Houston outbreak occurred among persons who had eaten at a local seafood restaurant. Those affected in Georgia had eaten a seafood dinner at a private club.

"Oysters can filter as many as 40 liters of water an hour to obtain oxygen and nutrients, and thus, may be exposed to tremendous quantities of microorganisms in polluted water," Portnoy and his colleagues pointed out.

At present, they note, no laboratory tests exist for isolating the hepatitis A virus, the type which caused the outbreak.

They say the 1973 epidemics offer evidence, that the oysters may be able to retain the virus for at least six weeks.

Murderer gets life sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man convicted of killing one of two hitchiking women he attacked on a beach has been sentenced to life in prison.

Clarence Ferguson, 34, will have to serve at least 10 years before becoming eligible for parole, Superior Court Judge Edward Cragen ruled in passing sentence.

Ferguson was convicted June 26 of killing Janet Rodgers, 20, with a shotgun blast to her head and assaulting Julia Kehlig, 20, who played dead after being shot last January.

Miss Kehlig is a nursing student from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Miss Rodgers also was from Ohio.

Sentencing of Ferguson had been delayed from last month while Judge Cragen considered motions for a new trial, which he denied.

Vermeil claims UCLA is better

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Dick Vermeil of UCLA states flatly he'll have a better football team than in his inaugural 1974 season primarily because of improvenent in the offense.

Quarterback John Sciarra could be one of the best in the nation and Vermeil has a bevy of solid running backs for his veer-T offense.

Yet the coach continues to worry about the defense, which gets its first test Saturday night at the Los Angeles Coliseun against the Cyclones of Iowa State.

Offensively, Vermeil expects to start Carl Zaby and Kenny Lee at running backs, a surprise to those who thought the jobs would go to the speedy Wendell Tyler and Eddie Ayers, both lettermen who started often last season.

But Tyler has been fumbling in practice and Ayers is still recovering from a spring knee operation.

Both, however, are expected to see action against Iowa State.

UCLA is more experienced this season and Vermeil said, "That's a big advantage on both offense and defense. A man may be fast but he loses some of that speed if he has to think about what he is doing. With experience, he'll do it more automatically and faster."

Vermeil added, "We'll be a good football team, but I don't know how good. I like to believe we'll have a good season, but with the schedule the way it is, I know we'll have to battle.

"We can't overlook anybody."

In addition to Iowa State, the nonconference slate includes Tennessee, the Air Force and Ohio State.

Although UCLA has put in the drop-back pass as part of its offense, Vermeil emphasized at a Monday meeting with sportswriters that "we are a running team. That is our strength and the nature of the veer offense. We also have people who can catch the ball and can score. We must be sure we get the ball to them."

Split end Norm Andersen, has an injured finger but Vermeil hopes he'll be ready to play against Iowa State. Wally Henry has a pulled groin muscle but is expected to play.

Vermeil rates the tight end position as possibly the strongest for the Bruins with Don Pederson and Rick Walker the top two at the spot. Pederson is expected to start because he got in extra practice while Walker was nursing an injury.

A move that switched Cliff Frazier to middle guard from his previous tackle position has proved gratifying.

"We decided to make that change and also to put our five best on the offensive line regardless of what position they had played before," Vermeil said. "We are gratified with the result."

FLYING TIGER Missouri's Tony Galbreath goes airborne to score a first quarter touchdown against No. 2 ranked Alabama. Galbreath rushed for 120 yards as the Tigers enjoyed upset.

Missouri shows up 'Bama

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Tuesday, September 9, 1975

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Perhaps Bear Bryant didn't believe it the first time, so Missouri showed him again.

In their only previous meeting, Missouri bushwhacked 'Bama 35-10 in the Gator Bowl following the 1968 campaign. Al Onofrio, who coached the Tigers' defensive line the first time, was the head coach Monday night when Missouri impressed a national television audience and depressed a pro-Alabama crowd of 63,000 by doing it again 20-7 in the season opener for both clubs.

The outcome thrust Missouri squarely into the Big Eight Conference picture and, since defending national Oklahoma is ranked No. 1 again at this stage of the season, it also pushed the Tigers into the national spotlight.

And the end to its 22-game regular-season winning streak may have signaled an early demise to Southeastern Conference power Alabama's preseason dream of its first national crown in a decade, a squad which Tennessee's Bill Battle has labeled "the best collection of talent ever assembled in the South."

Even though Missouri was a three-touchdown underdog, it was no fluke, this trouncing which Bryant called "a good ol' sound country beating." Alabama's famed Wishbone, which averaged 299 rushing yards a game last year, managed only 31 measly yards in 34 attempts, although a good chunk was lost via late quarterback sacks when the Crimson Tide was trying futilely to play catch-up.

In that 1968 Gator Bowl disaster, Missouri stifled Alabama with minus 45 yards on the ground and there were some other similarities Monday night—like occasional sevenand eight-man defensive fronts and a succession of weak-side blitzes.

The statistics showed Missouri outrushed Alabaoa 206 yards to 31 and outgained the Tide over-all 257-118. But it wasn't even that close as the Tigers scored a touchdown and field goal in each of the first two periods for a 20-0 halftime bulge and settled down to a more conservative brand of offensive football thereafter while the traditionally rugged defense made Alabama's faces redder than their crimson uniforms.

"I think we were pretty forunate not to be beaten worse," said Bryant, whose scoffed-at prediction that Missouri "might manhandle us again" came all too true. "They beat us worse than the score indicates. They ate us on the line of scrimmage, which is where it all starts. Particularly their defense against our offense. And I don't recall anybody keeping the ball that much against us in 10 years. They must have set some kind of record for offensive plays.

"I had no idea they would shut us off the way they did. We've got to establish a running game to move the ball, but we couldn't."

The stunning triumph was another in Missouri's amazing string of upsets over the past four years, starting with the 30-26 shocker over Notre Dame in 1972. The following week Colorado fell. In 1973 Nebraska was the victim. Last season it was Baylor, Arizona State and Nebraska again.

"The latest one always seems the best," Onofrio said, "but I have to rank this one right up there with the victory over Notre Dame. I've never had a Missouri team fight any harder than this one. Beating Alabama down here in Birmingham was a big thing."

Tony Galbreath led the way by rushing for 120 yards, 89 in the first half, and scored Missouri's first touchdown on a three-yard burst with just seven minutes gone in the game. John Blakeman got the other touchdown on a nine-yard run in the second quarter while Tim Gibbons booted field goals of 44 and 46 yards—the two longest of his career—and a whippet-quick, pursuit-minded defense led by tackles Keith Morrissey and Randy Frisch and second-stringer Tom Cooper rammed and jammed the ball down Alabama's craw all evening.

"We knew what we had to do and we just went out and did it," said quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, who directed the formation attack with a few doses of double-wing to near perfection.

Four coaches make debuts

Four area coaches will be getting their baptism into the local prep grid scene when the season opens next Friday.

The four newcomers, Dick Larson at Damien, Rich Bare at Montclair, John Rode at La Verne Lutheran and Bob Williams at American Christian, have to be looking forward to the start of the football campaign just a little bit more than the valley's "veteran" grid mentors.

"I'm expecting to see one heck of a battle for the SAL crown," states Larson, who before coming to Damien was the head coach at Cantwell High in Montebello. "There are so many natural rivalrys in the SAL that on a given night any of the eight teams can get fired-up and knock off another squad.

"I'm really looking forward to coaching in this league," Larson continued. "It's going to be a challenge every week."

For Montclair's Bare, Lutheran's Rode and American's Williams, 1975 will also mark their debuts as varsity football coaches at the high school level.

Perry retiring

In contrast, this fall will mark Webb School's Les Perry's 27th, and last, season as head coach of the Gauls.

The flamboyant Perry, who was involved in coaching before some of the current valley mentors were born, will have Webb running out of the single wing attack again this season.

"Alas, after I go there will be no more single wing in the whole wide world," laments the vet Webb skipper. Perry, who guided the Gauls to a string of Arrowhead League titles in the 1960's, looks for his squad to "win one for the old Gipper" in his farewell season. If not the A.L. title, than at least an upset of heavy Arrowhead favorites Big Bear, Notre Dame or Aquinas along the way.

Playoff dates set

The CIF office has announced the playoff calendar for 1975 fall sports. The 1A through 4A football playoffs will get underway November 21, the 1A championship tilt slated for Dec. 12 with the upper three divisions being decided Dec. 19.

The cross country prelims will be held Nov. 22 with the Southern Section finals scheduled for Nov. 29. 3A and 4A waterpolo finals are set for Dec. 5.

Girls' volleyball Southern Section prelims go on Nov. 15 through Nov. 22, with the finals slated for Nov. 25. Girls' individual tennis CIF finals will be held Dec. 6, with the team tennis finale scheduled for Dec. 4.

Munoz tabbed

In case you hadn't noticed, Chaffey High's Anthony Munoz was tabbed as one of the nation's top college prospects in an article in Sunday's Family Weekly PB supplement.

Munoz and 30 other prepsters from across the U.S. were picked by a group of college recruiters as the top prospects for future stardom among high school seniors.

A 6-5, 245-pounder, Munoz will be hard for the fans to miss at his defensive tackle this season for the Tigers, but will be hard to stop for Chaffey's opponents.

Other Southern Cal preps cited in the article included quarterback Paul McDonald of Bishop Amat, running back Fred Ford of St. John Bosco High in Bellflower, wide receiver James McGarvey of Aviation High in Inglewood and quarterback Kenny Moore of San Fernando High.

Bert Jones puts 'birds' on Houston

Jones, who had been criticized after suffering through three straight defeats, engineered Baltimore to a 26-21 National Football League preseason victory over the confused Oilers in the Astrodome Monday night.

After falling behind 7-0 on Lynn Dickey's 12-yard touchdown pass to Fred Willis in the first quarter, Jones whipped the Colts to 17 points in the final six minutes of the second quarter for a 20-7 halftime lead.

The Oilers, who were losing their third straight game after two preseason victories, rallied in the second half on a pair of touchdown passes by Dan Pastorini but the Colts' second quarter surge was too much to overcome.

"Jones did a fine job tonight," Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibrode said. "He just did what he thought he could do."

What Jones did was complete 16 of 26 passes for 166 yards and one touchdown, a 10-yard pass to Lydell Mitchell that put the Colts ahead to stay in the second quarter. After Steve Williams blocked an Oilers punt in the third quarter, Jones ran four yards for a score.

"There's been a lot of criticism about Jones not being able to pick up his secondary receivers," Marchibroda said. "Maybe we silenced some of that tonight."

Shortly after Mitchell's touchdown catch, a 44-yard pass interference penalty against Houston's Zeike Moore gave Baltimore a first down at the Oilers' one-yard line. Rookie Roosevelt Leaks, formerly of Texas, plunged over for the score with 1:04 left in the half.

Toni Linhart kicked a 45-yard field goal early in the second quarter and booted a 42-yarder as time ran out in the first half.

After an ineffective first half under quarterback Lynn Dickey, the Oilers rallied in the second half behind Pastorini, who hit tight end John Sawyer with a 30-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter and pulled the Oilers to their final score with a 24-yard TD strike to Billy Parks with 3:05 left in the game.

Baltimore stands 2-3 in exhibition play.

Dodgers blank Giants, 4-0

Andy finally gets help

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Of 1975, a season of many disappointments for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Andy Messersmith says, "I just hope I can get out of it without getting hurt."

It has been that kind of a year for Messersmith who has pitched exceedingly well in spite of little or no support from his teammates.

His earned run average is 2.40, he has six shutouts to tie for the National League lead and he leads the league in complete games with 17.

But, still, he'll be hardpressed to hit the 20-win circle for the second straight season and third time in his career.

Monday night he blanked the San Francisco Giants, 4-0, on three hits as the Dodgers improved their hold on second place in the N.L. West to 5½ games over the third-place Giants.

Tonight, in the final meeting of the season between the two rivals, Jim Barr, 11-12, will start for San Francisco against Los Angeles' Doug Rau, 13-9, who is shooting for his fifth straight victory.

Monday night Steve Garvey broke a scoreless duel between Messersmith and the Giants' John Montefusco with a runscoring double in the sixth inning, driving home Henry Cruz who had also doubled.

The Dodgers then added three more runs in the eighth against Montefusco's relief, Randy Moffitt and Dave Heaverlo, when Steve Yeager singled home two runs and Bill Russell one more.

"I really didn't know how to act with such a lead," kidded Messersmith, now 16-14, and with at least four, perhaps five, starts remaining.

"Tonight I pitched about as well as I can," Messersmith went on. "I pitched a shutout two starts ago but I wasn't anywhere near in command of that game, over the Mets, as I was tonight.

"As for 20 wins, well, I really don't know. Whether I get 20 or not, in a lot of ways this has been my best season. I just haven't been able to get much of a string going."

Messersmith did his first seven decisions, then encountered lack of support.

As for his six shutouts, Messersmith shook his head and said, "That's all well and good. But I'm just sorry the game didn't mean more than it did."

Walt Alston, the manager, promises to give Messersmith an extra start if it would make a difference in hitting the 20-win circle.

"If it means something I'm sure he'll get an extra start," Alston said.

McMillan starts against Raiders

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Eddie McMillan will start at left cornerback for the Rams against the Oakland Raiders on Thursday night after doctors decided that regular Charlie Stukes must undergo surgery.

A Rams spokesman said Monday that Stukes, 31, a starter for the past two seasons, could be out for the National Football League season.

The graduate of Maryland Eastern Shore College tore a ligament in his left knee Saturday night as the Rams beat Philadelphia, 35-0, to run their preseason record to 4-1.

Stukes played with Baltimore and was traded to Minnesota before joining Los Angeles.

The Rams also announced Monday that they had claimed rookie quarterback Harry Knight from Oakland. Knight, from Richmond, was a ninth-round draft choice by the Raiders.

Valley coaches eager for openers

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The college football season starts in the valley Saturday night when Citrus entertains Mt. San Antonio and Cal Poly travels to Chico State.

As expected, the coaches are anxious to get going as they discussed the season at Monday's first weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

MSAC's Mal Eaton presented his views on a more regional conference. La Verne College's Roland Ortmayer explained how a new insurance plan may cut into his football ranks. Chaffey College's Willie Richardson told why things are looking up for the Panthers. Cal Poly's Andy Vinci discussed how the NCAA rules affect the Broncos' first game.

"We enjoy playing Citrus this week but we would enjoy it even more if it was a conference game," Eaton said. "It would be a lot better to play schools in your area in a conference. We're feeling the money pinch like everyone else and releaguing the conferences geographically would cut costs."

Eaton admits the South Coast Conference is better with the addition of Grossmont College to raise the membership to seven schools.

"It's better than six teams but it doesn't make much difference which school it is," Eaton added.

Both Richardson and Citrus assistant Gary Burnett are happy about Grossmont leaving the Mission Conference to drop the membership to eight games.

"We're glad to get rid of Grossmont," Richardson said. "Playing seven league games should be much better. Now you can take a good look at your players in three non-league games. We'll be playing Barstow instead of Grossmont."

Burnett added, "An eight-team conference is really nice for us. It helps get us ready for Mission Conference play. We'll have our work cut for us in the pre-league by playing MSAC, Long Beach and Rio Hondo.

"Our biggest source of athletes have come from Corona and Norco," he said. "When those cities voted to join our district, it was a decision which should help our athletic program for years to come."

Ortmayer, who begins his 28th season at La Verne on Sept. 20 against St. Mary's, says he has 71 fellows out who say they want to play football.

"Every athlete at our place must take out a $50 deductible student insurance policy at our place this year so that may eliminate some fellows," Ortmayer said. "I know if I was a player that wouldn't sound too good to me."

When asked if the absence of Dr. Leland Newcomer, who recently resigned as the college president, would affect the athletic program, Ortmayer answered, "There might be less noise at the game and less aggravation with our opponents. But you don't know how it will be until a new president is selected."

Vinci will be taking advantage of the Alabama court ruling on the Bear Bryant case which permits visiting squads to jump to 60 from the limit of 48 imposed by the NCAA.

Braves play in private

By Associated Press

As a long, dreary season winds down, the Atlanta Braves find themselves going no-place fast. The fans are going every-place fast—except, of course, for Atlanta Stadium.

It took the fifth-place Braves only four days to top the alltime attendance low they set Thursday night, when 1,062 people crossed the turnstiles for a 2-1 victory over San Diego. Monday night, with no threat of rain and temperatures in the mid-70s, 737 spectators crammed into 52,744 seats for a 9-6 loss to the Houston Astros—the only National League club with a worse record.

"That many, huh?" asked Atlanta outfielder Mike Lum.

Well, uh, yeah.

"It's the low ebb in a long season," offered Bob Hope, the Braves' Director of Public Relations. "This is the longest we've been out of contention in years. It's late in the season, and the fan appeal's a little dim right now."

So when Darrell Evans cracked a two-run homer in the seventh inning, the massive crowd, the vendors, four umpires, 80 baseball players, the ground crew and the cleaning ladies got a private performance of Chief Nok-A-Homa's dance behind the left-field fence.

"All we can say is that we're very disappointed with our attendance this year," said press relations director Randy Donaldson.

All the fans are saying is that they're very disappointed in a team that has lost all but 63 of 144 games.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati topped San Diego 3-2, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 4-0, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-1, Philadelphia tripped St. Louis 6-3 and Montreal beat New York 6-5 and 6-1 in a twi-night doubleheader.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno hit two home runs and had six RBI before the Braves' biggest non-crowd of the season, almost single-handedly raising the Astros' record to 56-89 and bringing them within 41 games of first place.

Cedeno also rapped a two-run double in a three-run Houston first. His solo homer made it 40 in the third inning.

Evans' two-run homer in the seventh inning had given Atlanta a 5-4 lead.

Reds 3, Padres 2

Johnny Bench's 26th homer of the year, a two-run shot in the eighth-inning, lifted the NL West champions past San Diego. Willie McCovey's 18th homer of the year had given the Padres a 2-1 lead they held until the eighth.

Pirates 4, Cubs 1

Back in the division with a pennant race, the Pirates extended their NL East lead to 6½ games over St. Louis and seven games over Philadelphia behind a combined six-hitter by Dock Ellis and Ramon Hernandez.

Ellis was making his first start since the Pirates lifted his two-week suspension for refusing to pitch in relief and his criticism of Manager Danny Murtaugh in a team meeting.

"That's over," said Murtaugh.

"I know I would have climbed the wall to help Dock win tonight," said Al Oliver, whose triple helped key a three-run rally and snap a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning.

Phillies 6, Cards 3

Greg Luzinski, who admits he hasn't been doing the job, did it Monday night. His single and double drove in three runs, raising his league-leading RBI total to 110 and carrying Philadelphia past St. Louis.

"People get on me, because it's September and we've had a lot of guys on base and as the number-four hitter I'm supposed to be driving them in," said Luzinski. "I haven't been doing the job."

He had driven in just four runs with his last 47 at-bats.

Expos 6-6, Mets 5-1

"We're going to be a spoiler in this race," Carrithers said. "We've got to play all these (East Division) clubs and we're going to go in and knock them off. It's going to be fun."

Oakland wins the big ones

By The Associated Press

It looked like a World Series game. There was a big crowd at the Oakland Coliseum, the game meant something and, of course, the A's won.

"We proved again that this team plays a little better when the games mean a lot and when a lot of people turn out to watch us," said Sal Bando, the Oakland captain who contributed a home run and two singles to an explosive A's attack that steamrollered the Kansas City Royals 8-2 Monday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees blanked the Detroit Tigers 3-0; the Cleveland Indians dropped the Boston Red Sox 4-1, and the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2.

The script seems to be the same every year. The A's play as well as they have to in winning the American League West, then they play better than everybody else in sweeping to the world championship.

Last year, Texas made a September run at the A's but fell five games short. This year it's the Royals, who might as well pack up their bats and balls. Oakland's Claudell Washington says their season is over.

Do the Royals, now six games back, have a chance?

"No chance, no chance at all," Washington said. "If they won this game they would have had a chance. They had to sweep the series but they blew it."

Oakland fans are notorious for recognizing the football Raiders, the A's, after the regular season, and a bargain—anytime.

Monday night, there was crowd of 38,735, taking advantage of half-price family night while waching the A's manhandle the Royals on home runs by Gene Tenace, Bando and Washington and Ken Holtzman's five-hit pitching.

Orioles 6, Brewers 2

The little losses in May are looking bigger and bigger in September for Baltimore.

"We lost 11 of 12 games in May when we weren't hitting," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, "and we've never recovered from that, even though we've been playing .660 since the All-Star Game."

The Orioles latest success was keyed by Tommy Davis, who had three hits—including a two-run homer, and Mike Torrez, who pitched a six-hitter.

The victory and Boston's loss to Cleveland left the Orioles six games back of the first-place Red Sox with 20 games to play for both teams in the American League East.

"Actually," said Weaver, "we've got a better record right now than last year at this time when we passed them and won the division."

Indians 4, Red Sox 1

Don Hood, who hurled a seven-hitter, profited from three Boston errors leading to three unearned runs in the fourth inning and outdueled Rick Wise. John Lowenstein's homer accounted for the other Cleveland run.

Yankees 3, Tigers 0

Rudy May tossed a seven-hitter to pick up his career-high 13th victory. It was May's first shutout of the season and the second in the row for the Yankees. Catfish Hunter checked Baltimore 2-0 Sunday.

Graig Nettles blasted a solo home run in support of May.

Islanders take PCL

HONOLULU (AP)— Young righthander Dave Wehrmeister checked Salt Lake City on five hits Monday as the Hawaii Islanders captured the Pacific Coast League crown with an 8-0 victory.

The league championship was the first for the Islanders in 15 years of PCL play.

The Islanders, who exploded for six runs in a wild fifth inning, won the series four games to two.

Jerry Turner's run-scoring single started the scoring in the fifth, and an error by Gulls left fielder Morris Nettles allowed another run to score on the play. Sonny Jackson followed with another RBI single, Davey Hilton drove in two runs with a double and a passed ball gave Hawaii its sixth run.

Wehrmeister, who allowed no walks and struck out four, gave up only one run in 41 and two-thirds innings against the Gulls this year.

"We've checked with the NCAA and the rules won't be in effect this week so we are planning to take 55 players to the Chico game," Vinci said. "We've had a few injuries so this should help us, expecially with our specialty teams."

RICHARDSON: "We checked in about 68 players when we opened practice and we're down to 55 now. All our running backs are new as is our defensive secondary. We're pleased with our quarterback competition between Jamie Broecker, Bill Childress and Larry Garcia. Our offensive and defensive lines are the most experienced. We scrimmage Moorpark this Saturday and open at Santa Barbara on Sept. 20. I would hate to be playing this week."

BURNETT: "We have a lot of question marks this year as we must replace eight starters on defense and five on offense. We like to play big people and MSAC is big and strong. It's going to be tough. It should be a hard hitting game."

EATON: "We have three new people on our staff this year. It got pretty hectic last year with only four on the staff. Now we have seven including myself. We should be much more capable of giving our players a fair shake coaching wise. We have 14 players from last year so it's mostly a new and inexperienced team. However, we recruited some of the better kids in our district. We play a killer non-league schedule."

ORTMAYER: "We haven't gotten into football enough yet to talk much about it. We start in pads Tuesday night. We'll scrimmage Riverside on Friday. We have as good potential as any team we've had."

VINCI — "We were able to watch Chico in a scrimmage Saturday. Chico State looks well disciplined, well conditioned and enthusiastic. They are a lot like San Francisco State and Cal State Hayward, who we lost to last year. Our players are ready for a game. They are tired of playing the same guys every day. We have more of a balanced offense this season."

Plunkett must undergo surgery

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have lost quarterback Jim Plunkett's passing skills for at least a month—"a big loss for us," concedes Coach Chuck Fairbanks of the National Football League team.

Plunkett was to undergo surgery today at Stanford University Medical Center in California for a left shoulder separation suffered in Sunday's exhibition victory over the San Diego Chargers.

"It's not encouraging to see key people keep getting hurt," said Fairbanks. "It's discouraging because to be successful, you need all your resources and talent. The margin of error is very small. We have to play hard to take up the slack for those missin."

"I don't know how big the (losses) can get," said Fairbanks, "but this is a big one."

Fairbanks predicted the Stanford All-American and Heisman Trophy winner would be out for at least a month—but medical specialists said recuperation from a shoulder separation operation could take six to eight weeks.

Graff, a former Wisconsin standout, spent most of the 1974 season on the bench, and Fairbanks wonders if Graff can make it.

"We'll have a chance to see," said Fairbanks.

Telly's Pop in Del Mar feature

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP)— Actor Telly Savalas' latest love, a thoroughbred colt named Telly's Pop, heads a field of eight today when Del Mar's greatest season closes with the $111,925 Del Mar Futurity.

Telly's Pop, a son of Bold Ruler stallion Bold Combatant, won his first two races at Hollywood Park and raced third in the Hollywood Juvenile Championship. Now nearing his third birthday, he and the others in this futurity will be prime candidates for derby races in 1976.

The Del Mar Futurity, which in the past has been won by such notables as Your Host, Tomy Lee, Coursing, Baffle, June Darling and MacArthur Park, is the first of the Western Juvenile Triple Crown. The others are the Norfolk Stakes at the Oak Tree at Santa Anita meeting and the California Juvenile Stakes at Bay Meadows. Both of those races are at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Bill Shoemaker, the world's winningest jockey, will be seeking his fifth consecutive triumph in this race aboard Thermal Energy. Francisco Mena has the ride on Telly's Pop. Don Pierce is on Crazy Channon, a son of 1968 Futurity winner Fleet Allied, and Darrel McHargue is the rider on Lexington Laugh. McHargue is currently the leading rider at the track.

Sports briefs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers say quarterback Terry Bradshaw has recovered from an intestinal virus and will be ready to start Saturday against Dallas in their final exhibition game.

Bradshaw was released Monday from Divine Providence Hospital after spending a day there for observations and tests to determine why he had been feeling poorly for the several days previously.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Greg Barton, 29-year-old head coach of the Portland Thunder, was fired by the World Football League team Monday night after a four-month career during which his team recorded one win and five losses.

Bob Brodhead, Thunder general manager who fired Barton, said he would personally take over as interim head coach until a replacement for Barton could be found.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Center Billy Paultz, a member of the American Basketball Association's East Division All-Star team each of the past three seasons, was traded by the New York Nets to the San Antonio Spurs Monday for forwards Rich Jones and Chuck Terry, center Kim Hughes and guard Bob Warren.

Nets President Roy Boe announced the deal and said it was a straight player transaction with no cash involved.

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders have taken care of a surplus of wide receivers by trading Kent Gaydos to Philadelphia.

"There are too many good receivers," Gaydos conceded after the trade was announced by the Raiders on Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tony Perez of the Cincinnati Reds was named National League Player of the Month Monday after batting .398 with three home runs and 26 runs batted in during August.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers said Monday their No. 1 draft choice, Jim Gideon, will pitch his first major league baseball game here Sunday afternoon against Chicago.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fullback Doug Dressler was traded by the Cincinnati Bengals Monday to the New England Patriots for undisclosed draft considerations.

Dressler, who has averaged 4.1 yards in four years with Cincinnati, was in his sixth National Football League season. He missed all of 1973 due to a broken collarbone suffered in an exhibition game.

The 6-foot-2, 228-pound Chico State product became expendable with the development of newcomer Ed Williams.

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons' defensive end Claude Humphrey, already sidelined for the season with torn knee ligaments, underwent his second operation in a week Monday.

Humphrey said the surgery was to adjust a pin placed in his injured left knee after he was hurt in a preseason game Aug. 30.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys announced Monday they have obtained running back Bob Anderson from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

The 6-foot, 212-pound Anderson is in his fifth National Football League season. He missed the 1974 campaign with a broken leg.

Anderson was the Broncos No. 1 draft choice in 1970 following a standout collegiate career at the University of Colorado.

NEW YORK (AP) — Catfish Hunter, who recently tossed a pair of shutouts and chalked up his 20th win of the season, was named the American League Player of the Week Monday by League President Lee McPhail.

Boosters set dinner

The Pomona High Boosters Club is holding a potluck dinner at the school's cafeteria beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Varsity representatives are supposed to bring a casserole while the sophomores provide the desserts and the freshmen the salads.

Kings sign young Bucyk

INGLEWOOD — The Los Angeles Kings have announced that second round draft pick Terry Bucyk signed a multi-year contract. Bucyk, 6-2, 205, a right winger and a nephew of the Boston Bruins' great Johnny Bucyk, was the 33rd pick overall in the draft.

Bucyk spent two and a half years with the Edmonton Oil Kings before switching last mid-season to the Lethbridge Broncos. Overall, he scored 29 goals, 20 of which were in the second half and 32 assists for 61 points in 62 games. He had 49 penalty minutes.

An all-around athlete, playing quarterback in football and pitcher in baseball, Bucyk's strengths are aggressiveness in front of the net, long strides that enable him to break quickly, strong upper body, and unselfish play.

"We are very happy to come to terms with Terry," said Kings General Manager John (Jake) Milford. "He signed a multi-year contract and will get a good shot at making the Kings. Terry has the ability with good size and moves to play in the National Hockey League and now it's entirely up to him."

Many of the metal things we use every day are made of stainless steel. The most familiar use of stainless steel in the home is in tableware, kitchen knives, pots and pans.

Stainless steel is a steel that has another metal called chromium mixed with it. A mixture of this kind is called an alloy. And it is the chromium in the steel that keeps the kitchen knife, pot or pan from getting rusty as an old nail.

Nickel and other metals may also be added to make stainless steel used for special purposes.

Stainless steels are hard and strong. They do not tarnish or stain easily and resist the attack of many acids.

Because stainless steel lasts long and can be sterilized easily, steel sinks and other equipment made of stainless steel are used in hospitals, restaurants, food processing plants and other places where cleanliness and easy maintenance is essential for reasons of good hygine.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

'Death Wish'

Author angry over film

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Brian Garfield is angry. The cause of his anger is the movie, "Death Wish." That violent film made a lot of people angry but Brian Garfield has a special reason for his wrath — he wrote the book the picture is loosely based on.

Garfield says there is a big difference in spirit between his novel and the picture which producer Dino DiLaurentiis, director Michael Winner and actor Charles Bronson made from it.

"They made the Bronson character a hero," Garfield says. "In the book, he was totally psychopathic."

In case you didn't see "Death Wish," it deals with a man (Bronson) who takes the law into his own hands. After his wife and daughter have been killed, he begins turning the tables and cold-bloodedly killing every hoodlum (or suspected hoodlum) he sees.

"I'm not saying that people who see it will immediately rush into the streets and kill people," he says. "But I think it's possible somebody who's on the edge might get an idea from it. Movies are very strong fare for impressionable minds.

"I remember reading about somewhere when 'Fuzz' was shown. That has a scene involving immolation. The next day a group of kids immolated a girl. Maybe, if they hadn't seen the picture, they would have mugged her or something, but I'm sure the picture gave them the idea of soaking her with gasoline and setting her on fire."

CHARLES BRONSON

Garfield got his idea for "Death Wish" one night in New York when he went to his car about 3 a.m., after a party, and found the convertible top had been slashed.

"I was very mad," he says. "I found myself saying to myself, 'If I'd have been there, I'd have killed him."

Of course, later I realized I probably wouldn't have done a thing — after all, the guy had a knife — but I realized there was a germ of a story there. What would happen if a man really got the vigilante bug?

But he objects to what DiLaurentis - Winner - Bronson did to his story. And he's taking pains to see that it doesn't happen again.

His newest novel, "Hop - Scotch," was written to prove that he could write a suspense novel with absolutely no violence.

And, to make sure that "it doesn't fall into the hands of a Michael Winner," he has already written his own screen play. He will also co-produce it, with director Brian Forbes.

"Death Wish" was the first novel he wrote which was filmed, although several previous books have been optioned for the screen.

"The whole thing," he says, "was a very frustrating business.

Spelling theft

Before Noah Webster compiled his dictionary, he produced one of the most useful volumes ever printed in English, the Blue-Back Speller. Unscrupulous publishers pirated the Speller and reprinted it without payment or credit. This led Webster to devise and champion the federal copyright law which Congress enacted in 1790 to protect the rights of authors. An 1870 law made the Library of Congress the first central agency for the registration and custody of copyright deposits in the U.S.

BACK AGAIN — TV star Carol Burnett rehearses with guest star Jim Nabors for the season opener of The Carol Burnett Show Saturday night. Nabors was a guest on the opener nine years ago and has been on each one since then. Nabors says, "It's the best variety show on television and I like the exposure. Carol thinks I'm a lucky charm for the show so we both hit it off great."

Mexican ballet sets programs

Ballet Folklorico Mexicano de Graciela Tapia will present a program of Mexican songs and dances at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium, and at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the California Theater of the Performing Arts in San Bernardino.

The company was a hit at Expo '74 World's Fair at Spokane, Wash. A cast of 40, with 16 being dancers, will be seen in such numbers as "Danza de los Chinelos," a pre-Hispanic dance from the State of Morelos; "La Danza del Venado," a traditional dance performed by the Yaqui Indians before a hunting expedition; "Fiestas del Sureste" from Oaxaca; and "Tarascan" group dances from the states of Michoacan, Jalisco and Guanajuato, accompanied by mariachis. Also on the program are "Chiapanecas" and "Jarabe Tapatio," the so-called Mexican hat dance, which is Mexico's national dance.

Miss Tapia, noted as a choreographer and director, was chosen by the Mexican government, to portray the culture of her native Mexico in music, dances and songs. She is the star soloist.

The costumes were hand-made in the towns of the regions and states represented in the dances. For "Chiapanecas," hand-embroidered dresses shown in the Spanish influence are featured. For numbers from the State of Veracruz, the women wear white-lace dresses while the men are outfitted in all - white linen or "quayaveras." For "Jarabe Tapatio" from the State of Jalisco, the women wear their "China poblana" dresses with hand-sewn sequins in distinctive Mexican design, and the men are dressed in Charro outfits with the classic wide-brimmed, decorated sombreros.

Violinist to play at UCLA

Violinist Yehudi Menuhin and his Festival Chamber Orchestra will present the West Coast premiere of the late Frank Martin's "Polyptyque for Solo Violin and Two Small String Orchestras" in UCLA's Royce Hall Nov. 7.

The Polyptyque was the Swiss-born Martin's last composition. It was inspired by a polyptych seen by Martin in Siena depicting in a series of minatures the various episodes of the Passion of Jesus Christ: Palm Sunday, The Last Supper, Judas, Gethsemane, Judgment and Glorification.

Martin dealt with this subject matter in much the same manner that he treated religious themes in his three previous works of this nature.

MINING GOLD — Rod Stewart, right, and guitarist Ronnie Wood party it up in New York hotel suite after Stewart received a gold record for his solo album, "Atlantic Crossing." Stewart strongly implied that the current world tour of his group, "The Faces," is the final time the musicians will appear together.

Is Faces' tour the swan song?

By STEPHEN FORD

NEW YORK (NEA) — Well, nothing lasts forever . . . and that includes The Faces. Rod Stewart, bouncing all over New York City last week to promote his Warner Bros. debut "Atlantic Crossing," strongly implied that The Faces' current world tour is probably their last.

Garbed in a fitted white sailor suit with Britt Eklund on his elbow and a splash of mascara about the eyes, Stewart lamented the future of The Faces in view of Ronnie Wood's overwhelming desire to be a Rolling Stone. Adding to Stewart's woe is the imminent release of drummer Kenny Jones' solo LP, aided by Paul and Linda McCartney. Furthermore, "Atlantic Crossing" was recorded without any of Stewart's fellow Faces.

Toujours amour, Faces. Rock 'n roll won't be the same without you.

Orchestra calls auditions

The Frances and J. E. Libaw Orchestra of Webb School will hold auditions for student musicians in the auditorium from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Candidates must play scales and a selection of their own choice. Rehearsals will start at 7:15 p.m. Sept. 17. Further information can be obtained at 626-3587.

The Webb auditorium is at 1175 W. Base Line Road, Claremont.

No. 1 ranking no cinch

NEW YORK (AP) — Most coaches claim there's nothing really new in college football and it certainly seems that way when the time comes to ferret out the annual contenders for the national championship.

Any talk about No. 1 must start with defending champion Oklahoma, but the Sooners are by no means a cinch to win another Big Eight crown, much less national honors.

"We should have a good football team, but we won't be as good as we were last season," says Coach Barry Switzer, who has an incredible 21-0-1 mark in two years at the helm of the Sooner Schooner. "Our offense ought to be good, but we won't be as good on defense as we were. A couple of key injuries here and there would make us very ordinary all of a sudden.

"Every team on our schedule scares me. We had to come from behind to beat Texas, Nebraska and Oklahoma State last year and we had some close games with other folks. For a team to go undefeated like we did in '74, you have to get a lot of breaks—no injuries, etc.—and you have to be just plain lucky once in a while."

The folks Switzer hopes stay healthy include running back Joe Washington, quarterback Steve Davis, wide receiver Tinker Owens, guard Terry Webb and defensive linemen Leroy and Dewey Selmon and Jimbo Elrod.

Oklahoma will get a severe challenge from Nebraska in the powerful Big Eight and Colorado, Oklahoma State and Missouri might make things sticky, too.

Elsewhere, the candidates for The Associated Press Top Ten include most of the old familiar faces—Notre Dame and Penn State among the independents, Southern California and UCLA in the Pacific-8, Alabama and Auburn in the Southeastern Conference, Ohio State and Michigan in the Big Ten. Texas A&M is favored over perennial champ Texas and Cinderella Baylor in the Southwest. North Carolina State should challenge Maryland in the Atlantic Coast Conference and many Western Athletic Conference observers pick Arizona to beat out Arizona State, Brigham Young and Colorado State.

By the way, Oklahoma is off probation and can go to a bowl game and the Big Eight starts a four-year pact with the Orange Bowl this season.

In other conference races, San Diego State is an odds-on favorite in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association; Miami of Ohio and Kent State should fight it out in the increasingly tough Mid-American Conference; the wild, mild Ivy League envisions a six-team scramble among Brown, Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton, Yale, and VMI, Appalachian State and The Citadel could be the best in the Southern Conference.

Nebraska hopes either Terry Luck or Vince Ferragamo can replace record-breaking passer Dave Humm. The Huskers have runners coming out of their ears, led by fullback Tony Davis. All-American center Rik Bonness

Rams better with experience

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — In the first two exhibition games of the 1975 season, the Los Angeles Rams allowed 13 points.

The first team defense allowed none.

That defense, the second best in the National Football Conference last year, may be the key as the Rams struggle for a Super Bowl triumph this year.

Twice in two years the Rams have won the Western Division title; twice they have fallen in the playoffs. The Rams, a proven good team, hope to prove they are a great one this season.

"We had one of the league's youngest defenses last year," says Coach Chuck Knox, the third-year head man who has led Los Angeles to a 22-6 record in two years of league play.

"Except for Merlin Olsen, who is 34, and Charlie Stukes, who is 32, we were not an old defensive squad. So we should be better with more experience. We also have more competition for first team jobs, which means more depth.

The line of Jack Youngblood, Olsen, Larry Brooks and Fred Dryer anchored that defense. It led the NFC with 44 sacks as the Ram defenders surrendered 181 points, fewest in the league.

This year the defense has played well in victories of 35-7 over Dallas, which scored on a pass interception, and 10-6 over San Francisco.

The Rams are not without offensive weapons, either. Quarterback James Harris was the NFC's No. 2 passer in 1975 when he completed 106 of 198 passes for 1544 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Running back Lawrence McCutcheon slashed his way to more than 1,000 yards each of the last two seasons. His running sidekick is versatile Jim Bertelsen.

Bullet-fast wide receiver Harold Jackson has caught 70 passes for 18 touchdowns the past two years. To help him the Rams have signed Ron Jessie, who caught 54 passes last year while playing out the option year of his contract with Detroit. Standouts Lance Rentzel and Jack Snow battle Willie McGee for the remaining two wide receiver jobs spots.

The veteran offensive line has performed well in the past. Left tackle Charlie Cowan and guard Joe Scibelli are 15-year veterans, guard Tom Mack is a 10-year man and tackle John Williams is an eight-year vet.

Back on defense, the Rams' linebackers Ken Geddes, Jack Reynolds and Isiah Robertson are considered solid, but some have said the defensive secondary is suspect.

"I don't think it's suspect," Knox said of the unit of cornermen Stukes and Al Clark and safeties Dave Elmendorf and Bill Simpson.

"This secondary has helped us win 22 and lose only six over the last two years. Defense is a team game and the whole unit is responsible if a pass is completed."

SAL race wide open

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

After last year's wild and wooly title race, the San Antonio League will be hard pressed to provide its fans with a more competitive and more exciting time of it this season.

However, from the pre-season indications 1975 will once again feature a battle royal for the SAL crown.

In fact, if anything most of the eight SAL entries look stronger than they did last fall. None of the eight can be ruled out of the pennant picture at this point, which means that it's conceivable that five or six schools will have a shot at the SAL title going into late season action, as happened last year.

Two-time defending champion Pomona High will once again be under the guidance of head coach Mike Clifton. Clifton, in his sixth year at PHS, has traditionally turned out a competitive football squad and this year's edition of the Red Devils won't be an exception.

Pomona, coming off a 5-5-1 season, has lost star halfback Raymond Butler to graduation, but Clifton still rates his running game as the squad's strong point.

And no wonder. Returning to the Devil fold for their senior seasons are fullback Hank Zibell and halfback Charles Cole. Zibell is mighty tough to stop inside and Cole has real speed outside. Containing the Devil duo is going to be a rugged chore for Pomona opponents.

Middleton, who will co-captain the Devils along with Zibell, was a second-team all-CIF pick as a junior.

Damien, the team which posted the best overall mark in the SAL last year (6-3), will have a new coach and a new look for 1975.

Dick Larson is the new Spartan mentor, and feels he has the talent to challenge for the SAL top spot.

The Spartans return quarterback Joe Carroll and a good corps of receivers in what should be one of the top passing attacks in the league. Also back is fleet tailback Ruben Lopez, Damien's leading scorer in 1974.

Defense is the big question-mark for Larson, although the Spartans do have the services of all-valley linebacker Greg Elias again this fall, as well as returning defensive starters Mike Fraschetti, Mike O'Neil and Terry Allen.

Veteran coach Garry Norvell will be entering his eighth year as mentor of Ganesha High, and the Giants are gunning to improve on 1974's 4-4-1 mark.

The Giants will be just that on the offensive and defensive lines, with personnel like Mike Johnson (6-2, 231 pounds), Curtiss Allen (6-2, 218 pounds), Ed Lundstrom (6-1, 212 pounds) and Keith Lovett (6-0, 210 pounds).

Norvell feels he has two outstanding runners in fullback Ron Rentz and tailback Darryl Gardner, but the quarterback slot which plagued the Giants last year is still a question-mark.

Garey High also feels it has one of its best football teams ever, and Viking coach Lawson Bush is flatly predicting a SAL title for his squad.

The Vikings just missed that title last year and should improve on their 3-4-2 1974 record. Bush rates his squad's quickness and desire to win as the Garey strong points. It will be a young Viking team, however, and inexperience may hamper its bid for the first SAL grid title in the school's history.

Leading the offense for the Vikes is all-league running back Stanley Webster. Rounding out the Garey offensive backfield will be quarterback Milt Banks and tailback Ron Gibson.

On defense tackles Ned Young and Richard Saville and linebacker Larry Jones should be standouts.

Biggest problem Holycross has to solve for his team to

H.L. plays tough defense

PB Correspondent

Defense figures to be the byword this year in the Hacienda League as it has in recent seasons. Three of the league's entrants made the 1974 list of the valley's 10 stingiest teams, and it looks as if some of those defensive units may be even tougher this time around.

Bonita, last year's H.L. champion and tops in the valley in points-against average (5.6), made it to the quarterfinals in 1974 before being eliminated by Neff, 22-6. Pete Lopez' Bearcats were 6-1 in league play and 10-2 overall.

The 'Cats placed four starters on last year's All-Hacienda League first team, and two of them — Phil Mertz and Steve Hines — will be back to lead the two units which Lopez considers his strongest.

Mertz, a 6-2, 205-pound tackle, will head up an offensive line which includes Mark Malone, 6-1, 200, a returning guard who will play center this year, and David Ramirez, 6-0, 200, a returning tackle.

Hines will operate in the defensive secondary along with David Drury, but Larry Franco, a starting cornerback last year, moved to another district during the offseason.

The departure of Franco, also last year's starting tailback, along with the graduation of quarterback Harold Drake and fullback Brad Frick — both all-leaguers in 1974 — left Lopez with an all new offensive backfield. Scott Johnson, an end last year, is set at tailback and Sanford Coggins will likely start at quarterback. Hines and Drury will be the prime passing targets.

"We'll be very young this year, and we'll probably make a lot of mistakes at first," said Lopez.

The Bearcats made few errors last year, losing just one league contest — 12-0 to San Dimas, the valley's No. 2 defensive team. After dropping their first three games in 1974, the Saints finished strong for a final 4-4-1 mark and a CIF playoff berth. They were crushed, 41-6, by powerful El Dorado in the first round.

San Dimas allowed only five points per league contest last year, and head coach Bob Baiz' defensive squad should be even better this season. Nine of last year's starters will be back including Sonny LaFargue, a second team all-league selection as a sophomore in 1974.

Other returning starters are middleguard Don Edwards, linebackers Doug Gates and Dennis Moore, ends Don Millet and Doug Spahr, halfbacks D. D. Hollingquest and Andy Hegel and roverback Rosey Johnson.

With the defense largely set and quite experienced, the performance of the offensive squad will likely be critical to the Saints' title hopes. Starting at quarterback will be Steve Loumagne, last year's backup signalcaller. He will be joined by halfback Fred Carter and fullback Bob Pleasant.

"We should throw the ball better this year," said Baiz. Loumagne's main target will be slotback Jim Button. The offensive line will include returnees Edwards, Jack Clark and Doug Harbin.

"I'm looking forward to this season even more than I did the last," said Baiz, apparently pleased that his team is one of the league's favorites.

Coming off a 4-3 league season, Walnut head coach Ken Gunn said, "This could become Walnut's best defensive unit in several years." Guard Steve Chapple, linebacker Kevin Veselic, halfback Bob Walker and safety Mark Thompson were all first string defenders in 1974.

On offense, Gunn has two returning first team all-leaguers — tight end Alex Solorzano (the only sophomore named to last year's all-H.L. squad) and running back Keith McDermott. Both were given honorable mention on the 1974 All-Pomona Valley team.

The Mustangs will be inexperienced on the offensive line, where guard Dan Reed is the lone returning starter, and at quarterback. Three young players are battling for the starting quarterback slot — junior Kevin Loggins and sophomores Pat Flaherty and Steve Green. "One of them must develop rapidly if the offense is going to move," said Gunn.

Coach Tom Cook's Alta Loma squad will count chiefly on the size and experience of its linemen to improve last year's 2-5 league record. Offensive guard Cliff Houtz, 6-0, 190, a second team all-H.L. pick last year who also plays linebacker, and tackle Mike Thacker, 5-9, 220, lead a corps of eight linemen with varsity experience who average over 190 pounds.

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Put together an experienced defensive unit with a green offensive group and you have Cal Poly's football team in a nutshell.

While Poly has six returning starters on defense, it has only two linemen back on the offensive unit.

As a result, even Coach Andy Vinci can't predict too much about his second season with the Broncos.

"We can go 9-2 this year or 2-9," Vinci says. "I just don't know. Our offense is definitely an unknown factor and it's frustrating just waiting around for the first game. The way I see it our defense is our strength and it must carry us."

Poly enjoyed its finest season in a decade last year with a 5-3-2 mark but Vinci is eager to improve on it.

The top goal is a California Collegiate Athletic Association championship, something which was missed last year by five points.

Poly will be tackling an 11-game schedule including five contests at expanded Kellogg Field, which will have a capacity of 6,000 fans. A highlight of the season will be a Nov. 8 date with North Texas State in Denton, Tex.

All of last year's big offensive names are gone but Vinci feels more depth and a much bigger line will compensate for the losses.

Because of the new personnel, Poly will be using more of a power offense geared to a running game

Senior Curtis Frick runs for La Verne College.

Leos, Stags eye SCIAC crown

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Based on the number of prospective returnees, La Verne and Claremont-Mudd should field very interesting football teams.

Whether or not they can challenge perennial powers Whittier and Redlands remains to be seen. But both the Leos and Stags figure to be very competitive.

Graduation hit the Leopards' defense the hardest. On the other hand, almost all of the Stags' defense is returning.

At La Verne, coach Roland Ortmayer will be depending on 245-pound Chris Willits to replace star middle guard Jeff Button. Willits has a lot more size than the 195-pound Button. But Button had great mobility and was a ferocious tackler.

Defensive end Chris Hawks also graduated. Ortmayer will start a pair of sophomores at the ends this year. Ron Kimball, a 6-2, 210-pound Hawaiian and Scott Bowser, at 6-1, 205 pounds from Fresno shape up as formidable defenders.

Ortmayer also will have to find a replacement for kicker John Karns.

On offense, Ort can start an entire backfield of returnees.

As of now, he has penciled in Ben Morrow at fullback. The 220-pound Morrow started last season as a fullback and wound up playing a lot in the line.

If Morrow is the fullback, that means Curtis Frick, a three-time all-conference fullback will be at left half. That experiment was tried last year and proved unsuccessful.

The 195-pound Frick is a devastating blocker as well as a powerful runner. It was largely Frick's blocks that sprung Roy VanderKallen many times last year.

VanderKallen returns this year and should be one of the most exciting runners in the SCIAC. Last year he had far more dif-

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

What Mt. San Antonio College lacks in experience this season it may more than make up for in size and what the coaches feel is a good crop of talented youngsters.

Head Coach Mal Eaton begins his fifth campaign at the valley's largest junior college with perhaps his most muscular team. The Mounties will average better than 220 pounds per man across the offensive and defensive lines when it opens the season Saturday in the annual cross-valley tussle with Citrus College at Citrus Stadium in Azusa.

While size is encouraging, Eaton worries that his troops may be a bit too green.

"I have absolutely no idea what these guys are going to do," he said. "I expect us to improve with every game. We're going to be better this year, but every team we play is a contender for its conference title."

Eaton greeted only 16 returnees from 1974's 2-6-2 team when practice began late in August. One of the 16 would bring a smile to any coach's face.

Robert "Binky" Benton, (5-7, 175), the South Coast Conference's leading ground gainer with more than 1,000 yards rushing in '74, is back in the fold. Benton earned the conference's most valuable offensive player award as a freshman and he is expected to defend that honor and then some this season.

The Mounties have an abundance of Bentons. Binky's older brother Rick, 22, 5-11, 205, is a likely starter in the defensive line and younger brother Steve, 17, 6-1, 170, may work into the starting lineup as a wide receiver. All three played on CIF champion teams at Los Altos High.

Eaton has four quarterbacks to choose from this year, including 1974 starter Kurt Porter. The others are former Pomona High star Steve Taylor, Rowland's Flavio Garcia and West Covina's Greg Gano.

Taylor, who sat out last season with a shoulder injury, is pressing Porter for the starting job in early season drills. In a weekend scrimmage with El Camino, Taylor completed 3 of 4 pass attempts for 31 yards. Porter was 4 of 8 for 68 yards.

Traditionally a slow starter, Citrus College will get a break this season by playing one more non-conference game than it has in other years because of a realignment of junior college conferences.

Coach John Strycula's Owls, coming off an 8-1-1 championship year in 1974, will play three games before it opens the eight-team Mission Conference campaign.

The Mission was a nine-team alignment last year but Grossmont, a perrennial powerhouse was releagued into the South Coast Conference, boosting the SCC to seven teams.

"We've always been in favor of an eight-team conference," said Strycula who is the most successful football coach in Citrus history. "We've always been a slow starter and the new set-up gives us that much more time to get organized."

Strycula has coached five championship teams in the past eight seasons but he may be pressed to make it six in the nine.

While Strycula and his staff rebuilds the defense they have most of the offense intact, including 1,100 yard rusher Roy Prather and his backup Herbie Holmes, who gained almost 600 yards in only eight games last year.

"Offensively we're about the same as we were at this time last year," says Strycula. Defensively, we're behind."

A Pomona High product, linebacker Coolidge Goodall, and two other lettermen are all that is left of 1974's defensive unit. Strycula will have to fill eight holes.

Another slot to fill will be quarterback, where Strycula's son Bill performed last season. Herb Daniels, second string last season, is the likely starter.

While the season opens Saturday for MSAC and Citrus.

Poly has new look

"Thanks to our offensive line, we can run the dive and there is no tougher formation for the defense," Vinci said. "We have different people this year so you must change the offense to fit them."

Leo Costa, a transfer from the College of Sequoias in Visalia, will be the starting quarterback as he tries to fill the shoes of Jim Zorn, who graduated with most of the school's offensive records.

The rest of the starting backfield will be equally as new.

Aundre Holmes, a transfer from Drake, will open at what Poly calls the diveback. Brent Partridge of Golden West is the fullback while freshman Fred Sanders from Muir High in Pasadena looks like the tailback.

Two lettermen, Anthony Loville and Teddy Myles, will be the top receivers while Jay Johnson from San Diego Mesa will handle the tight end duties.

Three-year letterman Steve Weiss (6-3, 255) will be back at center. The rest of the offensive line includes tackles Bobby Costeldia (6-6, 285), a product of Garey High and Mt. San Antonio College, and Dan Mitchell (6-7, 290) plus guards Doug Fowler (6-6, 290) and Randy Taylor (6-2, 240).

It's a different story on defense.

Two returning All-CCAA players, linebacker Jim Castanon and safety Scott Sanders, anchor the defenders. Other returning starters are safety Ron Stewart, end Richard Gomez, linemen John Mealin and Leon Hooker and linebacker Terry Young.

The top newcomer figures to be nose guard Matthew Taylor, a transfer from USC.

Vinci feels the chief asset of the defensive unit besides the experience is their ability to move.

Jim Castanon (66), Richard Kluck (67) and Terry Young back up the line for Poly.

Leos, Stags may challenge for crown

The key is at quarterback, the trouble position last year. Unless Ortmayer gives Dave Maloof or some other prospect a chance to stake out a claim on the job, the Leos chances on improving their 5-5 mark of last year are debatable.

Randy Brown and Rick Teford divided most of the playing time last year. Neither appeared to be much of a passer and Brown is frustratingly slow.

At Claremont-Mudd, coach John Zinda will field a hard-hitting defensive unit headed by linebackers Eric "Hotdog" Haley and Mike Robles. Only drawback is the size of the Stag defenders. Robles weighs only 180 and Haley 185. are in big trouble.

Steve Schaumleffel, the 5-9, 150 pound quarterback is ranked first at that position with Larry Satterfield number two. Billy Nash, the halfback with the blazing speed, has graduated. But Nash was hampered by injuries his last two years and didn't play that great a role in Stag fortunes.

The Stags again will play only eight games this year. Zinda has three nonconference games in which to hone his squad and then a bye which will allow some time for minor injuries to heal.

Claremont-Mudd posted a 2-6 mark last year overall and finished in a three way tie for fourth place with 1-4 mark in the SCIAC. Pomona-Pitzer and Occidental were the only noncontenders.

Gone is quarterback Zinda has doubts about both his defensive and offensive lines and if they prove correct, the Stags Larry Cenotto, the all-time career passing leader. Gone also are his targets, tight end Biff Sherman and wide receiver Joe Budenholzer.

Lansdell had better be very quick, too. Sagehen signal callers usually have to start running for their lives once the ball is snapped.

Troy dominates West

By Associated Press Writer

Except for two years when Stanford ruined the script, Southern California has dominated the Pacific-8 football race and despite his youngest team in 13 years, John McKay's Trojans are the team to beat.

This year, though, the Trojans, coming off a 10-1-1 season, will have a pack of hounds at their heels, headed by UCLA, Stanford, California and Oregon State. UCLA's Bruins appear big, fast, strong and have perhaps the most explosive quarterback in the nation, John Sciarra.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, San Diego State rates the favorite on the basis of its fine defense. Fresno State is the PCAA team with the passing offense.

USC is the Pac-8 favorite, and McKay's Baby Brigade lineup includes one of the fastest fullbacks in the conference, junior Ricky Bell. He heads the Trojan backfield which also features senior Dave Farmer and quarterback Vince Evans. McKay admits he can't replace such 1974 stars as running back Anthony Davis, quarterback Pat Haden, flanker John McKay and linebacker Richard Wood.

USC's offense will operate behind a strong offensive line of 268-pound tackle Marvin Powell, guard Joe Davis, 244, center Jeff Flood, 240, and six others weighing 250-270.

"We may be young on defense, too," McKay said, "But we also have the fastest defense we've ever had."

UCLA, 6-3-2 last season, may challenge in 1975 because of what Coach Dick Vermeil feels is an unstoppable offense keyed by Sciarra.

As a junior last year, Sciarra opened the season with 390 yards in total offense against Tennessee and appeared headed for stardom until he broke an ankle in the seventh game. Still, he directed the Vermeil Veer offense for 1,235 yards and is fully recovered.

Wendell Tyler heads the Bruin halfbacks. The 5-foot-10, 185-pounder has great speed and averaged 5.7 yards per carry last year until an elbow injury in the ninth game of the season. Wide receiver Norm Anderson, all-Pacific-8 last year, is also back, and the offensive line averages 255 pounds.

Stanford lost only one of its last seven games in 1974 and the Cardinals, after opening games with Penn State and Michigan, could become Pac-8 factors.

Mike Cordova probably will wind up at quarterback. Behind him will be junior running back Ron Inge. Cordova started nine games last year, and his passing ranged from spectacular to horrid.

On defense, Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen calls on two of the coast's best linebackers, Geb Church and Rich Merlo, and defensive end Duncan McColl.

Cal won't replace All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski but the running back and pass catching positions appear in good hands. The Bears have Chuck Muncie to carry the ball, and he's one of the best in the conference. Steve Rivera was seventh in the nation in pass receptions last year with 56 catches.

Oregon State is expected to run more in 1975 and has the horses in fullbacks Charlie Smith and Dick Maurer, plus a host of halfbacks.

OSU also has veterans at the guard and tackle positions with Mike Kobielsky being touted as a likely pro prospect. Dave Brown starts at tight end, and he was all-Pacific-8 last year and the OSU's leading receiver.

On defense, Coach Dee Andros has nearly all of his linemen back, including tackles Dennis Boyd and Fred Anderson and end Tom Chamberlain.

Oregon will go with one of three quarterbacks who have never played a down of college football. Sophomore redshirt Jerry Jurich has the inside track. Two-year letterman Gene Brown and letterman George Bennett are the junior running backs but Coach Don Read's Veer offense will need some shuffling before he finds the right combination.

The Duck defense appears more solid with three linebackers and a five-man rotation on the line all coming back. The most experienced is Don Johnson, the defensive end.

Washington's new coach, Don James, suffered a major loss in the spring when quarterback Chris Rowland was injured and lost for the season. Cliff McBride, at 6-3, starts at the signal calling position.

There are 33 returning lettermen in the Husky camp, and the best of them is Robin Earl, a big fullback who averaged 5.6 yards per carry in 108 carries last year. But defense is perhaps James' strongest suit this year.

Two of the highly rated defenders on the squad are Dan Lloyd, a senior linebacker, and Al Burleson, a defensive back with extraordinary quickness, who was involved in 139 tackles last year.

The Washington State quarterback won't have any trouble seeing his receivers this year. That's because Wally Bennett is 6-5½. WSU was only 2-9 last

Best in the Midwest?

Associated Press

At about the same time that haystacks start showing up in Midwest corn fields, football fans begin predicting national titles for the perennial contenders from the country's heartland, and this year defending champion Oklahoma figures to get the most backing.

Michigan, winners of 50 games in five years; Ohio State, with three straight Rose Bowl trips; Nebraska, the strongest threat to the Sooners' bid for a second national crown and Big Eight title, and Notre Dame, with Dan Devine taking over from Ara Parseghian, also have their bids in for 1975 honors. But the Sooners' credentials are almost impeccable.

Oklahoma figures to have its traditional battle with Nebraska for Big Eight and national honors, but the Ohio StateMichigan grip on the Big Ten could be reversed this season, and Notre Dame, twice national champions under Parseghian, will need an overhaul by Devine to get through a tougher than usual schedule.

The Sooner offense that averaged 43 points a game and smothered 11 opponents last autumn is back almost intact, including quarterback Steve Davis, who ran up more than 1,500 total yards, and the brilliant Joe Washington who ran for 1,350 yards. Another speedster, Elvis Peacock, will join the Sooner backfield, and Davis' favorite pass catcher, Tinker Owens, also is back.

The Selmon brothers, Dewey and Leroy, again spearhead the stingy Sooner defense.

Oklahoma opens Oct. 4 against an improved Colorado team eager for an upset, but chances are the Sooners should escape harm until the season finale with Nebraska.

The Cornhuskers lost David Humm to graduation but can rely on Terry Luck or Vince Ferragamo who started two seasons at California before transferring to Nebraska. The offensive and defensive lines again will be strong with center Rik Bonness leading the offensive charge and seven regulars returning on defense.

Michigan's Bo Schembechler says his team will be "the youngest we've had in my seven years at Michigan, but our defense will be good again." That means the Wolves who, despite a 30-2-1 mark in the last three years, haven't been able to get to the Rose Bowl, have a chance to dislodge rival Ohio State from the New Year's Day trip.

Although Dennis Franklin, who guided Michigan's offense for the past three seasons is gone, Schembechler promises that Gordon Bell "is the most exciting runner" he's ever coached, and Mark Elzinga, who spelled Franklin last year, is ready for first string.

At Ohio State, Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin is back along with the dangerous Cornelius Greene at quarterback, but Woody Hayes has to find among his ample supply of talent, some trenchmen to fill holes in both the offensive and defensive lines.

Also missing from a weakened secondary is All American Neal Colzie, and the Buckeyes have a tough early schedule, including the season opener Sept. 13 with Michigan State, followed by Penn State.

Michigan State returns 33 players from last year's squad, including Charley Baggett leading an offense which includes game-buster Levi Jackson at fullback. The Spartan defense, traditionally tough, is a veteran unit. Coach Denny Stoltz says, "For the first time in a long time, we probably have as much good players as anybody else."

Notre Dame, No. 6 a year ago, is the top Midwest independent, but the Irish will be pressed to match last year's record which included an Orange Bowl victory over Alabama. Notre Dame opens against Boston College on Sept. 8 and by then Devine, who returned to college coaching after a fling at Green Bay in the National Football League, will have to find a quarterback, some runners and a host of blockers.

On defense, the return of end Ross Browner and Luther

Aggies tops in S'west

DALLAS (AP)—Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard was asked recently if he was concerned about all the preseason forecasters handing the Southwest Conference football title to his muscular and experienced Aggies.

Taking a puff from his ever-present pipe, Bellard smiled and said, "No, we don't mind. It's nice to be in a position to be noticed."

All-American linebacker Ed Simonini backed up the confidence of his coach by saying, "We're really looking forward to this season. We know what it's like now to work hard all year then see everying go down the drain at the end of the season. That's not going to happen again."

The Aggies blew a chance to win the SWC crown last year, losing to upstart Southern Methodist and then falling to Texas on the day after Thanksgiving.

Baylor charged to the championship—its first in one-half century — and Grant Teaff was named Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

The Aggies returned a mature and seasoned team from their 8-3 club in 1974. Twenty-three offensive lettermen and 17 defensive letterman suited up.

The SWC title is no certainty because the Aggies must develop a consistent quarterback—a deficiency which kept them from the throne last year. David Shipman sparkled like a silver belt buckle in the spring. Should he or David Walker jell the Aggies could be awesome.

At least the television folks think so. A&M is scheduled for dates on national television against Illinois, Texas and Arkansas.

year and coach Jim Sweeney blamed that on poor coaching.

Sweeney plans to revamp the offense into a 5-2-4 to stop the run more effectively and hopes linebackers Jerry Payne and Don Hover can help contain the pass.

The PCAA race seems to boil down to San Diego State.

The Aztecs, known in the past for their offensive punch and aerial fireworks, may win the PCAA this year on defense.

Coach Claude Gilbert has two of the coast's top defensive ends in 252-pound Mike Gilbert and 6-6, 263-pound Greg "Too Strong" Boyd, who can bench press 450 pounds. Other defenders back include backs Ed Kertel and Kevin Feeney and junior college transfer Kenny Hinton.

Two defensive linemen who started at other schools but transferred are eligible at San Diego State. They are Reggie Lewis from Oregon and John Tremblay from Colorado.

Fresno State's Bulldogs will field a big, experienced defensive team and an offense featuring the pass.

Fresno quarterback Nef Cortez threw for 1,916 yards and 15 touchdowns last year but Fresno needs running help.

Graduation hurt Long Beach State quite a bit but junior college transfer Joe Paopao appeared to take command of the quarterback spot in spring drills. He'll have a handful of top receivers including tight end Leanell Jones, a 6-3, 225-pounder who may consider a top pro prospect.

Stanford Brewer, who averaged 24.7 yards per catch last year, is the wide receiver with the most potential. And at running back Coach Wayne Howard can call on Herb Lusk, the No. 2 rushed from last year.

Guard Joe Davis of Claremont will be one of few starters back for USC.

Troy's loaded again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John McKay's hair is already white, so there probably won't be any visible signs showing the coach's anger if his Southern California football teams misses tackles, fumbles, throws interceptions and acts like no McKay team in a dozen years.

But McKay readily admits that, "This is the youngest team we've had in many, many years... I think there's a lot of real good young talent, but as we all know, young players are prone to make more mistakes than more mature players."

Only 13 lettermen return from the team which wound up second in The AP's final postbowls poll, but McKay has nine starters in that group. And don't let the cigar-chomping McKay fool anyone: the Trojans, despite their youth, are still loaded.

All-American tailback Anthony Davis is gone from the position McKay is most concerned about. Sophomore Dwight Ford, junior college star Lynn Cain, high school all-American Paul Rice and junior Bernard Tarver appeared about equal in spring practice.

The fellow with the edge in that department, surprisingly, was an ex-fullback, junior Rickey Bell, who showed good quickness for his height—6 feet 2—and heft, 215 pounds.

McKay can afford to have Bell make the switch because he feels he's got the "best three fullbacks as a group in the nation." They are returning starter Dave Farmer, at 6-2 and 209; Bell and sophomore Mosi Tatupu, 6-0, 225 of Honolulu.

The passing combination of Pat Haden to John McKay which paced USC to a 10-1-1 record last season, including a 55-24 rout of Notre Dame, has departed for the World Football League. But the little-remembered Shelton Diggs is back.

He's the swift flanker who caught the two-point conversion from Haden in the waning moments last Jan. 1 as the Trojans stopped Ohio State 18-17. The 6-3, 195-pound Diggs has great hands, great speed and, even through he's a junior, experience.

Perhaps the strongest asset to a good running attack is the offensive line and returning for McKay to drool about are Marvin Powell and Joe Davis.

Powell is a 6-5, 270-pounder with good quickness who anchored the strong side of the line last year. Davis is 6-3, 245 and the senior plays the weak side.

"I'm worried about split end and tight end," said McKay, who once coached Bob Klein, now of the Los Angeles Rams, who is considered the best blocking tight end in the National Football League. "Both jobs are up in the air. No one at those positions has ever played longer than a few minutes."

Richard Wood, a linebacker who is USC's only three-time All-American, has departed, but four starters are back including budding star Gary Jeter at tackle and inside linebacker Kevin Bruce, who led everyone—including Wood—in tackles last year.

Lacking experience, McKay has elected to switch to a track team on defense this year. Ten of the 11 who'll probably start run the 40-yard-dash in 499 seconds or better.

"Greatness depends on how fast your material develops," said McKay philosophically. "And a bit of luck," he quickly added.

"But I also think the harder you work, the luckier you get. This team worked awfully hard this spring, and if they come back this fall in great shape and work that hard again, we could have a heck of a team.

"But there's no doubt our young players must come through fast."

McKay admitted, however, that "there are less pro prospects among the seniors than in any year since 1962. It'll be a very large, very fast team and so I would say we'll be pretty good early in the year—and by the end of the year we should be excellent.

"Truthfully, though, we're a year away from greatness. USC has a chance to be a great team in 1976."

Of course, McKay hopes the day is Jan. 1, 1976.

UCLA coach rates Sciarra

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA Coach Dick Vermeil will use his veer offense again in 1975 but he said there will be much more dropback passing "because we've got the best college football player in America right behind the center."

Vermeil, speaking to the Pacific-8 Skywriters, said his veer would be better because "the coaches are better as describing it and we'll throw a little bit more, to open up the offense.

"We're a running team; we know that, but we think we can pass a lot better this year than we did last. And John Sciarra is the man who'll do it. He's got a great arm, an NFL arm, and we know we'll face a lot of third-and-long situations.

"I'm running the veer because I want to make sure I give the guy who can do it all the opportunity to do it. I don't believe in fooling around with the quarterback spot. That's why I told Jeff Dankworth that John would be the quarterback—there wasn't really any competition for the job."

The coach said Sciarra, at 5 feet 10 and 178 pounds, would be No. 1 unless he proved ineffective—which Vermeil doubts—or if he gets injured, such as happened last year in the Bruins' seventh game. Sciarra broke an ankle and was out for the rest of the season.

Vermeil said the veer produced good yardage in 1974 "but we were sloppy and sometimes disorganized. This year we're preparing differently. And the players are more familiar with the offense."

Vermeil termed his players more organized and a lot happier this year and showed more character. One of the writers who has traveled down the coast seeing the Pacific-8 teams said every coach on the tour has talked about character. The writer asked Vermeil if character was just a catchword, something to say.

"No, it's something very real. If talent and character are close to equal, I'd rather have character. I've seen a lot of talented people who haven't done it on game day."

He declined to predict a title year: "I'm as optimistic as any of them but I'm trying to be realistic. I'd like to say we're going to the Rose Bowl but right now the Rose Bowl is not very important. UCLA has only one bowl game right now and that's Sept. 13 against Iowa State."

He continued, however, to say that Sciarra was the key to his club.

"The nice thing about John is that he's gonna be 25 per cent better on game day than he is on the practice field, and he's a fine player on the practice field."

Vermeil added, "I don't know how many teams can beat us, but the team that does better strap it on. They're gonna need it."

Vermeil praised a number of his huge offensive linemen for their development this year— guards Phil McKinnely and Randy Cross, tackles Jack DeMartinis and Bob

Plunkett injured

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Ever since quarterback Jim Plunkett joined the New England Patriots in 1971, the National Football League club has done a pretty good job of keeping the former Stanford All-American and Heisman trophy winner patched together.

Plunkett has survived knee, rib and various other injuries while managing to play in 84 games, missing just two because of the players' strike last year.

However luck ran out on the durable signal-caller Sunday night in an exhibition game with the San Diego Chargers. The Patriots' 31-24 victory was meaningless.

Auburn challenges 'Bama's bid in SEC

ATLANTA (AP) — College football in the South remains in a familiar rut this year. Bear Bryant still has his houndstooth hat and the area's most powerful team—Alabama.

"Our players feel like we should have won at least one national championship the last couple of years, but didn't," says Bryant. "I hope that's foremost in their minds."

Alabama, which has won 43 of its last 44 regular season games but failed miserably in bowl competition, is heavily favored to capture its fifth straight Southeastern Conference crown this fall.

The Crimson Tide's major stumbling block should be archrival Auburn, where Shug Jordan, one of the nation's most successful coaches, is retiring at the end of the season.

Meanwhile, tight races are anticipated in the area's other two major conferences—the Atlantic Coast Conference where North Carolina State and Clemson are favored and the Southern Conference, which really has no clear cut favorite.

Georgia Tech, hoping to return to the glory days of the Bobby Dodd era, appears unchallenged as the South's top independent, reboudning under the guidance of flamboyant Pepper Rodgers.

More than a half dozen teams appear to be strong in college division competition—Elon, Alcorn, Grambling, Eastern Kentucky, Jacksonville, Ala., State, Delta State and Western Carolina.

"Our goal, of course, is always to win the national championship," says Bryant. "You have to set your goals high to motivate your players thinking along those lines."

If any team in the South has the potential to challenge such national powers as Oklahoma, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame and Southern California, it is Alabama.

The Tide, operating from the wishbone, again has a stable of outstading running backs headed by fleet Willie Shelby and Calvin Culliver, with experience at quarterback in Richard Todd.

Graduation depleted the defensive secondary, but Alabama still has talent on that unit, most notably All-American end Leroy Cook and all - conference linebacker Woodrow Lowe.

Auburn presents a different picture this fall Normally potent on defense, this year the offense is expected to shoulder the burden until the defense gains experience.

Darkhorse contenders in the SEC are Tennessee, which faces a vicious schedule early, and Florida, which doesn't have to play Alabama.

If Tennessee survives its first five games, the Vols should coast to another fine season. They open with Maryland, followed by UCLA, Auburn, Louisiana State and Alabama.

Tennessee has one of the SEC's most versatile athletes in Stan Morgan, an outstanding runner and pass receiver who also returns punts and kickoffs.

The remainder of the SEC presents question marks. Georgia will be explosive on offense, where All-SEC running back Glenn Harrison, 959 yards, returns, but may give up more points than it scores.

LSU has the opposite problem. The Bengals have problems on offense, but should rank among the league's better defensive units because of two outstanding tackles, Steve Cassidy and A.J. Duhe.

Kentucky returns two all-conference stars—running back Sonny Collins and offensive tackle Warren Bryant. An injury prevented Collins from cracking the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the second straight year.

Mississippi State, winner of the Sun Bowl last season, lost quarterback Rockey Felker and defensive tackle Jimmy Webb to graduation, but should be tough again. The Bulldog ace should be Walter Packer, an All-SEC running back after gaining 994 yards last season.

Vanderbilt has the only new coach in the conference—Fred Pancoast, who moved over from Memphis State to replace Steve Sloan, who went to Texas Tech. Vandy also has two All-SEC performers back, tight end Barry Burton and safety Jay Chesley.

Mississippi is still rebuilding under Ken Cooper, but the Rebels offer an outstanding defensive tackle, Ben Williams.

Lou Holtz has 38 letter winners back at North Carolina State, hoping to replace Maryland in the ACC throneroom. The top star is quarterback Dave Buckey, who had more than 1,600 yards total offense last year.

All-American tight end Bennie Cunningham heads a group of 48 lettermen returning to Clemson, which could capture the title in the ACC.

Maryland was stung by graduation, but the Terps' program has reached a stage where it can overcome some of those losses. Jim Brechbiel, a defensive back, is highly regarded.

North Carolina set an NCAA record last fall with two tailbacks surpassing the 1,000-yard mark in the same season—and both return. All-SEC James Betterson, the starter had 1,082 yards last year and his substitute, Mike Voight, contributed 1,0..

Virginia has two of the ACC's top performers. Quarterback Scott Gardner was the nation's offensive leader until shelved by an injury after seven games. He passed for 1,344 yards, ran for 2 and threw for 4 touchdowns in those seven games. The other ace is offensive guard Tom Glassic, a 250-pounder.

The wide open Southern Conference race has VMI seeking a second straight crown, but facing strong opposition from East Carolina and possibly Appalachian.

Georgia Tech returns eight defensive starters, including stellar linebacker Lucius Sanford, and two veteran backs with a year's experience in the wishbone, running back David Sims (881 yards) and quarterback Danny Myers.

Reyes. McKinnely weighs in at 260 pounds, Cross at 246, DeMartinis at 273 and Reyes at 252.

The coach noted that his offensive and defensive lines were "big and much quicker off the line" than last year because of a special conditioning program that has made them faster.

"Bruce Davis, for example, is only a freshman. Now, he's 6 feet 6½ and he weighs 275 and he'll probably play in our opener."

Vermeil installed the veer last year and it produced a 6-3-2 record. The coach wasn't at all pleased with the mark, perhaps because rival Southern California was 10-1-1, including an 18-17 Rose Bowl triumph over Ohio State.

But Vermeil likes the veer and most of his conversation Wednesday concerned the offense.

"The veer is a running offense and that's what we hope we'll do best," he said. He added that last year's starting left halfback, Wendell Tyler, was now only second string because he still hadn't fully recovered from a left elbow injury last year.

He said 5-9, 192-pound Carl Zaby and 5-10, 185-pound Eddie Ayers were among the top candidates for halfback. "Wendell knows he'll have to beat out someone, but Zaby will be so hard to outwork. He's a tremendous worker. And pound for pound Ayers is the best blocker I've ever seen."

The top two wide receivers are Wally Henry and Norm Anderson. Henry, at 5-8 and 167, "has been much better catching the ball and he can run like mad." Anderson, at 6-2 and 167, suffered a compound thumb dislocation a week ago and had the stitches removed Wednesday. He caught 27 passes for 480 yards last year and scored six times.

At tight end is "the finest athlete on the whole team, maybe in the state," the coach praised. "Jerry Robinson of Santa Clara can do anything. I don't think there's a position, with the exception of the center of the line, that he can't play."

Robinson, at 6-3 and 218 pounds "was a fantastic basketball player in Northern California, he runs the 100 in 9.7 and he can catch the ball and block like crazy. He'd be an incredible linebacker if we put him there."

But Vermeil, despite the effusive praise, recalled that Southern California was the Pac-8 representative to the Rose Bowl last year:

"We are a more complete football team than a year ago, but if it takes 14 NFL draft choices to go to the Rose Bowl and win it, then we're a long ways away.

"But the discipline of our program is beginning to show and we have the attitude of a squad that can win. The kids are getting to know the veer better—it isn't even close to last year—and I hope that I, as a head coach, can do a hell of a lot better job than I did last year. We have a lot of weaknesses, but we have enough good football players to be competitive with anyone on a given Saturday."

UCLA head football Coach Dick Vermeil gives quarterback John Sciarra some advice.

Irish may need lots of luck

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame football this season could be a dud—or with a little of the traditional Irish luck, pretty good.

It's been 13 years since a Notre Dame team lost more than two games in a season, and new Coach Dan Devine says although it will be challenging, he hopes to keep the string going.

"I've been coaching a long time, and I've never gone into a season saying, 'Well, we should lose this game' or 'We can lose this game,' or gone into a game thinking we're gonna lose," he said.

On offense, tackle Al Wukiak is the only returning starter. The other 10, including mainstays like Pete Demmerle and Tom Clements, are gone.

Replacing Clements at quarterback is Devine's big task.

The leading candidate is senior Rick Slager, with another senior, Frank Allocco, also challenging.

But Devine seems to be leaning toward building a strong young team, so he's not necessarily committed to experience over youth.

"We're going to be a very young ball club, and inexperienced," he said. "But we'll get it together."

Michigan eyes roses

Pat hand or not, the Wolverines again figure to battle for the Big Ten title, and possibly the national championship, in 1975.

"This is the first time in seven years we've had rain at this thing," he told a recent Press Day gathering. "That means we'll have good luck this year — which we haven't had the last three."

Michigan has been co-champion of the Big Ten the last three seasons, but each time arch-rival Ohio State has been picked for the Rose Bowl.

The Maize and Blue have been conference titlists or cochamps five of Schembechler's six seasons at Michigan. His teams have posted a 58-7-1 record.

The Wolverines were 10-1 last year, losing only to Ohio State 12-10 in the season finale at Columbus. They could go unbeaten this year, but the going should be tougher than usual.

Michigan opens the season Sept. 13 at Wisconsin, which Schembechler said "could have the best offensive team in the conference."

The three non-league foes who follow are more impressive than in recent years: Stanford, Baylor and Missouri, the last team to beat Michigan before it went on its current 35-game home winning streak.

A possible title challenger, intra-state rival Michigan State, is next at East Lansing. Even in a down year the Spartans battle Michigan in a tough, usually close, game.

Michigan faces five more Big Ten teams before closing out at home against Ohio State in the game that could again decide the title.

"This is the youngest football team since I've been here and maybe one of the most enthusiastic," Schembechler said. "But we have enough sprinkling of veterans to give us the senior leadership we need."

Sophomores, including three in the secondary, will be in a number of starting roles and up to three freshmen might crack the lineup—including left-handed quarterback Rick Leach of Flint. He is expected to challenge junior Mark Elzinga of Bay City.

Aggies best in the S'west

Texas will field a potent offensive club behind fullback Earl Campbell, but Texas Coach Darrell Royal says the team will be only average or slightly below par defensively in the early going.

Baylor will have talent galore but Teaff has the unhappy distinction of facing Auburn at home and Michigan. Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech on the road. The schedule could take some sap out of the Bears, who will field Teaff's finest defensive team.

Baylor won't be quite as explosive as it was in 1974 with quarterback Neal Jeffrey and stubby tailback Steve Beaird.

Arkansas has enough offensive talent and defensive potential to loom as a darkhorse as does he Texas Tech Red Raiders under new Coach Steve Sloan.

Tech should be deadly on offense and the switch of Ecomet Burley from tackle to noseguard could help settle a shaky defense.

Southern Methodist will boast a potent offense but Coach Dave Smith must count on freshmen to help a leaky defense. The Mustangs will have to score a lot of points in every game to win.

FIGHT ON FOR OLD S.C.
IN THE OLD SCHOOL COLORS

USC

Dogfight in the East

NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely has Penn State had so many challengers for Eastern college football supremacy.

Alphabetically, Boston College, Navy, Pitt, Rutgers, Temple and West Virginia all think they have a shot at dethroning the Nittany Lions and most of them will get a chance to prove whether or not they are for real before the season is many weeks old.

Boston College opens against Notre Dame, followed by Temple and West Virginia. Pitt starts with road contests against Georgia and—gulp!—Oklahoma. Temple starts with none other than Penn State itself and the Owls also show West Virginia, Boston College and Pitt among the first five foes. West Virginia meets Temple, B.C. and Penn State in the first five weeks of the campaign.

Joe Paterno refuses to call Penn State's schedule the toughest in his nine years as head coach but it is an impressive one, with Temple, Stanford and Ohio State—in Golumbus— the three first opponents. Paterno has the best winning percentage (85-15-1—.847) among the nation's major college coaches so it's a good bet the Lions will win a goodly share of their games.

"This is a young squad that probably will have to struggle," Paterno says, "but it is a squad that should get to be pretty good before the season is over."

The interior line, flanker and tailback appear to be the strong points of an offense that may include eight underclassmen in the starting line-up but could develop quickly if either John Andress or John Carroll takes charge at quarterback. "Our problem is inexperience; there is no question about the potential," Paterno says.

Defensively, there are more experienced players available, led by linebacker Greg Buttle and tackle John Quinn, but Paterno is concerned "about our inexperience and lack of size on the defensive line."

Boston College returns its entire backfield, including Mike Kruczek, a 68.8 per cent passer, and national scoring leader Keith Barnette, while wide receiver Dave Zumbach is on the verge of setting a number of school pass-catching records.

Penn State's supremacy challenged by many

The defense, led by cornerback Dave Almeida, will be solid while the Eagles' kicking game—placekicker Fred Steinfort, punter Jim Walton—is one of the best in the country.

Navy upset Penn State last fall and led Notre Dame for three quarters and the Midshipmen could make it to the winner's circle for the first time since 1967 if they can beef up the offense to go with a veteran defense. Eight defensive starters return, headed by rover Chet Moeller, tackle Dave Papak and linebacker Andy Bushak.

At Pitt, Coach Johnny Majors has gone to the Veer to take advantage of speedsters like running backs Tony Dorsett— an All-American as a freshman in 1973—and Elliott Walker and quarterback Robert Haygood. But the Panthers have holes on the offensive line and in the secondary.

The offensive line and the secondary also are concerns at Rutgers, which returns its top two rushers—Curt Edwards and Mike Fisher—and quarterback Bert Kosup.

Temple has gone 17-3 in the past two seasons and the defense, led by 260-pound middle guard Joe Klecko, hopes to improve on last year's 12th-place finish nationally. The problem is finding a replacement for quarterback Steve Joachim, the country's total offense leader.

West Virginia has a flock of fine runners—Artie Owens, Ron Lee, Heywood Smith, Dwayne Woods—but allowed 224 points a year ago and is inexperienced, to boot.

The other independents have problems of one sort or another, although Holy Cross has a solid defense featuring Lou Kobza, Frank Matasavage and John Trimbach up front. Wide receiver Dave Quehl caught 62 passes last year, a New England record.

But Syracuse is still sorely lacking in team speed, Army's defense must play over its head while the offense shifts between a ground attack led by Scott Gillogly and the passing arm of Leamon Hall, Villanova looks to new coach Dick Bedesem to improve on last year's 3-8 mark and Colgate must bolster a defense that surrendered 31.8 points a game in '74.

Yale will rely on a defense led by linebackers John Smoot, Brent Kirk and John Cahill while the offense catches up. Harvard lost record-breaking receiver Pat McInally but the main concern is at quarterback where no one has ever completed a pass in varsity competition.

Brown has quarterback Bob Bateman, who completed a lot of passes...for Vermont. He transferred when the Catamounts dropped football and joins 18 returning starters at Brown. Dartmouth will be strong defensively with the likes of linebackers Reggie Williams and Skip Cummins.

Princeton quarterback Ron Beible and receivers Neil Chamberlin and Kevin Gropp form a potent aerial combination and Bob Casciola has the Tigers on the way back. Graduation left a large offensive hole at Penn despite the return of running back Jack Wixted, but the Quakers could be solid on defense.

At Notre Dame, Dan Devine returns to the college ranks, succeeding Ara Parseghian as coach of the Fighting Irish. He has problems on offense, starting at quarterback, but the Irish should have a super defense with ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry and safety Luther Bradley returning from a year's suspension to join star tackle Steve Niehaus.

Penn State, without a bruising type runner for the first time in ages, will resort to formation finesse. Coach Joe Paterno threatens —nay, promises—some single wing and double wing gimmickry . . . maybe even some triple wing.

Southern Cal Coach John Mckay says his Trojans—nicknamed the Baby Brigade—are a year away from greatness but the question is whether McKay will be around to see it since he's rumored en route to the National Football League's new Tampa franchise in 1976. They lost 14 starters—most of them to the pro ranks—but the flow of talent never seems to end at USC.

Explosive Quarerback John Sciarra leads UCLA's struggle to raise its football team to basketball level. Stanford and California are the darkhorses, but Stanford opens with road games at Penn State and Michigan while Cal must replace All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

Alabama Bear Bryant had to discipline a couple of his Crimson Tiders recently with suspensions but Tennessee's Bill Battle says 'Bama still has "the best bunch of talent ever assembled in the South." Among them are running back Calvin Culliver, quarterback Richard Todd and, if he gets back into Bryant's good graces, All-American defensive end Leroy Cook.

For those of you who thought no one was older than Bear Bryant, Shug Jordan, who's older than Bryant, starts his 25th and final campaign at Auburn with some defensive problems but a nifty offense.

If there is an SEC darkhorse it looks like Florida, where Doug Dickey has brought the Gators back to prominence. But just about every team in the SEC except Mississippi is given a shot at the first division.

Ohio State returns its starting backfield, led by Heisman Trophy-winner Archie Griffin and quarterback Cornelius Greene. The Buckeyes could surrender their Big Ten laurels to a young Michigan team that has barely missed a Rose Bowl trip the last few years and should get better as the season progresses. Watch out for Michigan State, 1974 conqueror of Ohio State, and maybe Wisconsin.

Texas lost the SWC crown to Baylor last fall and the Longhorns' bid for a return to power rests with a defense that isn't up to its usual standards. The offense, however, is powerful, featuring sophomore fullback sensation Earl Campbell.

The experts have given the preseason nod to Texas A&M. The Aggies, under ex-Texas aide Emory Bellard, have a veteran team, with nine players, including star linebacker Ed Simonini, seeking a fourth varsity letter. Baylor, Arkansas and Texas Tech are next in line.

Maryland may have enough to retain its ACC title despite the loss of super tackle Randy White and a bunch of other starters. N.C. State will sacrifice some offensive firepower but the Wolfpack could have its best defense ever.

Bradley at safety, both suspended last season, figure to strengthen a solid unit led by Steve Niehaus who goes either at end or tackle.

Miami of Ohio, No. 10 nationally last year and unbeaten in 23 games, is trying for a third Mid-American Conference title, but with Michigan State, Purdue and Cincinnati in nonconference games, it will be hard to remain unbeaten.

Two of the Midwest's surprise teams could be Colorado in the Big Eight and Wisconsin in the Big Ten. Nine regulars come back to Colorado's offense with running backs Bill Waddy and Terry Kunz supplementing the passing of David Williams and Jeff Austin, a transfer fighting for Williams' starting job.

Oklahoma State and Missouri will display versatile offenses, but Missouri's non-conference schedule against Alabama, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, could wreck the Tigers' season at the start.

Kansas and Kansas State have new coaches and will be rebuilding, and Iowa State is counting on Luther Blue, moved from sp'it end to slotback, for its biggest offensive thrust.

Wisconsin's strength is the ground attack led by Billy Marek who ripped 1,215 yards last year behind the blocking of big tackle Dennis Lick. Besides Marek, the Badgers have Mike Morgan and Ken Starch for infantry duties but need a replacement for departed quarterback Greg Bohlig.

Purdue could be a conference darkhorse with depth on offense and defense. One of the nation's best offensive linemen is the Boilermakers' Ken Long. Iowa and Minnesota are going to rely mostly on offense and need to close the defense. Illinois and Northwestern are deep in running backs but have gaps, while Indiana has the Big Ten's leading passer in Terry Jones.

Tulsa posted an 8-3 mark to capture the Missouri Valley Conference in 1974 and Jeb Blount's passing should boost the Hurricanes to another title.

New Mexico State will rely on senior Bill Bowerman, and West Texas State's chances for improving its 6-5 mark a year ago rest with Tully Blanchard. Drake and Louisville are solid teams which should win more than they lose.

Webb coach set to retire

Biggest news among the local entries in the Arrowhead League this season is the pending retirement of Webb School's Les Perry.

Perry will be in his 27th year of coaching the Gauls this fall, and has announced it will be his last.

It would be nice if the Gauls could give Perry an A.L. title as a going-away gift, but that hardly seems possible. Super-rugged Arrowhead entries Big Bear and Notre Dame are everybody's favorites to run one-two in the loop, leaving Webb and La Verne Lutheran to fight it out with the other five league schools.

Perry's Gauls do have the services of two fine all-purpose backs in Doug McCowan (all-league last year) and Paul Richards, and some good sophomores coming up, but don't appear to have the depth or experience to better 1974's 4-4-1 record.

Lutheran has a new coach in John Rode and the Trojans look ready to improve on last year's 2-7 mark. However, the L.V. squad consists of only 20 players which will make it tough.

Returning to the Lutheran fold for 1975 are quarterback Steve Yager, fullback Ted Trahms and halfback Don Liles. Yager will have two talented targets in tight end Dale Pomo and wide receiver Jim Balderson, but the Trojans have a lack of experienced linemen and figure to be no match for the bigger Arrowhead League entries.

The Ontario Christian Knights have been developing a winning football tradition and from all indications 1975 will not be an exception.

Ed Werkhoven, in his sixth year as head coach at the Ontario school, feels his squad can improve on its 5-4 1974 slate. Unfortunately for the Knights, they reside in the Olympic League, which has been about the toughest CIF 1-A loop around the past couple years.

Werkhoven doesn't feel his team has the depth to upset pre-season Olympic favorite Whittier Christian, but that does not mean it won't be an exciting season for OCHS' fans.

The Knights have the services of quarterback John VanderSchaaf once again this fall. The 6-3, 190-pounder looms as one of the top signalcallers in the valley and will be tough for OCHS opponents to contain.

Running back Mike Siegersma is also back for 1975, but the Knights will need to find some linemen for last year's J.V. squad for him to run behind.

Building year for JC grids

The Panthers hope to improve on last year's dismal 1-8 record and will be counting on a veteran defensive line to do it with the likes of Dave Hurd, Marty Martinez and Honnie Vanderkallen.

Richardson will have to fill an entire offensive backfield however. The prospects are Alta Loma's Jamie Broecker and Chaffey's Bill Childress and Larry Garcia at quarterback and Marcus Jennings (Ontario), Dominic Licavoli (Upland), Mark White (Upland) and Randy Campbell (Norco) at running backs.

CBL title in sight for Tigers

Chaffey High's veteran grid coach Ray Stark feels he has the talent to win the Citrus Belt League title this fall, but it won't be easy.

Chaffey, the valley's only CIF 4-A entry, has traditionally found CBL play to be highly competitive and 1975 will not be an exception. Both Fontana and Redlands will be the favorites to cop the loop crown but Starks' squad should make its presence felt.

The Tigers have highly touted offensive tackle Anthony Munoz, all 6-5, 245 pounds of him, back for his season. The quarterbacking will be in charge of John Gable (J.V. QB last year) and Randy Johnston (signalcaller for the soph squad in 1974). Returnees Kirk Young, Rick Fellhauer and Skip Champion will handle the running back chores.

On defense, Stark has his entire defensive secondary returning but has some question-marks along the defensive line. The Chaffey mentor feels that if some of his younger players develop quickly enough this fall the Tigers could very well find themselves in CIF playoff competition come November.

Braves' chief running threat will be fullback Steve Robinson, who gained over 600 yards in 1974 as a junior and was named to the all-H.L. second team.

Ontario will try to improve in last year's 1-6 league record, and coach Doug Brooks hopes that junior quarterback Ramon Flores' extra year of experience will help.

While all the coaches agree that the Hacienda League title race looks wide open, the consensus gives San Dimas a slight edge.

"But I don't look for anyone to go undefeated," said Alta Loma's Cook. "Everyone's going to take some lumps. There'll be some real dogfights."

American tries new grid league

American Christian Academy will be the only valley high school playing eight-man football this year, and the Minutemen hope that a new coach and a new league will change their fortunes.

American Christian went winless last year but new coach Bob Williams has his squad entered in the Christian League for the fall after the locals resided in the tough Academy League last year.

Home field for American will be Ontario's John Galvin Park, where five of its games at slated to be played this season.

"I'm sorry Alabama did this," Houston football coach Bill Yeoman on Alabama's successful suit against NCAA concerning rule limiting traveling squads to 48 players.

Wild SAL grid race expected

become a big winner is the Highlander defensive unit. That eleven lacked consistency last fall as Upland posted a 4-5-1 season mark and would appear to lack both experience and size for 1975.

Loss of 18 of 22 starters puts Claremont High coach Esper Keiser in a rebuilding situation for this season. However, the Wolfpack mentor is the dean of SAL coaches and his squads can always be counted on to produce their share of upsets.

Biggest plus for the Pack from last year's 4-6 team is place kicker Jim VanZee. VanZee figures to be one of the top scorers in the league and may well challenge a few CIF field goals marks along the way.

Mike Davis is the tentative Claremont starter at quarterback, with halfback Chuck Purdy the chief rushing threat. Mil Pompa is one of the best tight ends in the valley, but Keiser may need other equally talented receivers to make the passing attack work.

Chino High is coming off a 5-4 season under coach Jim Rawls but will have to pull an upset to cop the SAL title this time around.

The Cowboys have two fine runners in Rick Riedel and Art Carbajal but are going to have to develop a passing game to go with them.

Rawls is also concerned with his squad's lack of depth and size on defense, an area in which Rawls' coached teams are normally strong.

Rich Bare is taking over a Montclair High football squad which finished 3-6 overall last year, so the new Cavalier mentor has no where to go but up.

The Cavs do have a fine running back returning in Jim Donaldson, but not much else. They also lack size and experience, but Bare is hoping his team's desire and enthusiasm will make the Cavaliers a dark horse candidate for SAL honors.

Deputies say they have 'greasepaint bandit'

A man believed to be the "greasepaint bandit" responsible for at least 13 armed robberies in the valley area and six robberies in Riverside County was arrested Monday afternoon by Riverside County sheriff's deputies.

Officers said Phillip Don Parra, 27, of 1253 E. Rosewood Court, Ontario, was arrested outside a Riverside economy service station about 4 p.m. Monday after an attempted robbery.

Riverside deputies said one of their officers on routine patrol in the area was seen by the suspect as he was in the process of robbing a service station.

Deputies said the sight of the patrol car panicked the robber and he grabbed his robbery note and ran to his car in the service station with the money. The deputy saw the suspect running to his car and became suspicious. The deputy minutes later took Parra into custody.

Ontario police Sgt. George Cherry said Riverside deputies are holding Parra as a suspect in six robberies in their area since Friday. Cherry said Parra matched the description of the "greasepaint bandit" wanted in the Valley.

Cherry said this morning he learned from the Riverside sheriff's office that Parra had been arrested with a starter pistol and a robbery note. In addition Parra at the time of his arrest had grease spots on the right side of his face covering four moles.

Cherry said the fingerprints of the suspect matched those lifted off a counter at Ole's Hardware Store in Upland following a robbery there last week.

Cherry said Parra made several admissions to the Riverside deputies, but would not talk about the robberies in the valley. At least 13 armed robberies of small service stations and convenience stores have occurred in Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Upland since Aug. 27. In each of the robberies a man with greasepaint on the right side of his face drew a small black pistol on clerks.

Cherry said a record check on Parra's background has yet to be run, but officers know that the suspect is not a heroin addict as first believed.

Cherry said preliminary investigation revealed that Parra had been unemployed for the past seven months. His last job was listed as a Los Angeles County Parks and Recreation Department part-time employe.

Cherry said the investigation is continuing today with detectives searching for a possible accomplice in the robberies.

Ontario officers said the assistance rendered by the local merchants and residents of the valley area was invaluable in the investigation. Cherry said numerous merchants and residents called in information about persons matching the general description of the greasepaint bandit. He said most of the suspects checked in the case were very close in description to the greasepaint bandit.

Parra is in the Riverside County Jail this morning, being held without bail pending further investigation. He is charged with armed robbery.

BEATS THE SYSTEM

Robert H. Simpson, the 95-year-old man who has been arrested approximately 315 times for picketing inside the California Capitol in Sacramento, gives the victory sign Monday after Gov. Brown signed bill into law repealing the measure that bans picketing in the Capitol. Simpson is self-described as muckraker-in-chief.

N.Y. schools close as teachers strike

By The Associated Press

The nation's largest school system began shutting down today as 65,000 teachers in financially strapped New York City went on strike.

Initial reports indicated that the walkout by the United Federation of Teachers was generally effective in disrupting classes for the 1.1 million pupils who started the fall term Monday.

Early reports indicated that about 150 of the city's 950 schools had been closed.

Working conditions, not pay, are major issues in the strike. The teachers now earn from $9,700 to $20,350 with the median salary $17,350.

Asked when negotiations might resume, union President Albert Shanker said, "as soon as the other side is ready — hopefully today ... We are available right now and we will continue to be."

Contract negotiations, held in the shadow of a fiscal crisis that could result in the city's going bankrupt, broke off Monday night.

"We cannot expect quick results," said union chief Albert Shanker as 25,000 teachers chanted "strike, strike, strike" Monday night at Madison Square Garden. "This strike may go on for a long time."

School board spokesmen said the strike was illegal and a court order would be sought under a law that bans strikes by public employes.

Three New York City schools closed and attendance dropped at others on Monday when teachers and parents protested budget cuts that increased class sizes and ended services such as school crossing guards.

Board demands for increased productivity — less preparation time, a longer school day and elimination of sabbaticals — was the main stumbling block to the union, officials said.

New York's fiscal crisis resulted in the union trimming its wage demands. The city cut $230 million from the school budget and laid off 12,000 teachers. The city now has 65,000 teachers.

Early reports indicated that about 150 schools had been closed.

Shanker joined a picket line outside Mabel Dean Bacon High School — a girl's vocational school — in Manhattan and predicted the strike could be a long one. He said the walkout was "very effective — it's unfortunate it had to happen."

The teachers' overwhelming walkout vote came Monday night despite last-minute pleas from state mediators to extend the old contract until the city's economic situation — now teetering near bankruptcy — is more clearly defined.

Shouting "Strike! Strike! Strike!," more than 25,000 rank-and-file packed into Madison Square Garden to overwhelmingly approve by voice vote Shanker's call to strike the city's 950 schools. Another 10,000 teachers overflowed into the streets and a nearby auditorium

Early today, a UFT spokesman said a secret ballot vote of the teachers in the garden ran 22,870 for a strike, 900 against.

"This strike may go on for a long time," Shanker warned. "...But when we do come back, it will be under conditions that will enable use to teach."

The strike fueled frustration and anger already felt in schools throughout the city that already have been hit by a $230-million budget cut and the recent layoffs of 7,000 teachers and other school employes. Athletic programs alone have been reduced by 40 per cent and waiting lists for a place in kindergarten are lengthy.

The first day of the fall term on Monday was marked by scattered boycotts and demonstrations protesting larger classes. Six schools in Manhattan were closed or operations curtailed by the protests.

During contract talks, negotiators for both sides have conceded that any salary adjustment in a new contract would probably be frozen because of new state fiscal controls that are almost certain to be slapped on the city.

Emergency N.Y. City plan enacted

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After more than 19 straight hours of negotiations and debate, the state legislature early today enacted an emergency plan imposing strict state controls on New York City's budget and advancing some $2 billion to keep the city from financial collapse.

The bill was immediately signed into law by Gov. Hugh L. Carey.

The legislation is supposed to end the latest in a series of fiscal crises the city has faced this year as it limped closer and closer to default on its massive debt.

The basic bill passed the Democrat-controlled Assembly 80 to 70 Monday evening over solid Republican opposition, and passed the GOP-controlled Senate early today 33 to 26. Ten Republicans joined the minority Democrats in approving it.

And in Washington, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was to discuss with President Ford today renewed pleas from the state for federal assistance in the city fiscal crisis. Both have previously rejected such aid.

The measure enacted today creates a new board controlled by state officials to impose what amounts to a condition of receivership on the city's budget process. And it provides some $2.3 billion from various public and private sources to keep the city solvent through November.

But without renewed investor confidence or federal aid, the city could still default in December. And opponents of the bill warned that its heavy commitment of state cash threatened to wreck the state treasury if default were to occur then.

Lifting oil controls to hike food costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — As key Democrats all but conceded defeat to President Ford in their fight over oil prices, government calculations showed today that lifting controls would increase the price of food as well as costs to farmers and food processors.

The President scheduled a veto later in the day of a bill extending oil price controls for six months.

Saying the veto would be sustained in the Senate, minority leader Hugh Scott told reporters after meeting with Ford for an hour and 40 minutes, "The President feels that unless the veto is sustained, action on any energy legislation will be stalled in Congress until after the 1976 elections."

The Pennsylvania Republican said the President is willing to accept a 45-day extension of controls after he vetoes the six-month bill — if he is certain Congress can reach an agreement based on his original proposal that prices be decontrolled over a 39-month period.

J. Dawson Ahalt, an Agriculture Department economist, told a Senate panel, meanwhile, that the immediate lifting of controls would increase retail food prices seven-tenths of one per cent over the next 27 months.

Ahalt called the increase the maximum "if all estimated cost increases were passed on to the consumer." His calculation was based on a 10 per cent jump in energy costs, with energy accounting for 7 per cent of the retail food dollar.

Total U.S. expenditures for food are about $175 billion a year, Ahalt told a reporter, so the decontrol-related increase works out to $1.23 billion over 27 months.

The Agriculture Department calculations reached a conclusion considerably smaller than a study released Monday by the Library of Congress, which said fuel would cost farmers, food processors and consumers $2 billion in the next year.

Including related costs, lifting controls on oil prices would add nearly $10 billion to the production costs of farmers and food processors by 1980, the library study concludes.

Can't get narcotics, youth shoots 2 men

Two young men were wounded Monday night in Pomona when a youth who asked them for narcotics sprayed the interior of their parked car with four shots.

The shooting occurred shortly after 11 o'clock in the 700 block of W. Grand Avenue.

The most seriously wounded was Sergio Munez, 19, of Pomona. He was struck near the center of his chest with two bullets, believed to be .32-caliber. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and transferred to County-USC Medical Center where his condition was termed fair.

The other victim, Edward Alvardo, 20, Pomona, was struck in the thigh by one bullet. Another hit the watch he was wearing, shattering it but causing the bullet to richochet.

The victims said they were sitting in their car when two youths approached from the other side of the street. One asked for narcotics and when he was told by the victims that they didn't have any, he drew a revolver and began shooting.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Who says kids don't have respect for the law these days?

Police said they couldn't free the suspect until the other boy brought in his handcuff keys.

The 10-year-old walked into the police station and said an apartment burglary ring of four youngsters had given him $11 to persuade him to keep his mouth shut about the thefts.

But he gave the money to police and led them on a raid of the ring, which reportedly had stolen about $1,000 in cash this summer in five burglaries, police said.

Light drizzle in valley

The formation forced temperatures down to a high of 80 Monday, nearly 10 degrees less than forecast, and the outlook is for more of the same, with the mercury hitting the upper 70s today and Wednesday afternoon.

Some showers are predicted in the mountains, but the clouds are expected to dissipate over the valley this afternoon bringing hazy sunshine.

High humidity will continue throughout the day but there will be no smog. A low of 62 is expected tonight.

Weather

Low clouds overnight with hazy sunshine in the afternoons. High today 75, low tonight 62, high Wednesday 77. The high Monday was 80, and the overnight low was 61. Wednesday's sunrise 6:31, sunset 7:04.

County labor chieftan dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sigmund Arywitz, head of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor since 1967, died today of an apparent heart attack, authorities reproted.

Arywitz, who was 61, was transported to New Hospital near his West Los Angeles home by Fire Department paramedics who had failed to revive him, a spokesman said. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital about 5:30 a.m. authorities said.

His wife, Barbara, and a private physican were at his side when he suffered the predawn attack at his home, the Fire Department said.

'Brainwashed' by Manson, says murderess

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Convicted murderess Susan Denise Atkins says she was brainwashed by drugs and hippie cult leader Charles Manson "into believing that death was an illusion" before she helped in the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

"I was brainwashed through the use of drugs into believing that death was an illusion — that there was no such thing as death," she said in an interview, the transcript of which was copyright, with KTVU-TV Monday night.

"Charlie would take the truth and salt and pepper it, I think because he had it salt and peppered," she said. "I don't think he had the truth down pat, but I think he believed he did. I was deceived, Charlie was deceived, everyone involved with the whole thing was deceived into believing what we were doing was right."

Miss Atkins, 27, is serving a life prison sentence with former "Manson girls" Patricia Krenwinkel, 28, and Leslie Van Houten, 26, at the California Institute for Women at Frontera for the murders of seven persons in August 1971.

Miss Atkins, Manson, Charles "Tex" Watson and the two other women were convicted in the murders of actress Sharon Tate, coffee heiress Abagail Folger, hairstylist Jay Sebring, Steven Parent, Voyteck Frykowski and Leno and Rosemary LaBianca.

Miss Atkins said she was a heavy drug user when she met the cult leader in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district in 1967. She added that Manson, now serving a life sentence at San Quentin Prison, seemed at first to advocate love.

"When I met him, he began to say things to me that for the first time made sense to me, but only in relation to my warped mind through drugs already," she said.

PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Optimistic views have been expressed by several California congressmen over the recent signing of the peace pact between Israel and Egypt.

The optimism does not come, however, without some reservation. In light of the fact that a vote for treaty ratification is expected here soon, some congressmen have openly shown concern with portions of the agreement.

Drawing most congressional attention are apparent agreements that the United States will deploy some 200 civilians in the Middle Eastern Sinai mountain passes to monitor security systems, and the possibility that $3.3 billion will be supplied to Israel in the form of military and economic aid.

While several Republican and Democratic congressional leaders have generally supported the agreement, there have been some holdouts, notably Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield.

Mansfield's position seems to be in the minority though, at least as far as several California solons are concerned.

Discussing deployment of civilians in the Sinai passes, Sen. Alan Cranston said, "I support the volunteer monitor system. There are some risks but I think they have to be run because the risk of a collapse of peace is so much greater."

Sen. John Tunney said the civilians are needed to "help stabilize relations between Israel and Egypt."

He added, "I believe the agreement is sound when it provides they (civilians) can be withdrawn whenever their safety is threatened."

Democrat freshman Rep. Jim Lloyd, whose 35th District includes the valley area, said, "Anyone who goes over there goes with the understanding that life is precarious.

"(Civilians in the passes) poses many problems. But I favor anything that will reduce the tension in the Middle East — I think we've done that," he said.

"In Southeast Asia we had two warring nations and we entered on the side of one of them. Here we are wanted by both nations."

Cranston had similar remarks, adding, "Here (Middle East) we are a neutral party that each side feels it can totally trust."

Commenting on outcries that the United Nations should play a larger role in the peace agreement, the House member indicated the world today was inacceptable to Israel because of past U.N. actions.

Lloyd added, "At this point the United Nations has not been effective . . . some of the member nations don't want it to be."

Lloyd indicated he would support the overall agreement and predicted it would receive Congressional approval.

Sens. Cranston and Tunney indicated the agreement was a "major breakthrough" but said they will withhold final judgment or prediction.

Tempers flare as malpractice bill passes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The first major medical malpractice insurance bill to win approval of the California Legislature resembles in some ways what the doctors ordered.

But no sooner had the measure by Assemblyman Barry Keene, D-Eureka, won a 57-20 vote Monday than the California Trial Lawyers Association threatened to fight it in "the highest court."

Even Keene, the author, complained that the bill had suffered so many injections and amputations that it should go to a conference room for more healing instead of to the governor.

A major purpose of medical malpractice legislation is to cut the price that doctors pay on insurance premiums, thus heading off a doctors' strike threatened by the California Medical Association.

The CMA lobbied for passage of Keene's bill, but Keene asked his colleagues to reject the final version so that a Senate-Assembly conference committee could get a chance to add more features to control skyrocketing costs.

Others who argued against it said it didn't do enough to regulate the insurance industry.

The opponents, by a parliamentary maneuver, held the bill over for later reconsideration.

Foes also said the bill would trim benefits for patients.

The president of the trial lawyers, Elmer Low of Los Angeles, issued a statement saying, "Two powerful special interests — the CMA and the insurance industry — have won a major victory...at the expense of the citizens of this state."

"We are fully prepared to go before the highest court, if necessary, to overturn a law we consider both inequitable and unconstitutional," Lowe said.

Keene said he was disappointed it passed, but he was "85 per cent pleased" and is optimistic that Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. will sign it.

Major provisions shorten the time period in which victims can file claims, revamp the state Board of Medical Examiners, and limit the amount of fees attorneys can collect.

One foe, Assemblyman John Knox, D-Richmond, said: "It is really kind of a fraud on the public and particularly on the doctors who are literally dying for relief."

He said the estimates that it might cut malpractice insurance costs by 30 per cent were insignificant in the face of estimates of increases of 300 per cent to 400 per cent.

Said Assemblyman Ken Meade, D-Berkeley: "It doesn't do anything except tax those who can least afford it."

"It doesn't attack the insurance industry. What we are talking about is significant rights being compromised without reform.... This is one of the worst bills we've ever had to vote on on this floor," Meade said.

Keene said a conference committee should "beef up the insurance company portions of the bill." It has already been amended 10 times.

The Trial Lawyers Association said the bill would limit the ability of injured patients to recover damages, thus weakening "the public's most effective protection against bad hospitals and doctors."

Key provisions would:

—Increase the membership of the Board of Medical Examiners and give public members a majority.

—Require that every claim paid over $3,000 be reported to the state, and create an extensive monitoring system.

—Limit contingency fees to attorneys of victims to 40 per cent of the first $50,000 recovered, one-third of the next $50,000, and a quarter of the next $100,000 plus 10 per cent of any settlement over $200,000.

—Impose a statute of limitations on filing claims to three years after discovery of the malpractice except in a few cases, such as the leaving of a foreign object in the body after an operation.

State Senate votes to limit farm tax loophole

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Senate has voted to narrow tax shelter loopholes, such as the so-called gentlemen farmer deduction once claimed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The bill by Assemblyman Dan Boatwright, D-Concord, won a 24-10 vote Monday even though opponents said it would hurt farming by discouraging investments in agriculture.

Its backers said it would produce about $25 million in annual revenue.

Reagan, in his first term as governor, paid no state income tax for 1970 by claiming losses in farm investments from his non-farm income.

Boatwright's bill, supported by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., has been decribed as a move toward tax equality.

But Sen. James Wedworth, D-Hawthorne, said it was a "shame" that government officials "cry for more food" but pass laws "against people who invest money to make food or call it tax hedging."

Boatwright said about 70 per cent of some 6,000 Californians in the $50,000 to $500,000 income bracket benefitted from preferential income taxes last year.

The bill affects such tax shelter investments as accelerated depreciation of real estate, capital gains and stock options.

It returns to the Assembly for consideration of amendments.

It is AB 1206.

Teacher bargaining bill forwarded to governor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has received a bill giving teachers collective bargaining rights, but the author isn't sure he will sign it.

After the vote, Rodda said he didn't think it would guard against strikes by teachers and the other public school employes it covers.

Brown has said he favors a single collective bargaining bill for all public employes, and that he opposes separate laws for separate employe groups such as teachers and police officers.

But Brown's efforts in favor of all public employes have failed in the legislature.

Rodda's bill does not authorize teachers to strike. And it provides for binding arbitration only on disputes on contract language once a contract is in effect.

Rodda said its scope is restricted to salaries and working conditions. It does not cover curriculum and other matters of school administrative policy.

"I think it will be beneficial in its effect, because it will give teachers better understanding of the issues and fiscal state of their districts and encourage more responsibility," said Rodda.

The Senate vote was to concur in Assembly amendments.

It is SB 160.

Jobless benefits for farm labor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Unemployment benefits will be extended to an estimated 245,000 farm workers under legislation signed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The bill signed Monday would provide benefits beginning Aug. 1

Second day of school busing without trouble

By The Associated Press

The busing of thousands of pupils in Boston and Louisville, Ky., went off without major incident today following turmoil in both cities over controversial school desegregation programs.

Yellow school buses escorted by motorcycle policemen quietly carried pupils to classes in Boston, where attendance today appeared to be higher than Monday, the opening day which was marred by numerous incidents.

No major problems were reported in Louisville.

In Boston, where 26,000 of the public school system's 75,000 pupils are being bused this year, 1,800 city and state police were ordered into the streets for the second day of the new school term and 600 National Guard military police were on standby.

The police ringed schools and guarded school bus routes.

In Kentucky, some 1,000 National Guard troops backed up hundreds of local and state police on the fourth day of school under a desegregation plan under which 26,000 of the 135,000 pupils in the Jefferson County school system are being bused.

Officers skirmished throughout the day on Monday with bands of youths in Boston's Charlestown section, which is included in the desegregation busing for the first time this year.

In South Boston, where violence flared when busing started last year, antibusing motorcades roamed the area until after midnight.

Police reported that a fire damaged the birthplace of President John F. Kennedy in Brookline Monday night and that a sign reading "Bus Teddy" had been painted on a nearby sidewalk.

The reference apparently was to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the late president's brother. The Massachusetts Democrat has been a public supporter of the court-ordered desegregation plan.

"It looks like things were thrown into the kitchen from the backyard ... Molotov Cocktails and that sort of thing," a National Park Service spokesman said of the fire.

A neighbor told reporters he heard glass break and saw two men run from the backyard of the Kennedy birthplace before the fire broke out. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

Boston police reported 86 arrests on Monday, including 74 in South Boston when members of a group calling itself the Committee Against Racism attempted to stage a probusing demonstration.

Boston school officials said 58.9 per cent of the pupils who were expected to attend classes on the first day of school were in attendance. Last year, first-day attendance was 65 per cent. In previous years, first-day attendance has averaged 80 per cent.

Boston School Supt. Marion Fahey termed Monday "a highly successful day" and said attendance is expected to grow day by day.

In the Louisville area, Monday passed without the violence of the previous four days in which nearly 200 persons were injured and some 600 were arrested.

U.S. District Court Judge James F. Gordon and Mayor Harvey Sloane have banned all demonstrations and public gatherings.

Armed officers were aboard school buses to safeguard children on Monday, and the same procedure was ordered for today.

School officials said 95 of school bus drivers failed to show up for work on Monday, and authorities said some drivers had been threatened if they took the wheel. Also, 84 of the Jefferson County school system's 6,300 teachers were no-shows on the third day of classes in the new term.

School authorities said 68 per cent of the pupils who had been expected to register for the new term had signed in.

KENNEDY BIRTHPLACE

Inside of the home where former President John F. Kennedy was born shows the damage of a fire early today. The National Park Service, which administers the landmark in Brookline, Mass., said it looked like a fire bomb was thrown into the house. An antibusing slogan was found scrawled on the sidewalk in front of the house.

Hoffa son thinks his dad dead

DETROIT (AP) — The son of missing former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa said today for the first time he believes his father is dead — the victim of assassination — but does not know who killed him.

James P. Hoffa said he bases his belief on the length of time his father has been missing — nearly six weeks — and the fact that investigators have come up with no solid leads as to the ex-Teamsters boss' whereabouts.

James P. Hoffa, a Detroit attorney, said he believes his father was "assassinated" and that his body will never be found.

"Whoever assassinated my father did it in such a way that we won't find him," said the young Hoffa.

Witnesses, however, supported Giacalone's alibi that he was at the Southfield Athletic Club the day Hoffa disappeared.

Giacalone is the man Hoffa's family says Hoffa planned to meet the day he vanished, July 30. Giacalone has denied he had scheduled a meeting with Hoffa.

In invoking the Fifth Amendment guarantee against self-incrimination on Monday, Giacalone became the second key witness to refuse to cooperate with the federal grand jury.

Giacalone refused to talk to reporters. His attorney, S. Allen Early, said Giacalone "has nothing to hide in the Hoffa situation."

Early said Giacalone exercised his Fifth Amendment right because he is already under indictment for tax evasion and mail fraud.

Giacalone, through his attorney, told U.S. District Court Judge Ralph Freeman that pretrial publicity in the Hoffa matter has jeopardized his right to a fair trial in the mail fraud case. The charges involve fees paid to Giacalone for selling a medical plan to the Teamsters. Giacalone will ask next Monday for a postponment of the trial, now scheduled to begin Sept. 23.

Claremont family harassed by trio

Three men, one armed with a double-barrelled shotgun, invaded the apartment of a Claremont man late Monday afternoon and threatened to cut the arm off a child there if they were not given money.

The incident occurred in the apartment of Robert Dewey Pepe, 25, at 750 W. San Jose Ave. Pepe was slugged on the forehead with the butt of the shotgun during the incident but declined treatment later at a hospital.

Police gave this account:

The three men forced their way into Pepe's apartment and held Pepe, 1½-year-old Robert Dewey Pepe Jr., 3-year-old Tammarie Jean Pepe and Stephanie M. McKee, 19, prisoner while they ransacked the place. The victims were forced to sit on the floor.

Then, after finding no money, one man armed with a five-inch hunting knife grabbed the little girl and told Pepe he would cut her arm off if he didn't tell them where Pepe's money was. When Pepe moved towards the intruder, he was hit with the shotgun butt.

During the time the victims were held captive, the man with the shotgun once put the weapon's muzzle against the back of Mrs. McKee's neck and another time warned that if they were not given money, the little boy would be the first killed.

Before leaving they forced Pepe to remove his clothing, forced Mrs. McKee to disrobe partially and cut the telephone wires.

The leader of the trio was described as a Negro, 5 feet 4 inches tall and stocky at 160 pounds. He had a scar over his left eye, wore a goatee and had pink curlers in his hair.

WEST END sheriff's deputies have arrested two 17-year-old Cucamonga youths in connection with the Sept. 2 shooting of an 83-year-old Cucamonga man investigating a burglary of his store.

Detectives arrested the two youths at homes Monday afternoon after interviewing Lorenzo Cerda Rodriquez, 83, owner of Avila's Market, 10149 24th St. in Cucamonga. Rodriquez was shot several times in the upper legs last week by one of four or five burglars who had broken into his store. He remained hospitalized today in San Antonio Community Hospital recovering from his wounds.

Detective Lenn Allen said this morning information gathered at the scene of the shooting with other information gleaned from informants led to the arrest of the two juveniles. Allen said other arrests are pending in the case.

Third day of violence

Lebanon warfare rages

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians and Moslems battled in the streets and houses of Tripoli with guns, fire bombs and rocket salvoes today as religious warfare raged in northern Lebanon for the third day.

Five miles to the east a private army of 3,000 Moslems laid siege to the Christian hill town of Zagharta, the hometown of President Suleiman Franjieh. They bombarded it with mortars and rocket grenades.

The Christian-Moslem split paralyzed the cabinet of Premier Rashid Karami. Interior Minister Camille Chamoun, a Maronite Christian, demanded that the army end the fighting. But the premier, a Sunni Moslem from Tripoli, was reluctant to order army intervention because of Moslem charges that Christians dominate the senior army command.

The biggest Moslem militia in Tripoli, the United Military Authority, announced it would only accept army intervention if a command council representing all sects was formed to supervise the decisions of the army commanders.

A senior security official said it was impossible to estimate the casualties in Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut and Lebanon's second largest city. But he said there are "areas littered with bodies."

The police said a partial count showed 26 dead and 50 wounded, but other sources said between 50 and 100 had been killed.

The city of 175,000 people was reported without water. Residents said Moslems had gutted about 300 shops belonging to Christians, and mobs of Moslem and Christian looters were rampaging through the city.

It is the fifth major outbreak of religious warfare this year in Lebanon. The country's 3 million people — about half of them Christian and half Moslem — are divided into numerous political and religious factions with private armies, and the conflict is often aggravated by feelings for and against the Palestinian guerrillas.

Beirut was the scene of heavy street fighting in April, May and June with an official death toll of more than 2,000.

In August, 34 persons were killed in Zahle, about 30 miles east of the capital.

1,500 evacuated after explosion

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — About 1,500 persons were evacuated from their Ohio River homes Monday night after an explosion sent phosphorous drifting from a chemical plant, Mason County sheriff's deputies said.

Other witnesses said the chemicals were staying high in the air, drifting south.

There were no reports of injuries from police or nearby hospitals.

Viking II craft hopefully has overcome its problems

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space officials hoped technical problems were left behind as they launched the unmanned Viking II spacecraft today to search for signs of life on Mars.

The launch is the second half of a $1 billion project. Viking I was launched Aug. 20, and officials say there still is a slim chance it can land on Mars July 4, 1976, to mark the nation's Bicentennial.

If all goes well, Viking II will reach Mars and go into orbit around the Red Planet Aug. 7. It is to beam back pictures of the surface, taken from as close as 930 miles. Scientists will study the photos to determine whether a predesignated landing site is suitable.

Lawyer says Bronfman had a chance to leave

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The lawyer for one of the accused kidnapers of whiskey heir Samuel Bronfman 2nd contends his client offered to free the youth before a $2.3 million ransom was paid but that Bronfman chose to remain captive "for reasons of his own."

Defense lawyer Peter DeBlasio told Westchester County Court Judge Isaac Rubin on Monday that his client, Dominic Byrne, made the "offer" several days before Bronfman was freed unharmed and the ransom recovered.

Goncalves temporarily back in Portugal office

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Goncalves was temporarily back in office as Portugal's premier today, four days after other military leaders stripped him of all power.

The government said Goncalves, in response to a request from President Francisco da Costa Gomes, had agreed to withdraw the resignation Costa Gomes accepted Sunday. It said he would serve with his cabinet in a caretaker status until his successor, Vice Adm. Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo, can form a cabinet.

The communique said the admiral expects to announce his cabinet Thursday instead of Tuesday as had been expected. The delay was believed due to demands of the Socialist and Popular Democratic parties, which the admiral is trying to bring back into the government along with the Communists and a number of military men.

Remember D.B. Cooper? They're still looking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating the possibility that a suburban Annandale, Va., heavy equipment operator, Jerry A. Cooper, is actually D. B. Cooper, the airline hijacker. But the FBI agent directing the probe says he is almost positive he is investigating a case of mistaken identity.

A man using the name D. B. Cooper parachuted with $200,000 ransom money from a Northwest Orient 727 jet on Thanksgiving eve 1971, and has not been seen since.

"Very, very recently," according to Michael A. Morrow, special agent in charge of the FBI's Alexandria, Va., office, the agency received an anonymous tip that Jerry Cooper was D. B. Cooper.

Jerry Cooper, 30, met voluntarily with FBI agents Monday, to deny that he had any connection with the skyjacker, who was responsible for the only U.S. hijacking that remains unsolved

Both Coopers are about six feet tall, weigh about 180 pounds and have dark hair and dark complexions. And Jerry Cooper is an accomplished skydiver, although he reportedly gave up the sport five years ago.

"I'm almost 100 per cent sure that Mr. Cooper of Annandale is not D. B. Cooper the skyjacker," Morrow said. "We have almost completely ruled him out."

Here's navy that's on the go-go

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy submarine skipper says he was relieved of his command after a go-go dancer performed topless on the ship's deck as it sailed out of Port Canaveral, Fla.

The incident occurred last July 10 as the USS Finback left port for another tour of undersea duty, Cmdr. Connelly D. Stevenson said in a telephone interview Monday night from Norfolk, Va., where he now has a Navy desk job.

In acknowledgement of his crew's extra work, he acceded to its request that a go-go dancer, whose stage name is Cat Futch, dance topless on the Finback as the submarine left port, he said.

The stunt was designed partly to impress the rival Alexander Hamilton, a missile-firing submarine also tied up at Port Canaveral.

The dancer duly did her stuff as she was accustomed to doing then at the Cork Club in Cocoa Beach and now at the Evil People's Lounge in Fort Pierce, Fla. Then the Finback headed into the Atlantic.

But on Aug. 1 Cmdr. Stevenson was told by radio to return to Norfolk where he was relieved of his command and given a desk job, he said.

Now, he said, "there are administrative proceedings under way the outcome of which are in doubt." He declined to go into the nature of the proceedings when asked if it is what is known as a captain's mast for officers — a non-judicial proceeding, not a court-martial.

Stevenson wants his command back and said he has talked to a lawyer about it. "My only purpose in calling a lawyer is to insure I'm able to take full advantage of the rights accorded me within the Navy's administrative system," he said.

He added: "I have been a naval officer and have been proud to be one and want to continue to be one."

Stevenson reportedly is trying to convince the Navy that letting a go-go dancer perform on board is not a serious enough offense to justify being relieved of command.

The 41-year-old officer commanded the submarine for three years. He said he had received letters of commendation for saving "millions of dollars" for getting the submarine through her overhaul at Norfolk in good time.

Russian state

Carbon 14 dating of charred wood from the remnants of a 500-mile-long earthen wall that once surrounded the present site of Kiev points to the existence of an organized state in the present territory of the Soviet Union in the 4th and 6th centuries, about 500 years earlier than previously thought.

Dutch elm fund approved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A $950,000 appropriation to fight a Dutch elm disease outbreak in California was sent to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. by a 62-14 Assembly vote Monday.

The Assembly approved Senate amendments to the bill by Assemblyman John Thurman hiking the appropriation from $50,000.

Since his measure passed the Assembly June 24, said Thurman, D-Modesto, the fungus spread by beetles has been discovered on trees in Sonoma, Napa and Santa Clara counties.

The bill is AB 1874.

Residents offered low-cost pet neutering

Valley pet owners may now receive help from a local chapter of the Pet Assistance Foundation in having their dogs and cats altered.

Barbara York of Pomona, who is co-chairman of the local group with Theresa Baker of Cucamonga, said the group will assist pet owners in having their animals spayed or neutered at reasonable rates through the cooperation of veterinarians in general area.

The group has an answering service to advise residents where they can take their animals and approximately how much the operation will cost. Financial assistance is also available in some cases.

The group's phone number is (714) 983-5353. Persons may call from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Saturday.

Mrs. York said that persons calling may leave their phone number and a description of their animal. A volunteer of the group will then return the call within a few days.

Although the group has only been operating since May, she said that the 12 volunteers have been averaging almost 200 calls per week.

The local organization also undertook a special project at the California Institution for Men in Chino, where cats that have been adopted by inmates were altered and then returned to the prison.

She said that persons are needed as Volunteers in the group, and that memberships in the Pet Assistance Foundation are also available. Membership dues in the national organization is $5, voting membership $7.50, sustaining membership $25 and life membership $100.

As of now, she explained, the local group is being supported by the Los Angeles Chapter of the foundation.

"People out here should be willing to help support this program. There's definitely a need for it," she said.

The foundation estimates that as many as 35,000,000 puppies and 50,000,000 kittens are born nationally each year, many of which must be humanely destroyed because there are not enough homes for them, and millions of others are abandoned to face starvation and disease.

Mrs. York said the local group has been working closely with the Pomona Valley and Chaffey humane societies.

She urged pet owners to call for assistance if their pet has not been altered. She said that persons should call immediately if their animal is pregnant.

Dead Sea Scrolls topic for lecture

An illustrated lecture about the Dead Sea Scrolls will be presented at the Pomona Public Library on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be presented by James Brashler of the Claremont Graduate School's Institute for Antiquity and Christianity. The program, first presented at the library in July, is entitled "The Dead Sea Scrolls: Records of a Religious Commune."

Illustrated with slides, the program will tell the story of the excavations of the Essene communal center near the Dead Sea, where the scrolls were written. The program compares the ancient and modern religious communes and lifestyles.

The program is free, but seating is limited.

Children's programs at the library this week include preschool story hour on Wednesday at 10 a.m., films for youngsters on Wednesday at 7 p.m., and paper bag puppet crafts on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 16, the library will offer free guitar lessons for children from 8 to 14. The lessons will be held each Tuesday at 4 p.m. through Oct. 28. Class size is limited and advance registration may be made at the library.

For further information about library programs, persons may call 620-2017.

Police get new pistols

The Claremont Police Department has adopted the .45-caliber semi-automatic pistol as its service weapon.

Claremont thus joined Pomona, El Monte and several other police agencies which have switched from the old standby, the .38-Special revolver, to the .45. The same pistol has been the sidearm of the U.S. military since 1911.

Claremont Police Chief Charles R. Lines said the department switched because the .45 has more stopping power and is safer because the bullet does not richochet as much as the revolver bullet.

Claremont officers must buy their own pistols, he said.

Sugar crystals

Sugar crystals are piezoelectric, meaning that vibrations set up in the sugar bowl by dinner table conversation probably generate millions of volts of low-amperage —and harmless —electricity in the sugar.

Signups open for medical aide class

The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays starting Sept. 10, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Valley View High School in Ontario.

There are no tuition fees. Those 18 and over may enroll in the adult education office in the mobile trailer behind Tower Hall on the Chaffey High School campus.

The telephone number is 983-2010.

The objective of the course is to prepare students for work as nursing assistants, orderlies or health aides.

Instruction will include anatomy, physiology, medical terminology, infectious diseases, nursing techniques and procedures and ethics.

Instructors are Gary Porter and Elizabeth McClure.

DON E. WIGHT

United Way Division D head named

As Division D chairman, Wight will coordinate fund-raising campaigns for businesses with one to 14 employes.

Wight is a certified gemologist and registered jeweler of the American Gem Society. He is president of Wight Jewelers, Ontario. He is past general chairman of the Ontario Community Chest, chairman of the Salvation Army capital fund drive and past chairman of the West End YMCA drives.

New course offers credit

Pepperdine School of Continuing Education will offer an evening course in "Modern Political Reform: Success or Failure" beginning Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. at Garey High School in Pomona.

It is open to the public and offers three units of upper-division or graduate-extension credit.

Classes will meet Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 622-7831.

White Cane Center seeks participants

New participants are being sought at the White Cane Center, social and recreation facility sponsored by the Pomona-Ontario Chapter of the National Federation of the Blind of California.

The craft section meets each Thursday from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at 423 N. Main St., Pomona, in the basement of the Christ the Victor Lutheran Church.

Participants take a sack lunch. Tea or coffee is furnished.

At the present time crafts include mosaic tile, macrome, knitting, crocheting and simple jewelry making. The cost to the participants is only for materials used.

Relatives, friends and neighbors of people who are blind or partially sighted are losing their sight are requested by center personnel to call either 626-3698 or 628-8887 for more information.

Weekly art workshop set in Glendora

The classes begin Sept. 18, and will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekly. Basics will be provided for beginners as well as for those who want to brush up on the work.

Those who are interested may call the Glendora school district for more information.

Solid solution

An alloy is a solid solution of two or more metals.

The White Cane Center is a group of active blind people who believe only the blind can lead the blind and help them adjust to a new way of life.

Classes offered adults

A class for adults in business and vocational English will be offered this fall by the Bonita School District.

The course will be given from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays at San Dimas High School. Instructions will include letter writing, business forms and specialized vocabulary of the professions.

The class is one of several offered by the district, not only at night but also during the days. Other classes include instructions in painting and drawing, personal and home decorations, and sewing.

All classes begin during the week of Sept. 22. A registration fee of $3 will be charged for each course.

Those who are interested in any part of the adult education program may get more information by telephoning the Bonita Adult Education Center, 599-6787.

Put your face in our hands.

All faces have one thing in common: they're different.

That's why the opticians at the Optical Department at Ward's take such a long, hard look at your nose, eyes, temples and ears. Because the glasses they fit to your face fit just the way they should — comfortably, with no slipping or pinching.

Add to this the large selection of frames and reasonable cost, and it's easy to see why we've handled over 500,000 faces.

For eyewear for your entire family, come to the Optical Department at Ward's.

Does Lindora think Losing Weight is easy?

It is not a simple task for a patient to reach and maintain "lean weight" for life. First the patient must have an honest desire to cure his problem then accept professional guidance from trained Medical Doctors.

Lindora's unique 10-week treatment and training program will teach patients how to reach and maintain their "lean weight" for life. A safe and practical plan, with proper nutritional diet, and continual emotional support. New audio and sub-liminal visual aids are used to motivate the patient. The entire program is under the strict supervision of Medical Doctors, specialists in Bariatric Medicine.

Lindora Clinics are owned and administered by Medical Doctors that restrict their practice to Bariatrics. ALL Clinic Personnel are licensed by the State of California

State voter shift? Poll backs Congress role in foreign policy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A majority of Californians believe that Congress, not the President, should have the strongest voice in foreign policy, the California Poll said Monday.

Pollster Mervin D. Field said the poll "strongly suggests that the public is reappraising its earlier tendency to accept without question any Presidential initiatives in foreign policy."

"If so, Gerald Ford and his successors are likely to find that they have a much less free hand in world affairs than their predecessors were given," Field said.

The survey of 1,006 California adults revealed that 54 per cent believe Congress should have the strongest voice in foreign policy, while 28 per cent feel the president should. About 12 per cent felt the President and Congress should have equal voices while 5 per cent had no opinion.

Sixty-five of the poll also believed the nation's voters should have more to say about foreign policy than they do now.

The survey, taken between Aug. 6 and Aug. 13, showed that 56 per cent of those polled felt the United States needs the support of other nations. Seventy-three per cent also believed the nation should continue to be the leader of the free world in opposing threats to peace.

"Most Californians understand that the U.S. needs the support of other countries as much as they need ours," said Field. "While there is a lot of sentimental attachment to George Washington's advice to avoid foreign entanglements very few people today are willing to have the U.S. go it alone in true isolationist fashion."

Field said his poll indicated that most Californians take a pragmatic view of foreign commitments.

"They are willing to support our goals and aims in the world struggle, but they are reluctant to share U.S. standards of living without any regard for political beliefs," he said.

GOP solons appeal for a Republican Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans Monday unveiled a program they said they would pursue if they get control of Congress. It emphasizes budget balancing, strong defense and review of social and other governmental programs to cut out abuse and duplication.

Heading a panel of GOP congressional leaders at a news conference, Minority Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona, said "the nation need a Republican Congress" and insisted he thinks his party has a chance to win control in 1976.

The program developed by a special Republican task force and endorsed by the party's House policy committee largely tracks positions already taken by the Ford administration.

Rhodes agreed this is so, but said the GOP legislators proposed innovations in the areas of individual retirement plans, a study of government programs and bureaucracies and unemployment insurance changes.

Much of the program is necessarily general, Rhodes said, and on some of the topics treated legislation could not be developed until Republicans control the congressional machinery.

Rhodes, who organized the idea of a Republican congressional program, emphasized that it implies no break with Ford personally or with his administration. Some White House staffers, he said, had expressed such concern.

But Rhodes said Ford not only did not agree with them, but favored the idea and reviewed the final document at a private meeting with Rhodes and raised no objections to it.

At the same time, Rhodes said he considers the document important as a way of showing the country, which will be voting next year on all the House and two-thirds of the Senate, what it could expect from a Republican Congress.

City erases bank plan, renewal pact

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A proposed one-story bank buildling on the northwest corner of Mission Boulevard and Garey Avenue in downtown Pomona was rejected by the Pomona City Council Monday night, and the council also terminated the contract of Pomona Development Co. for redevelopment of the site.

Officials of the development company attempted, for the third time in recent weeks, to convince the council that the proposed 8,000-square-foot Security Pacific Bank building was the best possible development for the site within the foreseeable future.

By a 3-2 vote, however, the council rejected the development and terminated the company's contract for redevelopment.

The council's action came as no surprise, since a majority of the council stated last month that the proposed bank was too small for what they described as "possibly the best site in the city."

Councilmen Benjamin Ochoa and Charles Bader were joined by council member Georgia Grove in rejecting the development. Mayor Ray Lepire suggested that the decision be left to the bondholders for this site.

Councilman Adrian Wright, while refusing to vote against the bank project, was unenthusiastic since construction of the bank would probably mean Security Pacific would vacate its present location on Pomona Mall East.

"I'm not sure what we would gain by that," said Wright.

Also speaking in support of the proposal was Jack Booth, Pomona Realtor and another partner in the development company.

C. T. Richardson, former publisher of the Progress-Bulletin, also addressed the council, urging the city to move as rapidly as possible on redevelopment, although he did not specifically endorse the proposed bank project.

"We do need redevelopment as fast as possible. The city's tax base is eroding," he said. Richardson added that the city must be realistic and stop "hoping for too much."

With the ending of the Pomona Development Co.'s contract, the city regains control of the site and it will probably be opened to competitive bidding by would-be developers.

Originally, a six-story bank and office building was proposed for the site. Although council members agree that is now economically unfeasible, it is not clear how large a project will have to be to get council approval.

The council withheld action on a proposal to buy the old five-story Investment Building at the northwest corner of Third and Thomas Streets for $1.

Council members expressed doubt that it was feasible to rehabilitate the 62-year-old structure, and its resale potential was also questoined.

The matter was held over until a staff could determine some specific costs of rehabilitating the structurally sound, but deteriorated building.

Pomona police accord snags on work clause

Pomona City Council withheld approval Monday night of the three-year agreement raising police salaries in the city, pending further study and meetings with police negotiators over a section of the pact that would not allow any changes in working conditions.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce told the council that budgetary problems next year might force layoffs of city employes, in any or all departments, and that could change working conditions.

Gonce said that the section of the police agreement concerning working conditions had never been included in any previous agreement, and that its implications should be reviewed in light of the expected budget crisis in the next fiscal year.

City Atty. Patrick Sampson told the council that a manpower layoff in the Police Department might become a negotiable item if the council adopted the agreement as proposed.

The council considered approving the agreement and deleting the section in question, but decided to hold the entire matter for one week, at the suggestion of Councilman Benjamin Ochoa, and contact the Pomona Police Officers Association to discuss the matter.

No representative from the association was present at the meeting.

The delay in approving the agreement should have no effect on the salary increases approved for police, since the first phase of the salary settlement is retroactive to July 1. The first phase is for three per cent, followed by a four per cent increase in January, and a seven per cent increase next July.

The agreement will also give police a raise in July of 1977, although the amount of that hike will remain unknown until the city's firemen receive their wage increases in 1976-77.

In a related police matter, the council discussed in executive session the decision of the District Attorney's office not to file charges against attorney Stephen Silver, police association negotiator, for his alleged disruption of the city council meeting on Aug. 18.

No announcement of any action or decision by the council was made, however.

Ping-pong issue back to planners

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

After hours of debate, the San Dimas City Council decided Monday night to send a controversial zoning issue back to the Planning Commission for development of a specific plan.

The action regarding properties on the north and south side of Arrow Highway between Lone Hill and Valley Center avenues brought city officials closer to resolving the question of commercial or multiple family residential zoning. It was also two months after planning commissioners had requested a specific plan for the area, and been refused by councilmen quibbling over the public hearing process.

The General Plan, adopted in 1974, projects apartments for the area that is currently zoned commercial. There are a large 50-acre property owned by Mrs. Vera Dunning and approximately 44 acres of smaller lot sizes.

The controversy began in November 1974 when the city initiated a zone change to make the zoning conform to the General Plan. The Lone Hill Homeowners Association launched an amendment campaign for the area to remain commercial in the hope that the Dunning property would become a regional shopping center and the surrounding property would serve as supplemental commercial sites.

Following months of public hearings, staff investigation and expert testimony, the Planning Commission recommended denial of the amendment request for commercial. It pointed out that neither population nor existing nearby commercial centers would support another regional center.

San Dimas and valley residents are currently served by such regional centers as the Montclair Plaza, the West Covina Plaza, Indian Hill Village in Pomona, Puente Hills Mall in Industry and Eastland in West Covina.

Peter Bray of the homeowners group said apartments in the area would cause problems of dust, traffic congestion, overcrowded schools and overloading of police and fire services.

"No one has shown the need for apartments. Apartments will bring nothing but disaster," Bray declared.

He told councilmen a petition with 1,223 signatures would be presented to the city. A letter accompanying the petition drive, and read in the council meeting, began "Help Stop Apartments" and predicted holocausts in a population of more than 70,000 people and a spiraling crime rate with apartments. Most of the negative predictions were later refuted by expert witnesses.

A.H. DuBois claimed that property owners "have forfeited sales on many occasions because the zoning situation is not firm in San Dimas."

Mrs. Dunning commented that "I could have gone many times not only around the world, but to the moon with the taxes I've paid for 25 years. I never defaulted on my taxes."

Terry Dipple, chairman of the city's Park and Recreation Commission, reported that there are not sufficient parks to deal with an influx of apartment dwellers.

Jack Carruthers, manager of the San Dimas Chamber of Commerce, read an official statement from the chamber opposing commercial development for the properties in question and supporting the General Plan projection for multiple residential units.

The chamber manager pointed out that top consultants had studied the city extensively and recommended a balance of commercial and residential development. He also stated that the city has an updated and strong building code to prevent low income or poor quality units being developed.

Supt. James Johnson of Bonita schools said the district does have ample room for new children at the secondary level and some room at the elementary level. He reported that under Senate Bill 90, schools receive state funds based on a per pupil formula. Therefore, a large commercial development would not, at this time, benefit the district, he noted.

He objected to homeowners' comment that the school board opposed apartment development.

Tiny-tot program signup underway

Registration is being accepted at the Claremont Parks and Recreation Department, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., for the fall tiny-tot program.

Classes will be held at Lewis, Memorial and Blaisdell parks. The 12-week session will include songs, body movement, paints, arts and crafts, field trips and fun activities pre-schoolers enjoy.

To attend the program, tiny tots must be 3 by Dec. 1 this year. Children who are 3 will be enrolled Tuesday and Thursday, while 4- and 5-year-olds will enroll for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Both groups will meet from 9:15 to 11:45 a.m. with classes beginning Sept. 15.

The program fee for three days a week is $45.50. The fee for two days a week is $30.50.

More information may be obtained by phoning 624-4531, extension 273.

Man kidnaps, molests valley youngster, 7

A 7-year-old girl was kidnaped, taken to the Rancho Santa Ana Botanical Gardens in Claremont Monday afternoon and molested by a red-haired man her companions sensed was "bad," police reported.

The victim later was treated by her family doctor and was said to be emotionally troubled by the incident.

The child and two companions were playing near their homes shortly after 3 p.m. when the man approached and asked to join them, investigators reported. The two little girls the victim was with told police later that they "knew the man was bad" and each left separately. After they had left, the man forced the victim to accompany him to the botanical gardens where the offense took place. Then he released her and ran.

The molester was described as a 6-foot, thin Caucasian with a mustache. He wore a checkered shirt and blue trousers.

Crash injures Ontario man

A 26-year-old Ontario man was injured Sunday morning when his car slid out of control, overturned and crashed into a chain link fence near the east runway of Ontario International Airport on Archibald Avenue in Ontario.

Daniel Chavez of 14974 Valley Place, Ontario, was treated at Ontario Community Hospital for multiple injuries and released.

Chavez told officers he was southbound on Archibald Avenue when he attempted to make a left turn and the vehicle slid out of control.

Association names speaker

Kenneth D. Newsom, director of marketing for Irving C. Rubin and Associates of Los Angeles, will be the main speaker at the September meeting of the Mt. Baldy Area Apartment Association at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The meeting will be at the Claremont branch of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan.

Other speakers will be Robert Wells of the J.E. Wells Insurance Co. of Los Angeles, and Paul Morsen, director of public relations with the Human Resources Agency of San Bernardino County.

Walnut school district growth prompts study

Administrators will start assembling an ad hoc group to study secondary education in the Walnut school district as a result of board action Monday night.

Supt. David L. Brown reported to the board there is urgency in getting planning for future grades 9-12 underway as the high school student population is projected at 2,700 by September, 1979.

He said the high school enrollment might reach 5,000 eventually and suggested these planning possibilities:

—Two large comprehensive high schools with enrollment of 2,400 to 2,500 or three of moderate size (1,600 to 1,700).

—Separate schools small enough to make possible a higher degree of program coordination among them than is ordinarily the case between the high schools of any one district.

—Provision of the instructional program for all high school pupils within a single facility not much larger than the present Walnut High School, given certain conditions.

"I don't begin to pretend that I know what these conditions would be," he stated. "I am certain that they would be brought about only by quite radical departure from the patterns of organization and instruction that we now practice and accept as normal."

Board members also approved Walnut Elementary School as the name for a school to be built on a 10-acre site at Lemon Road and Lycoming Street. The elementary school now known by that name will house the district's continuation school.

Modification of the 1975-76 school district calendar was approved to allow the minimum 175-day year but future planning will be directed toward an 180-day instructional year.

Walnut schools will open next Tuesday instead of Monday because Monday is Yom Kippur, a Jewish religious holiday.

Sr. citizen classes at SAC

Ten courses ranging from languages to psychology, writing and physical education will be offered for senior citizens this fall by the Adult Education Department of Mt. San Antonio College.

Preregistration ends Wednesday. After that students will be accepted as space permits. The classes start next week.

Courses include instructions in Spanish, French, German, psychology, the law, writing, drawing and painting, crafts, automobiles, and physical education.

The courses will be given at the San Dimas Community Center, the San Dimas Library, the Church of the Brethren in La Verne and the First Presbyterian Church, Mt. San Antonio Gardens, Palomares Community Center and the Pilgrim Congregational Church, all in Pomona.

Those who want more information are urged to telephone the college, 598-2811.

Fleet units eye union issue

The Pomona Valley Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 211, and the Ladies Auxiliary, Fleet Reserve Association, Unit 211, will hold monthly meetings Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Ave., Chino.

Branch President Robert Carter of Pomona will explain to members that the Fleet Reserve Association is asking for opinions as to whether the military should be organized into a union.

A letter from the local branch will contain opinions of local members and will be sent to the national Fleet Reserve Association headquarters at Washington, D.C.

All retired and active duty naval personnel, Marine Corps personnel and Coast Guard personnel are invited to attend. The American Federation of Government Employes, which represents the civilian workers, is planning to organize the military, Carter said.

Immunizations offered

Immunizations against various communicable diseases will be given free of charge Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Pomona Health Center, 750 S. Park Ave., Pomona.

The public may get immunizations against 10-day measles, rubella, polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Parents are reminded that children must be immunized for enrollment into school. Children and adolescents must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

Individuals are requested to bring all previous immunization records to the clinic.

A high blood pressure testing clinic for adults will also be held at the same time. Adults already under the care of a private physician or members of a health care group are asked not to attend this free clinic.

Round 2 on Walnut lot size

Changes in residential restrictions will be considered for a second time Wednesday night by the Walnut City Council.

Affected are model house location in new tracts, frontage on cul-de-sacs, setbacks, lot sizes, average house sizes, storage in side yards and permitted uses with a conditional use permit.

Councilmen held a public hearing on the changes July 23 and then returned them to the Planning Commission, the body that recommended them in the first place.

Controversial issues among the suggested changes are minimum lot widths, setbacks and house square footage.

The fate of a hill is also on the council agenda. The hill stands between a proposed tract and an existing tract southwest of Lemon Avenue and La Puente Road.

OPARC starting new schedule of classes

Classes for parents and babies, kindergartners and adults will begin Wednesday at Ontario-Pomona Association for Retarded Citizens (OPARC), 9160 Monte Vista Ave., Montclair.

Classes for persons in allied health fields who are learning to work with the developmentally disabled are scheduled also.

Through a program of planning goals, systematic reviews and evaluation, OPARC aims to have youngsters absorbed into public schools and adults into employment wherever possible.

For adults with developmental disabilities there is a class in family life and independent living skills, sponsored partly by Chaffey College. Instructors are Mrs. John Rael of Chino, Mrs. Burton Hall of Cucamonga, Mrs. Dennis Buchholz of Montclair and Mrs. Charles Gerard of Upland.

Mrs. Dick Doesburg of Chino, day school principal, plans to involve more volunteers and community services to expand the services already provided by OPARC.

George Underhill of Claremont, president of OPARC board of directors, said visitors are encouraged to see the programs available and to investigate the opportunities offered at the school.

Kent State: will the wound heal?

The words of Robert I. White, who was president of Kent State University at the time of the shootings on the campus on May 4, 1970, probably sum up the feelings of a great many Americans regarding that tragedy.

Interviewed by reporters after a jury in Cleveland absolved him, along with Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and 27 Ohio National Guard officers and men, of civil damages in the deaths of four students and the wounding of nine others, he said that he was "pleased and relieved, but no, I cannot say that I am happy. It is not possible to be happy."

It is not possible for any American to be happy over the outcome, for nothing can ever restore to life the two young men and two young women senselessly cut down that day, or restore to full health the one student who will be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

But at least it is possible to hope that, at long last, the dead will be allowed to rest and the nation to put the Kent State tragedy behind it. The parents of the students and the other complainants have had their day in court — indeed, many long days in a trial that lasted 14 weeks.

"My daughter will never rest in her grave," cried the mother of one of the slain students,' however. Anguished, unbelieving of the verdict, newly embittered, she and the other parents immediately claimed that the trial was unfair, the judge biased, the jury "ignorant" and vowed to appeal.

Who, really, can blame them? They have been living with this thing for five years, hoping for the day when their children's killers would be brought to what they considered to be justice — but also ignoring the fact that it has not been easy for the accused to live under a legal shadow for five years, and steadfastly refusing to acknowledge that the guardsmen, as much as their children, were the victims of a series of events they had no part in starting.

Neither in this trial, nor in a previous criminal trial of guardsmen that ended in a directed acquittal, nor in other hearings and inquests, was clear and unmistakable proof of guilt and premeditation on anyone's part brought forward. To have found the defendants liable for damages would not have been justice for the dead but injustice to the living.

If the Kent State parents continue to press the issue, is there anything really to be gained other than a deepening of their sorrow?

A yen for sunshine

The "Land of the Rising Sun" is becoming the land of disappearing sunlight. This is especially true in Japan's larger cities where, in addition to pollution and smog, another enemy of sunshine is at work.

The proliferation of high-rise buildings in recent years has been causing disputes between owners of the multistory buildings and nearby residents and landowners over the "right to sunshine."

Sunlight is important to the Japanese for more than aesthetic reasons. Because their homes are lightly built and uninsulated, they need as much sun as they can get in the chilly wintertime. And in these days of rapidly rising fuel costs, there is an actual monetary value attached to the amount of sunlight one's home receives.

The government has decided to step in and provide compensation for those forced to live in the shadows, reports Focus Japan magazine. The Home Affairs Ministry has devised a scheme to allow local municipalities to reduce property taxes on plots of land near high-rise buildings that are deprived of sunlight. The decision acknowledges the fact that property in the shade has realized lower selling prices recently and that landowners have suffered financial losses.

The tax reductions, which will be determined by the local government but which cannot exceed a 20 per cent ceiling set by the ministry, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1976, when the next official revaluation of land prices is scheduled to be conducted.

In previous revaluations, such adverse influences on the price of land as automobile noises, vibrations and exhaust emissions, have been taken into consideration. Loss of sunlight, however, has never before been regarded as a minus factor.

Thoughts

"He has showed you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" — Micah 6:8.

* * *

"I expect to pass through life but once. If therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow being, let me do it now, and not defer or neglect it, as I shall not pass this way again." — William Penn, Quaker founder of Pennsylvani.

People of India content

Your editorial on "destroying India" by the policies of Mrs. Gandhi shows a jaundiced, Western-oriented view of "democracy" as practiced in India. To compare "democracy" in India with that of the United States (and Dr. Spock's idea of what freedom should be like) is the same as comparing "communism" in the Soviet Union with "communism" in Yugoslavia.

The sub-continent of India has a population of approximately 700,000,000 who were subjugated for centuries by a series of absolute rulers including the last rajas — the British.

India has, for many years, been socially governed, as well, by a despotic system of castes that still persists in some forms even though it has been outlawed since the 1940s.

It has only been since 1947 that India adopted a "democratic system of government" but the central government in New Delhi has twenty-two far-flung states, fifteen major languages and a disparate people with vastly different customs, cultures, and ideas. Seventy percent of Indians live in rural areas and about eighty percent of the people are basically illiterate.

Having just returned from traveling throughout India I experienced conditions before and during the state of emergency that was called by Mrs. Gandhi. I believe that she and the Congress Party which she represents should be congratulated for maintaining calm and order in what could have become a volatile situation.

The law-abiding people I saw in Bombay, Delhi, Calcutta, Madras and several other cities went about their daily activities as they had always done. Most of the people who were jailed were people who broke the laws (laws that were on the books long before Mrs. Gandhi assumed power). Most of these people were involved in smuggling or currency manipulation (both of these things very lucrative in an economically-deprived country that cannot afford to import foreign "luxuries").

The political dissidents who were jailed were incarcerated because they were inciting people to riot and break the laws: — laws that the Prime Minister Mrs. Gandhi was compelled by the constitution to uphold.

I spoke freely with Indians from all walks of life, from the well-educated to the illiterate. Most of these people seemed content with the present government in New Delhi and probably will continue to be as long as the status quo is maintained.

Mills' secret trial

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who was considered the most powerful member of the House until his escapades with stripper Fanne Foxe became the talk of the nation, has been secretly expelled from the Masons.

A 33rd degree Mason and a Grand Lodge Medal of Honor winner, he was particularly proud of his standing in the fraternal order. Now he probably will be asked to return both his ring and his medal.

But the Argentine firecracker told us she returned the ring right after the mock wedding. She described the ceremony as "kid stuff" but said it was "important to me and to him."

Mills was expelled from the Masons after a secret trial before his home lodge at Kensett, Ark. Witnesses have described the dramatic scene for us.

He was accompanied by his Masonic lawyer, William Nash. Together they faced a five-man commission, with about 200 lodge members in attendance.

Grand Master Lee Overstreet outlined the charges against him. The Grand Master took pains to explain that alcoholism, per se, was not the offense. Rather, it was Mills' intemperate behavior which, Overstreet charged, violated the Masons' code of ethics.

The embattled Mills responded, first, by defining an alcoholic. It is a person, he said, who thought one drink was good but a thousand were better.

Then Mills submitted detailed medical records, outlining the nature and treatment of his illness.

As the trial wore on, he became testy and irritable. At one point his attorney argued that Mills had the support of the upper echelons of Masonry. Overstreet retorted sharply that HE was the upper echelon.

The tribunal did not reach an immediate verdict. But a few days later, the commission met secretly and voted to oust Mills permanently from the fraternal order.

Footnote: We made repeated but unsuccessful attempts to reach Mills, his attorney and Overstreet for their comments.

PLAY FOR PAY: In an earlier column, we reported that a former record industry executive had broken ranks and had given a detailed statement to the Federal Communications Commission on the industry's payola practices.

Mike Viner, the executive, delivered the damning document to FCC Chairman Richard Wiley. From the confidential memo, we described some of the abuses. Here are others:

—To encourage influential broadcasters to play their records on the air, record companies pay them to produce records. MGM Records made such a deal, according to Viner, with Ken Dowe, who then worked for the McLendon radio stations. Dowe told us the record, featuring singer Buddy Greco, flopped. All Dowe got out of it, he said, was a trip to Los Angeles and expenses.

Solzhenitsyn a nice guy but...

I didn't know how I felt about Alex Solzhenitsyn going around the United States mean-mouthin our foreign policy until I remembered how much time, effort, anxiety and money Americans wasted in 1950 building fall-out shelters.

When an American flees America — to Cuba, Russia, Africa, wherever — and begins to make public statements over there condemning our government over here we expect that.

Alexander Solzhenitsyn is in much the same position over here now. He cannot possibly be objective where East-West diplomacy is concerned.

Our freedom of speech entitles him to speak his piece, but his words are not written in stone. And overtly to try to influence U.S. foreign policy is just plain bad manners for any newcomer.

Yet anybody who is interested, for any reason, in driving a wedge between President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger has tried to make this exiled Russian author that wedge.

Solzhenitsyn, in his zeal to protect us from the Russians who imprisoned him, seems to forget that if today's Soviets were as ruthless as he proclaims them to be — he'd not be here talking about it.

I hope Paul Harvey can examine the principle of detente without being suspected of siding with the Communists. I was seeking to alert our citizenry to that menace a long time before Solzhenitsyn was.

But some of us have sought to keep our intellectual arteries sufficiently pliable to adapt to inevitable change. Today's mainmost menace to the United States is not the Soviet Union.

Indeed, we have much more to fear from homefolks who are so irresponsible that they are about to prove that freedom won't work here, either!

But that is a digression. Let's get back to Solzhenitsyn's theme that our country "sold out Eastern Europe" by attending the summit meeting in Helsinki. He construes any getting-together as a threat to us and as support for Russian ruthlessness.

Secretary Kissinger asks the valid question, "What do those opposed to getting along with other nations propose as an alternative? Solzhenitsyn wants the United States to pursue an aggressive policy to overthrow the Soviet system.

"I believe," says Kissinger, "that if his views became the national policy of the United States they would sustain hostility and might well eventuate in war."

Kissinger considers that option unacceptable, and so do I. Now this big brouhaha about selling wheat to Russia.

The United States needs those dollars more than Russia needs that wheat. It is those incoming wheat dollars which are offsetting our outgoing oil dollars. We are "using" the Russians altogether as much as they are "using" us.

I would agree with the Soviet author that Russia respects firmness. All nations do. The United States needs to practice a little "enlightened selfishness" for a change.

Can pay hike raise esteem?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — "I attempted to make an amendment on the floor of the House (of Representatives) to make the salary of congressmen a minimum of $5,000 and a maximum of $50,000, and provided that every member should come in at the beginning of the session and sign an affidavit as to what he thought he was worth within that range, and that is what he would be paid."

Such was the cynical reaction of Congressman Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) to the debate on raising congressional salaries by providing every member and his staff with regular automatic cost of living increases from here on out — so that they never again will personally feel the effects of inflation, so worrisome in the lives of all the rest of us, their constituents. Hays, nevertheless, voted for the raise.

As has been reported, this perpetual cost of living increment, along with similar favors for federal judges, several thousand top government officials and 600 generals, was so unobtrusively tacked on to a minor Post Office bill and so carefully shepherded by Senate and House leaders that passage was quick and with little debate.

The entire action was carefully orchestrated to be introduced and passed before public opinion was aroused and thousands of nasty editorials written — a development which could have killed the raises aborning.

In the midst of the short debate, Representative Bauman, (R-Md.) observed in a session with his colleagues " . . . you know what is happening in this circle of canary-eating grins . . . "

But the ayes had it. Sen. Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) argued that the Congress had to do something "to help those members who are barely getting along with their $42,500 salary . . . "

Congressman Peter Peyser (R-N.Y.), on the House side, said that the economics of being a congressman "are murder." He indicated that coming to Congress had been an economic disaster for him, but that he was willing to make this sacrifice in the public good. However, he wanted the raise.

One representative emphasized that even the boost being voted would not catch congressmen up with the 40 some per cent cost of living increase since their last raise.

A number of congressmen, who will remain nameless, piously argued they did not want or need the increase but were going to vote for it. Since other officials were getting increases, they said, it would be unfair for Congressmen not to vote equal benefits for themselves. It would smack of discrimination.

It was also argued that if congressmen didn't vote raises for themselves, they might in due time have some staff members earning more than congressmen.

But the ultimate rationalization was put forward by Rep. Abner J. Mikva (D-Ill.), who, noting that only 15 per cent of those questioned in a recent poll approved of the way Congress has been acting, argued that their low salaries is the cause of the low esteem in which senators and representatives are held. The solution, and the key to greater respect, Mikva indicated, was to raise congressional pay.

With these compelling arguments before them, the Senate voted the raises by 58 to 29 and the House by a slippery 214 to 213. One man, Rep. Herbert Burke (R-Fla.) changed his vote to aye in midstream, saying the day for those who believed themselves overworked and underpaid.

The majority was in no mood to listen to those who argued caution. Rep. William Armstrong (R-Colo.) expressed the view of a minority when he asked " . . . are we going to insulate ourselves from the concerns of our constituents? We are so pampered and so coddled and so isolated from the day-to-day concerns . . . (of) our people at home . . . it becomes almost impossible for us to represent them."

I concur.

Heartline: I have been receiving Social Security retirement benefits, but this year I returned to work. However, I will not work after December. My earnings will be considerable and I would like to know if my benefits may increase. — T.R.

Answer: Earnings credited to a Social Security beneficiary after he retires are reviewed each year. Any benefit increase due because of these additional earnings is automatically processed during the year after the year of earnings. For example, 1975 earnings would be reviewed in 1976 after the employer reports are processed, and any increase would be fully retroactive to January 1976.

Heartline: Is there a bill that has been introduced to provide for a cost of living raise every six months instead of once a year? — Mrs. P.L.

Answer: Yes. H.R. 3138 introduced by Rep. Robert Traxler, D-Mich., to amend the Social Security Act so that the automatic cost of living increase in Social Security benefits may be made on a semiannual basis, rather than the present annual basis.

Heartline: Could you tell me about your guide to medicare? — Mr. J. J.

Answer: Heartline's Guide to Medicare covers the entire Medicare program in easy to understand question-and-answer form, and also in easy-to-read large print. It is unconditionally guaranteed. Send $1.50 to Heartline's Guide to Medicare, 8514 N. Main St., Dayton, Ohio 45415.

Peeling onions without crying

Dear Readers: With everything that is happening in the world, do you know what people are concerned about this week? Would you believe it's how to peel onions without crying?

Recently I printed a letter froma reader who had the thing licked. "I learned the trick from my mother-in-law," she boasted. And then she went on to say, "If you start at the root of the onion and peel up you'll never shed a tear."

Well, I did a little home research and ended up with bloodshot eyes and a runny nose. I told my "little helper" to give my regards to her mother-in-law.

This is what the mail has been like all week:

"Weep no more, my lady. Just put an electric fan on your work-counter when you peel onions and it will blow all those awful fumes away." — Michigan Fan

"Why cry when you can put a plastic bag over your head and get the job done dry-eyed and in record time?" — Cincinnati Clara

"Our home-ec teacher taught us how to peel onions and keep smiling. Just put on sunglasses, sweetie." — Atlanta Fan

"If you stick a whole slice of white bread in your mouth you'll never shed a tear. Grandma taught me this trick when I was a bride." — Grand Rapids Fan

"No more bawling over the onions. Not since my next-door neighbor told me to slice them submerged in a bowl of cold water. But be careful and don't cut your finger." — Rosemary In Rochester

"Just put the onions in the freezer for 15 or 20 minutes before you cut them and your problem is solved." — Las Vegas Hash Slinger

"My great uncle served in World War One and brought a gas mask home from France as a souvenir. The darned thing is perfect for peeling onions. But don't answer the door wearing one. The paper boy came to collect one day and the poor kid almost fainted." — St. Louis

"Put a clothespin on your nose and keep your mouth open. It never fails." — Memphis, Tenn.

"I wear my husband's motorcycle helmet with the goggles when I slice onions and I haven't shed a tear since I thought the stunt up." — Manhattan Cook

"Put a large hunk of raw potato in your mouth and you'll never cry over an onion again as long as you live." — Jackson, Miss.

"If you wear contact lenses keep them in. They make your eyes 'onion proof.' " — Little Rock

So, there you are, Dear Ones, a whole host of helpful hints to choose from. But remember — I'm not guaranteeing any of them. You're strictly on your own. And please don't write and tell me what works and what doesn't. If I never see another letter about onions again it will be too soon. — Yours Truly, ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've been sitting here for 30 minutes trying to say this in language you can print. Here's the best I can do. After 15 years of marriage my husband is suggesting things I think are far out. What is right and what is wrong in married sex? —N.N.

Dear N.N.: There's no "right" or "wrong." If two people agree, anything is O.K. It's up to them to decide. Note, I said TWO people.

Telephone's the 'blower'

A client of British extraction asks how Englanders came to refer to the telephone as "the blower." Long ago, it was the practice at the outset of a call to blow into the receiver. To her if the line were live. That's what our Language man found out. He did not find out, though, how, Americans came to refer to the telephone as "the horn."

MOST COLLEGE men like and most college women dislike to neck at length on dates. Or had you surmised as much? Anyhow, a study by Robert O. Blood at the University of Michigan has proved that fact.

CROWBAR HOLE

Q. "What's a crowbar hole?"

A. That's what the citizenry in Oklahoma calls a knot hole in a house wall. You push a crowbar through it to test the wind. If the crowbar bends, the wind is normal. If it breaks, you'd better not go outside.

REMEMBER, the temperature of your liver is always a degree or two higher than the temperature of your kidneys.

YOU KNOW that Mt. Rushmore sculpture of Abraham Lincoln's face? It's so big a man can stand upright inside of one eye. This comes to mind because a client asks how far away you can see those chiseled faces on a clear day. About 60 miles.

BALD

Argument continues over the claim that men who can wiggle their ears rarely get bald. But a note from a customer says that must be right. "I can only wiggle my right ear," he says, "and my bald spot is distinctly over on the left." Remarkable! Wish he'd sent a snapshot.

MAYBE YOU know the gourmet delicacy known as pate de foie gras is made from the enlarged livers of well fattened geese. But do you know how those geese get well fattened? Women in Eastern Europe force feed the birds by pushing potato dumplings down their throats with their fingers. Chet L. Switell told me that, too.

Dr. Miller

Nervous pup heriditary?

DEAR DR. MILLER: Yesterday I bought a 10-week-old mostly shepherd puppy. Today I am wondering if I got the wrong one. He is quite friendly with me, but he kind of jumps at everything he sees. I never saw such a nervous pup. Was he born unstrung or will he get over it?

— H. U.

DEAR H. U.: By now you probably have the answer. If he is already coming out of his shell, it may simply have been a case of no previous exposure to anything new or strange. He may have led a very sheltered life with little, if any, new input or stimuli. But if he has shown no improvement to date, hereditary factors merit more consideration. He should by now have been thoroughly checked over by his doctor, who may have found a physical defect such as poor eyesight to be a factor.

DEAR DR. MILLER: When Tidy, our cat, was shedding so much a few months ago, I thought she was getting rid of her winter coat. I guess she was. The trouble is she got rid of her winter coat, her spring coat, her summer coat. Now she must be working on her fall coat because she is still shedding. By the bucketful all over the house. It is now to the point where if we are wearing light colored clothes and we get out of the house fast in the morning. We don't dare sit anywhere or we'll be covered with Tidy's black hair.

I can't understand how come she is not bald. My husband, wishing she was, threatened to shave her so she would have no more to lose. The questions are (a) how could she possibly still have any hairs left and (b) should we shave her or is there some way we can get her to hold on to her hair?

— B. S.

DEAR B. S.: Household cats tend to shed partly in response to generation of light, natural and artificial. The old dead hair is pushed upward in the skin and finally lost as the newly arrived hair grows in to replace it. Varied stages of this process occur continuously in any given area of the skin, over the entire body. Under normal circumstances then, the lost dead hair is replaced by new living strands.

Some cats have a more rapid cycle (hence more rapid hair loss and replacement) than others. Medication may, on occasion, also slow this cycle and thus reduce the number of dead hairs being lost at any one time. Most often though, it's a case of daily gentle brushing, combing to remove as many of these dead hairs as possible at one time. Frequent follow-ups with vacuum cleaning equipment remain the most efficient way of minimizing the free floating and other dead hair which is strewn about. Shaving Tidy would solve the problem for a time, but would cause other, even greater, problems during and after the deed, so don't do it.

Testy over driving tests

In my day I have driven a hundred different cars, big and little, new and old, on mountain, plain and suburb, fair weather and foul. I have driven motorcycles and 4-ton trucks. I can frequently travel miles along the freeway with hardly more than a scraped fender or dented bumper.

What I cannot do, however, is pass the driver's written examination for a license.

In the first place, my old schoolboy neuroses return in Technicolor whenever anyone hands me a pencil and a list of questions. I had a teacher, way back then, who seemed to my young eyes eight feet tall and 100 years old. Miss Honoria Schultz had grey hair and thick glasses and carried a ruler.

When I enter the office of the Department of Motor Vehicles to apply for a license, the Schultz shadow rises like a specter, and the palms of my hands begin to smart again with the smack of a long-stilled ruler.

Taking my examination sheet in nerveless fingers, I listen unheeding to the brusque instructions of the clerk. Read the instructions. How to Answer the Questions: If your answer is YES mark an X in the box like this. If your answer is NO, do not make any mark in the box. That's a cinch.

Then it says, "Passing grade — six errors or less." I'm dead. On all examinations, I START with six errors. Sometimes I misspell my name. I hear a ghostly Schultzian chuckle; dew bespangles my brow.

1. "Does the law say you need not dim or lower your headlight beams until you come within 200 feet of an oncoming car?" Does the law say — would you mind repeating that? Does the law say . . . . ?

What do they want? I'm in agony. I know you have to dim your lights. I put in an X, then erase it. You need not —? I turn to ask the clerk and find myself unconsciously raising my hand.

2. "Is it true that you are not permitted to drive with just your parking lamps lighted?" It is true that you — huh? No, it is not true that you are permitted — or rather, it isn't not true that you aren't not — no, you can't. Leave it blank.

On goes the litany of vehicle code laws I have apparently been violating for years. Yes, it is true that you are not permitted to slow down when . . . No, the law does or does not allow you to pass or fail to pass when . . . . Yes, I am slowly going mad.

When at long last I turn in my test paper, I stand there waiting nonchalantly for the results, a cigarette in each hand and another in my mouth. The clerk glances over the paper and emits a low whistle. Fellow clerks come and gaze in awe.

In 35 years I have driven 985,760 miles without an accident, but I flunk the driving test. From the results I am apparently stupid, careless and malicious and how strong suicidal tendencies.

I said to the DMV clerk, "Is it true or not true, that you will or will not consider my application for a license?"

Then I walked off, leaving him scratching his head.

Dr. Lamb

This diet asks for trouble

DEAR DR. LAMB — Please tell me what I am doing wrong. How much weight can one expect to lose on a 400-500 calorie diet? I do not cheat. My daily exercise is the routine housekeeping plus a two-mile or more walk plus a half-hour bicycle ride.

According to some information I should be losing at least 10 pounds per week, but all I can manage is six. I am female, 46, and have lots to lose. I want to do it quickly.

DEAR READER — What are you doing wrong? Going on a 400-500 calorie diet. That is an invitation to developing a number of medical disorders and is not safe. As a rule of thumb no one should go on a diet of less than 1200 calories a day without medical supervision. And the maximum one should be losing after the first week (when you lose fluid and empty the digestive system which is not loss of fat) is about two pounds a week.

Your diet must be deficient in calcium and a number of important vitamins.

Now, let's do a little sensible, plain arithmetic. A pound of body fat contains 3500 calories. If you are losing six pounds of fat a week that would mean your body used 21,000 calories more than you ate or an average of 3000 calories a day. Add to that the 500 you are eating, and your body under present conditions would be using 3500 calories a day. That is a lot of calories for women. Your two-mile walk a day uses only about 120 calories. The bicycling will be helpful, but the amount of calories used depends on speed and other factors. It is likely, though that you are using more than 400 calories for this, so your exercise program uses perhaps as much as 600 calories a day.

What happens to the other 2900 calories a day? Do you really think your daily housekeeping and basal needs would use that many calories? I don't.

Then why are you losing so much weight? If you are, it means you are losing important muscle tissue, not just fat. When you get through with that program you will have lost a lot of body strength, and you will have altered your body so that it will be more difficult for you to avoid obesity in the future.

Muscle cells use more energy at rest than fat cells. As you lose them the amount of energy your body uses at rest will decrease. Crash diets lead to loss of vital muscle tissue.

The proper way to lose weight is to lose fat, not muscle, gradually. It is good to have an exercise program along with a diet to protect against loss of muscles.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband, 78, has to get up every night with cramps in his leg, sometimes in both legs. The cramps are very painful. First he thought it came from eating eggs once a week, but he hasn't eaten any for a long time now. He doesn't eat any fatty meat. Will you please explain what he can do about the cramps?

DEAR READER — He will need a careful examination. He may have poor circulation to his legs and feet. Don't let him put it off.

For relief of symptoms he might get some benefit by wearing long, wool socks to bed at night. Keeping the feet warm with some safe device such as warm socks often helps prevent cramps. That is not a substitute for a good examination as he may need some medicine or other treatment.

Astrographs

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Wednesday, Sept. 10

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The actions of one you're very fond of will disappoint you today. However, she'll soon be back in your good graces.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Early today you won't take your commitments as seriously as you should. Later you'll rationalize your reasons.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Though it may be a trifle inconvenient, shop a bit to get better prices today for even the little things.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Shun stores carrying luxury items that might tempt you today. Your will is far weaker than your whim.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You find dozens of flimsy reasons for not handling an unpleasant situation today. It will have to be resolved eventually. Why not do it now?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful or your little flirtations today could cause you some embarrassment. Though they may be harmless, they could offend a third party.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This can be a profitable day if you keep your mind on business. Forgo pleasurable pursuits till serious matters are attended to.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lots of little interruptions early in the day will sidetrack you temporarily. Later you'll get in high gear.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You won't be able to call the shots as independently as you'd like today. Another will have some control over your comings and goings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't expect more from friends and associates today than you would be prepared to give, if the roles were reversed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Goals important to you can be attained now, if you don't saddle yourself with any ally lacing initiative.

Your Birthday Sept. 10

A friendship of a lasting nature will be developed this coming year with one slightly older than yourself. This person can be relied upon when a real pal is needed.

Jacoby's bridge

With any sort of excuse

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It has been said that bad cards make bad players. We aren't sure that this is so, but we do know that bad players tend to do even worse with bad cards.

West had one queen and no singleton and resigned himself to a loss the moment he looked at his hand.

Thus, it never occurred to him that when his partner bid all the way up to four clubs on his own that four spades to the queen-10 would warrant a four-spade bid.

Furthermore, West's hand fulfilled one requirement for a sacrifice bid. He was pretty sure that South would make four hearts.

South did just that, but look what would have happened if West had pulled himself together and bid four spades.

North and South might have gone on to five hearts — down one. They might have doubled four spades or let East play there. If they had they would have been sorry. East would make four spades with no trouble at all.

Ask the Jacobys

An Oregonian asks what sort of hand South should have. North has opened one diamond, East has doubled and South has bid one notrump.

The answer to this one depends on partnership understanding, but in common with almost all experts and bridge teachers we play the bid to show eight or nine high-card points, a balanced distribution and certainly no five-card major suit.

Kibler and Abel vows exchanged

The bride, the former Marjorie Jean Abel, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman D. Abel of Glendora. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Allen Kibler of La Verne.

Twins' moms invited to annual fete

The Pomona Mothers of Twins Club has planned its annual membership party on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Marylen Hart at 7:30 p.m.

An evening of games is planned for members and prospective members to acquaint them with the organization.

Mrs. Edla Becker will report to the group on her recent trip to New York City where she attended the National Mothers of Twins Convention.

Joyce Brothers
Expects fidelity

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I married my husband two years ago and after the first year he started to be restless and unfaithful. Maybe it started even before then, but at least that's when I began to notice he was having extramarital affairs. He now admits that he can't be content with one woman and he says it wouldn't make any difference who the woman was. He thinks he's perfectly healthy and that this is the normal state of man. He says he's just smarter or more honest than the rest.

Do you think all males are like this, and am I just being naive in expecting some kind of emotional fidelity? — P.T.

Dear P.T.: This may be a normal state for immature men and women but adults of either sex who cannot find contentment and happiness without running frantically from one human being to another are in trouble. They are seeking not the gratification of adult, mature love goals but the fulfillment of infantile, immature cravings.

Frequently, the person who turns himself into a kind of on-again, off-again vending machine is afraid of close relationships. As long as the encounter is brief and fleeting, he will not have to expose his innermost feelings and he will not be subjected to really looking into and sharing the feelings of another person. Such a person is afraid of responsibility, of any kind of commitment and so limits himself to strangers. The moment he gets involved or starts to know or care for someone, he runs.

In your case, your husband is running by deliberately setting out to destroy his relationship.

The sexually promiscuous adult who finds it impossible to settle down with any one person may be in flight from himself. He may be rushing from one heterosexual encounter to another in a desperate attempt to prove to himself and others that what he fears most is not true — that he is homosexual and that he really neither likes nor appreciates women. Oddly, admitted homosexuals often have a much deeper understanding and appreciation of women than this particular kind of male.

In general, promiscuity in a man is an effort to find a loving mother. He is a man who has never broken the childhood relationship with his mother. He may unconsciously feel that if he really gets to know and love a woman, he is being unfaithful to his mother, while as long as his relationships with other women are fleeting, his mother wouldn't mind.

No, you are not being naive in expecting more than you're receiving from your husband. Unless he gets professional help, your marriage is doomed to failure. There is no reason for two lives to be ruined, however, and if he refuses to recognize his need for help, then it may be necessary to leave him in order to save yourself.

JO ALENE BENTLEY

Winter nuptials charted

Mrs. Milton Bentley of La Verne announces the engagement of her daughter Jo Alene to Timothy Keith Bateman of Montclair.

The bride-to-be is a recent graduate of Citrus College where she majored in nursing. She is a graduate of Claremont High School.

Miss Bentley is also the daughter of the late Milton Bentley.

Mr. Bateman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar D. Roe of Montclair, is employed by Plaza Villa Apartments in Montclair. He is a graduate of Montclair High School.

The couple will be married February, 1976.

Beginners dance class scheduled

A beginners square dance class will be sponsored on Wednesday evenings by the Star Steppers Square Dance Club.

Jim Garlow will be the instructor for the classes at Washington Park Clubhouse, Towne and Grand Avenues, at 8 p.m.

Singles are welcome and teen-agers may participate if accompanied by an adult. Registration will be open for three weeks.

The Star Steppers Club dance is planned Saturday at 8 p.m. at Washington Park with Lou Sperling as caller. A Back-to-School theme is planned.

Tropical

Lightly drizzle sliced bananas with rum. Flavor whipping cream with chocolate extract and instant coffee powder; beat to soft peaks and fold in roasted diced almonds. Spoon over bananas.

Hospital tour set by group

The San Antonio Community Hospital Women's Auxiliary has planned its annual organizational coffee in the Aita Auditorium of the hospital from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Sept. 15.

Members of the board of directors will review the purposes of the auxiliary. Also there will be a preview of the new emergency outpatient area which will soon be open for use. Mrs. George M. Gibson, president of the auxiliary, will welcome members and guests which include presidents and representatives of community organizations.

SOMETHING TO HOWL ABOUT — This plush setting in the northwest Chicago suburb of Barrington has "gone to the dogs." It is the proving ground for pet food developed by Quaker Oats Co. The grounds feature immaculate individual kennels, play areas and maternity and hospital quarters. Pets are catered to by white-cloaked attendants.

Pets really pampered in this home

BARRINGTON, Ill. (AP) — A dog's life? More than 500 cats and 300 dogs live in a swanky setting where all they have to do is eat.

Research scientists and veterinarians oversee the colony which is operated by the Quaker Oats Co. as a proving ground for pet food.

Few cats or dogs in the world are raised with silver spoons in their mouths like these pets in their immaculate individual kennels, play areas, and maternity and hospital quarters. They room and board in and around an updated mansion on an estate hugged by trees and flowers in this fashionable suburb northwest of Chicago.

And few cats or dogs are watched over so closely. Their meals are assayed by analytic and organic chemistry staffs, exploring nutritional theories and food acceptability.

Food is served on stainless steel dishes wheeled to the "taste panels" on stainless steel carts by white-cloaked attendants.

Small amounts of newly developed pet food are fed to white mice, guinea pigs and hamsters before being offered to the dog and cat colony.

The dogs and cats test their taste buds not only on Quaker products but also on competitors' pet foods and reactions are carefully noted.

If they turn up their noses at a certain meal — it doesn't happen very often — it's back to the drawing board. If they gobble with unusual gusto and it turns out to be a competitors' brand, conferences are called and midnight oil burned.

All age groups are evaluated in testing what is best liked in terms of flavor, texture, odor and appearance. The number of dogs and cats is steadily maintained by newborns, and there even is an "old folks" home.

Several different breeds of dogs, all registered with the American Kennel Club, are in the colony.

"For instance, we have boxers because they have nose and mouth problems in getting at the food," said a specialist. "We have pointers, a hypertensive breed prone to have nervous stomachs. There are dachshunds, they have back problems. We have labradors because of their largeness and little poodles because of reaction to particle sizes of food."

The cats mainly are domestic shorthairs, better known as alley cats, plus a few Siamese. They live in fluorescent-lighted, pastel-colored rooms with scratching trees and resting shelves and stroll in a large aluminum screened porch.

"Nothing is too good for our cats and dogs," says the specialist.

Ford's son influences 2 new cars

DETROIT (AP) — Those who buy one of Ford Motor Company's 1976 Stallion or Cobra models will be driving a car designed in part by the firm's heir-apparent, Edsel B. Ford II.

"I found we didn't have a '75 or '76 product that seemed to be youth-oriented," said Ford, 26, son of company Board Chairman Henry Ford II.

"Cars like this are very big in California. We wanted to hit the 18 to 30 age group with something exciting."

The Stallions are sporty versions of the Pinto, Maverick, and Mustang II, while the Cobra II is a milk-toast version of the Shelby GT-350 which screamed through the mid 1960s.

The models feature special paint and other sporty embellishments and have a black-on-red stallion head on the front fenders. The head was one of Edsel's contributions, too.

He says the Cobra II will get 35 miles per gallon, but is also available with a less fuel-conscious V8.

Edsel "was very deeply involved" in the Stallion-Cobra work, said a Ford spokesman.

"When he says they were his idea, he's right," said Allen Patrick, who managed the Stallion research project.

Ford Vice President William P. Benton said the youth market "was thoroughly researched" and planners and designers created "small cars specifically tailored to what the young buyer wants."

"One other guy and I worked on the research," said Edsel. Helping young Ford was Vince Fazio, a research analyst in the Ford Design Center, where Edsel worked when the project was created last year.

Now, he's working in the Detroit District Sales Office.

"I helped plan them, now I have to learn how to sell them," he said.

Bus firms offer low-cost fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Greyhound Lines and Continental Trailways Bus Co. both announced Monday that they will offer low cost tickets that will allow all Americans unlimited travel on their bus lines for one week.

Greyhound made its announcement at a Washington news conference. Trailways announced a similar far in newspaper ads.

The Greyhound plan will allow travelers to go anywhere in the United States on Greyhound buses for one week for $76. Trailways will offer the same plan for $75.

Greyhound said its tickets would be offered for sale today and would be good for travel through Dec. 15. Trailways said its tickets will be effective for the same period.

Greyhound also announced it will offer a 15-day pass for $125 effective Sept. 15 through April 30. Greyhound already offers a one month pass for $175 and a two month pass for $250.

The new fares will allow big savings for bus passengers. For example, Greyhound said the normal round trip fare between Washington and Los Angeles is $247.20. The trip takes 69 hours each way.

The new fares follow on the heels of the Trailways proposal approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission last week that will allow unemployed Americans to take trips at one half the regular fare.

Greyhound said it did not intend to match that fare because it felt the Trailways' proposal was too selective.

"You can be drawing unemployment and still have more money than a pensioner," said Greyhound's director of sales, Charles Kirkpatrick.

Almanac

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 9, the 252nd day of 1975. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1893, for the first time in the history of the United States, a child was born to the first lady in the White House. Mrs. Grover Cleveland became the mother of a baby girl.

On this date ...

In 1776, the term "United States" became official in a ruling of the Second Continental Congress.

In 1830, Charles Durant made early aviation history by flying in a balloon from New York City across the Hudson River to Perth Amboy, N.J.

In 1850, California was admitted to the Union as the 31st state.

In 1919, Boston police went on strike and Massachusetts Governor Calvin Coolidge ruled they would not be permitted to return to their jobs on grounds they had no right to strike and endanger the public safety.

In 1926, the National Broadcasting Company was formed as a service of the Radio Corporation of America.

In 1946, the formal surrender of about one million Japanese soldiers in China took place in Nanking.

Ten years ago: President Charles DeGaulle indicated that France would withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1969.

One year ago: On his one-month anniversary in office, President Ford encountered his first public protest and much Congressional criticism over his pardoning of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, Gov. Cooke of Rhode Island informed George Washington that a Frenchman by the name of Du Ville offered to provide a vessel with French documents and sail it to Bayonne, N.J., where he was confident he could procure a large quantity of gunpowder.

Safety standards questioned after hepatitis cases

CHICAGO (AP) — Two recent hepatitis epidemics caused by contaminated oysters raise serious questions about the adequacy of government safety standards, a team of public health investigators say.

The outbreaks, in October and November 1973, affected 263 persons in Houston, Tex., and 15 in Calhoun, Ga., who had eaten raw oysters harvested from two bays in the East Delta marshes of Plaquemines Parish in southern Louisiana.

The investigators, reporting in the Sept. 8 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, noted that the bays had been contaminated with polluted Mississippi River water two months before the oysters were harvested.

But at the time of harvest, they said, the bays met specifications set forth by the National Shellfish Sanitation Program for an approved shellfish growing area.

Because of that, "these outbreaks raise important questions about the adequacy of current shellfish certification programs," said the team, headed by Dr. Benjamin L. Portnoy of the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta.

The team noted that the water safety tests measure the amount of coliform bacteria, but do not test the virus content of the water. Hepatitis, a seriously debilitating liver disease, is frequently caused by a virus.

The Houston outbreak occurred among persons who had eaten at a local seafood restaurant. Those affected in Georgia had eaten a seafood dinner at a private club.

"Oysters can filter as many as 40 liters of water an hour to obtain oxygen and nutrients, and thus, may be exposed to tremendous quantities of microorganisms in polluted water," Portnoy and his colleagues pointed out.

At present, they note, no laboratory tests exist for isolating the hepatitis A virus, the type which caused the outbreak.

They say the 1973 epidemics offer evidence, that the oysters may be able to retain the virus for at least six weeks.

Murderer gets life sentence

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man convicted of killing one of two hitchiking women he attacked on a beach has been sentenced to life in prison.

Clarence Ferguson, 34, will have to serve at least 10 years before becoming eligible for parole, Superior Court Judge Edward Cragen ruled in passing sentence.

Ferguson was convicted June 26 of killing Janet Rodgers, 20, with a shotgun blast to her head and assaulting Julia Kehlig, 20, who played dead after being shot last January.

Miss Kehlig is a nursing student from Cincinnati, Ohio, and Miss Rodgers also was from Ohio.

Sentencing of Ferguson had been delayed from last month while Judge Cragen considered motions for a new trial, which he denied.

Vermeil claims UCLA is better

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Dick Vermeil of UCLA states flatly he'll have a better football team than in his inaugural 1974 season primarily because of improvenent in the offense.

Quarterback John Sciarra could be one of the best in the nation and Vermeil has a bevy of solid running backs for his veer-T offense.

Yet the coach continues to worry about the defense, which gets its first test Saturday night at the Los Angeles Coliseun against the Cyclones of Iowa State.

Offensively, Vermeil expects to start Carl Zaby and Kenny Lee at running backs, a surprise to those who thought the jobs would go to the speedy Wendell Tyler and Eddie Ayers, both lettermen who started often last season.

But Tyler has been fumbling in practice and Ayers is still recovering from a spring knee operation.

Both, however, are expected to see action against Iowa State.

UCLA is more experienced this season and Vermeil said, "That's a big advantage on both offense and defense. A man may be fast but he loses some of that speed if he has to think about what he is doing. With experience, he'll do it more automatically and faster."

Vermeil added, "We'll be a good football team, but I don't know how good. I like to believe we'll have a good season, but with the schedule the way it is, I know we'll have to battle.

"We can't overlook anybody."

In addition to Iowa State, the nonconference slate includes Tennessee, the Air Force and Ohio State.

Although UCLA has put in the drop-back pass as part of its offense, Vermeil emphasized at a Monday meeting with sportswriters that "we are a running team. That is our strength and the nature of the veer offense. We also have people who can catch the ball and can score. We must be sure we get the ball to them."

Split end Norm Andersen, has an injured finger but Vermeil hopes he'll be ready to play against Iowa State. Wally Henry has a pulled groin muscle but is expected to play.

Vermeil rates the tight end position as possibly the strongest for the Bruins with Don Pederson and Rick Walker the top two at the spot. Pederson is expected to start because he got in extra practice while Walker was nursing an injury.

A move that switched Cliff Frazier to middle guard from his previous tackle position has proved gratifying.

"We decided to make that change and also to put our five best on the offensive line regardless of what position they had played before," Vermeil said. "We are gratified with the result."

Four coaches make debuts

Four area coaches will be getting their baptism into the local prep grid scene when the season opens next Friday.

The four newcomers, Dick Larson at Damien, Rich Bare at Montclair, John Rode at La Verne Lutheran and Bob Williams at American Christian, have to be looking forward to the start of the football campaign just a little bit more than the valley's "veteran" grid mentors.

"I'm expecting to see one heck of a battle for the SAL crown," states Larson, who before coming to Damien was the head coach at Cantwell High in Montebello. "There are so many natural rivalrys in the SAL that on a given night any of the eight teams can get fired-up and knock off another squad.

"I'm really looking forward to coaching in this league," Larson continued. "It's going to be a challenge every week."

For Montclair's Bare, Lutheran's Rode and American's Williams, 1975 will also mark their debuts as varsity football coaches at the high school level.

Perry retiring

In contrast, this fall will mark Webb School's Les Perry's 27th, and last, season as head coach of the Gauls.

The flamboyant Perry, who was involved in coaching before some of the current valley mentors were born, will have Webb running out of the single wing attack again this season.

"Alas, after I go there will be no more single wing in the whole wide world," laments the vet Webb skipper. Perry, who guided the Gauls to a string of Arrowhead League titles in the 1960's, looks for his squad to "win one for the old Gipper" in his farewell season. If not the A.L. title, than at least an upset of heavy Arrowhead favorites Big Bear, Notre Dame or Aquinas along the way.

Playoff dates set

The CIF office has announced the playoff calendar for 1975 fall sports. The 1A through 4A football playoffs will get underway November 21, the 1A championship tilt slated for Dec. 12 with the upper three divisions being decided Dec. 19.

The cross country prelims will be held Nov. 22 with the Southern Section finals scheduled for Nov. 29. 3A and 4A waterpolo finals are set for Dec. 5.

Girls' volleyball Southern Section prelims go on Nov. 15 through Nov. 22, with the finals slated for Nov. 25. Girls' individual tennis CIF finals will be held Dec. 6, with the team tennis finale scheduled for Dec. 4.

Munoz tabbed

In case you hadn't noticed, Chaffey High's Anthony Munoz was tabbed as one of the nation's top college prospects in an article in Sunday's Family Weekly PB supplement.

Munoz and 30 other prepsters from across the U.S. were picked by a group of college recruiters as the top prospects for future stardom among high school seniors.

A 6-5, 245-pounder, Munoz will be hard for the fans to miss at his defensive tackle this season for the Tigers, but will be hard to stop for Chaffey's opponents.

Other Southern Cal preps cited in the article included quarterback Paul McDonald of Bishop Amat, running back Fred Ford of St. John Bosco High in Bellflower, wide receiver James McGarvey of Aviation High in Inglewood and quarterback Kenny Moore of San Fernando High.

Bert Jones puts 'birds' on Houston

Jones, who had been criticized after suffering through three straight defeats, engineered Baltimore to a 26-21 National Football League preseason victory over the confused Oilers in the Astrodome Monday night.

After falling behind 7-0 on Lynn Dickey's 12-yard touchdown pass to Fred Willis in the first quarter, Jones whipped the Colts to 17 points in the final six minutes of the second quarter for a 20-7 halftime lead.

The Oilers, who were losing their third straight game after two preseason victories, rallied in the second half on a pair of touchdown passes by Dan Pastorini but the Colts' second quarter surge was too much to overcome.

"Jones did a fine job tonight," Baltimore Coach Ted Marchibrode said. "He just did what he thought he could do."

What Jones did was complete 16 of 26 passes for 166 yards and one touchdown, a 10-yard pass to Lydell Mitchell that put the Colts ahead to stay in the second quarter. After Steve Williams blocked an Oilers punt in the third quarter, Jones ran four yards for a score.

"There's been a lot of criticism about Jones not being able to pick up his secondary receivers," Marchibroda said. "Maybe we silenced some of that tonight."

Shortly after Mitchell's touchdown catch, a 44-yard pass interference penalty against Houston's Zeike Moore gave Baltimore a first down at the Oilers' one-yard line. Rookie Roosevelt Leaks, formerly of Texas, plunged over for the score with 1:04 left in the half.

Toni Linhart kicked a 45-yard field goal early in the second quarter and booted a 42-yarder as time ran out in the first half.

After an ineffective first half under quarterback Lynn Dickey, the Oilers rallied in the second half behind Pastorini, who hit tight end John Sawyer with a 30-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter and pulled the Oilers to their final score with a 24-yard TD strike to Billy Parks with 3:05 left in the game.

Baltimore stands 2-3 in exhibition play.

Missouri shows up 'Bama

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Tuesday, September 9, 1975

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Perhaps Bear Bryant didn't believe it the first time, so Missouri showed him again.

In their only previous meeting, Missouri bushwhacked 'Bama 35-10 in the Gator Bowl following the 1968 campaign. Al Onofrio, who coached the Tigers' defensive line the first time, was the head coach Monday night when Missouri impressed a national television audience and depressed a pro-Alabama crowd of 63,000 by doing it again 20-7 in the season opener for both clubs.

The outcome thrust Missouri squarely into the Big Eight Conference picture and, since defending national Oklahoma is ranked No. 1 again at this stage of the season, it also pushed the Tigers into the national spotlight.

And the end to its 22-game regular-season winning streak may have signaled an early demise to Southeastern Conference power Alabama's preseason dream of its first national crown in a decade, a squad which Tennessee's Bill Battle has labeled "the best collection of talent ever assembled in the South."

Even though Missouri was a three-touchdown underdog, it was no fluke, this trouncing which Bryant called "a good ol' sound country beating." Alabama's famed Wishbone, which averaged 299 rushing yards a game last year, managed only 31 measly yards in 34 attempts, although a good chunk was lost via late quarterback sacks when the Crimson Tide was trying futilely to play catch-up.

In that 1968 Gator Bowl disaster, Missouri stifled Alabama with minus 45 yards on the ground and there were some other similarities Monday night—like occasional sevenand eight-man defensive fronts and a succession of weak-side blitzes.

The statistics showed Missouri outrushed Alabaoa 206 yards to 31 and outgained the Tide over-all 257-118. But it wasn't even that close as the Tigers scored a touchdown and field goal in each of the first two periods for a 20-0 halftime bulge and settled down to a more conservative brand of offensive football thereafter while the traditionally rugged defense made Alabama's faces redder than their crimson uniforms.

"I think we were pretty forunate not to be beaten worse," said Bryant, whose scoffed-at prediction that Missouri "might manhandle us again" came all too true. "They beat us worse than the score indicates. They ate us on the line of scrimmage, which is where it all starts. Particularly their defense against our offense. And I don't recall anybody keeping the ball that much against us in 10 years. They must have set some kind of record for offensive plays.

"I had no idea they would shut us off the way they did. We've got to establish a running game to move the ball, but we couldn't."

The stunning triumph was another in Missouri's amazing string of upsets over the past four years, starting with the 30-26 shocker over Notre Dame in 1972. The following week Colorado fell. In 1973 Nebraska was the victim. Last season it was Baylor, Arizona State and Nebraska again.

"The latest one always seems the best," Onofrio said, "but I have to rank this one right up there with the victory over Notre Dame. I've never had a Missouri team fight any harder than this one. Beating Alabama down here in Birmingham was a big thing."

Tony Galbreath led the way by rushing for 120 yards, 89 in the first half, and scored Missouri's first touchdown on a three-yard burst with just seven minutes gone in the game. John Blakeman got the other touchdown on a nine-yard run in the second quarter while Tim Gibbons booted field goals of 44 and 46 yards—the two longest of his career—and a whippet-quick, pursuit-minded defense led by tackles Keith Morrissey and Randy Frisch and second-stringer Tom Cooper rammed and jammed the ball down Alabama's craw all evening.

"We knew what we had to do and we just went out and did it," said quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, who directed the formation attack with a few doses of double-wing to near perfection.

Dodgers blank Giants, 4-0

Andy finally gets help

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Of 1975, a season of many disappointments for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Andy Messersmith says, "I just hope I can get out of it without getting hurt."

It has been that kind of a year for Messersmith who has pitched exceedingly well in spite of little or no support from his teammates.

His earned run average is 2.40, he has six shutouts to tie for the National League lead and he leads the league in complete games with 17.

But, still, he'll be hardpressed to hit the 20-win circle for the second straight season and third time in his career.

Monday night he blanked the San Francisco Giants, 4-0, on three hits as the Dodgers improved their hold on second place in the N.L. West to 5½ games over the third-place Giants.

Tonight, in the final meeting of the season between the two rivals, Jim Barr, 11-12, will start for San Francisco against Los Angeles' Doug Rau, 13-9, who is shooting for his fifth straight victory.

Monday night Steve Garvey broke a scoreless duel between Messersmith and the Giants' John Montefusco with a runscoring double in the sixth inning, driving home Henry Cruz who had also doubled.

The Dodgers then added three more runs in the eighth against Montefusco's relief, Randy Moffitt and Dave Heaverlo, when Steve Yeager singled home two runs and Bill Russell one more.

"I really didn't know how to act with such a lead," kidded Messersmith, now 16-14, and with at least four, perhaps five, starts remaining.

"Tonight I pitched about as well as I can," Messersmith went on. "I pitched a shutout two starts ago but I wasn't anywhere near in command of that game, over the Mets, as I was tonight.

"As for 20 wins, well, I really don't know. Whether I get 20 or not, in a lot of ways this has been my best season. I just haven't been able to get much of a string going."

Messersmith did his first seven decisions, then encountered lack of support.

As for his six shutouts, Messersmith shook his head and said, "That's all well and good. But I'm just sorry the game didn't mean more than it did."

Walt Alston, the manager, promises to give Messersmith an extra start if it would make a difference in hitting the 20-win circle.

"If it means something I'm sure he'll get an extra start," Alston said.

McMillan starts against Raiders

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Eddie McMillan will start at left cornerback for the Rams against the Oakland Raiders on Thursday night after doctors decided that regular Charlie Stukes must undergo surgery.

A Rams spokesman said Monday that Stukes, 31, a starter for the past two seasons, could be out for the National Football League season.

The graduate of Maryland Eastern Shore College tore a ligament in his left knee Saturday night as the Rams beat Philadelphia, 35-0, to run their preseason record to 4-1.

Stukes and teammate Dave Elmendorf each intercepted seven passes last year, second high in the National Football Conference.

Stukes played with Baltimore and was traded to Minnesota before joining Los Angeles.

The Rams also announced Monday that they had claimed rookie quarterback Harry Knight from Oakland. Knight, from Richmond, was a ninth-round draft choice by the Raiders.

Valley coaches eager for openers

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

The college football season starts in the valley Saturday night when Citrus entertains Mt. San Antonio and Cal Poly travels to Chico State.

As expected, the coaches are anxious to get going as they discussed the season at Monday's first weekly football luncheon at The Castaway Restaurant.

However, some of the discussions drifted away from the openers.

MSAC's Mal Eaton presented his views on a more regional conference. La Verne College's Roland Ortmayer explained how a new insurance plan may cut into his football ranks. Chaffey College's Willie Richardson told why things are looking up for the Panthers. Cal Poly's Andy Vinci discussed how the NCAA rules affect the Broncos' first game.

"We enjoy playing Citrus this week but we would enjoy it even more if it was a conference game," Eaton said. "It would be a lot better to play schools in your area in a conference. We're feeling the money pinch like everyone else and releaguing the conferences geographically would cut costs."

Eaton admits the South Coast Conference is better with the addition of Grossmont College to raise the membership to seven schools.

"It's better than six teams but it doesn't make much difference which school it is," Eaton added.

Both Richardson and Citrus assistant Gary Burnett are happy about Grossmont leaving the Mission Conference to drop the membership to eight games.

"We're glad to get rid of Grossmont," Richardson said. "Playing seven league games should be much better. Now you can take a good look at your players in three non-league games. We'll be playing Barstow instead of Grossmont."

Burnett added, "An eight-team conference is really nice for us. It helps get us ready for Mission Conference play. We'll have our work cut for us in the pre-league by playing MSAC, Long Beach and Rio Hondo.

Richardson is delighted with the addition of Corona and Norco to the college's district.

"Our biggest source of athletes have come from Corona and Norco," he said. "When those cities voted to join our district, it was a decision which should help our athletic program for years to come."

Ortmayer, who begins his 28th season at La Verne on Sept. 20 against St. Mary's, says he has 71 fellows out who say they want to play football.

"Every athlete at our place must take out a $50 deductible student insurance policy at our place this year so that may eliminate some fellows," Ortmayer said. "I know if I was a player that wouldn't sound too good to me."

When asked if the absence of Dr. Leland Newcomer, who recently resigned as the college president, would affect the athletic program, Ortmayer answered, "There might be less noise at the game and less aggravation with our opponents. But you don't know how it will be until a new president is selected."

Vinci will be taking advantage of the Alabama court ruling on the Bear Bryant case which permits visiting squads to jump to 60 from the limit of 48 imposed by the NCAA.

Braves play in private

By Associated Press

As a long, dreary season winds down, the Atlanta Braves find themselves going no-place fast. The fans are going every-place fast—except, of course, for Atlanta Stadium.

It took the fifth-place Braves only four days to top the alltime attendance low they set Thursday night, when 1,062 people crossed the turnstiles for a 2-1 victory over San Diego. Monday night, with no threat of rain and temperatures in the mid-70s, 737 spectators crammed into 52,744 seats for a 9-6 loss to the Houston Astros—the only National League club with a worse record.

"That many, huh?" asked Atlanta outfielder Mike Lum.

Well, uh, yeah.

"It's the low ebb in a long season," offered Bob Hope, the Braves' Director of Public Relations. "This is the longest we've been out of contention in years. It's late in the season, and the fan appeal's a little dim right now."

So when Darrell Evans cracked a two-run homer in the seventh inning, the massive crowd, the vendors, four umpires, 80 baseball players, the ground crew and the cleaning ladies got a private performance of Chief Nok-A-Homa's dance behind the left-field fence.

After all, the game wasn't televised locally. There's no guarantee anyone would have watched.

"All we can say is that we're very disappointed with our attendance this year," said press relations director Randy Donaldson.

All the fans are saying is that they're very disappointed in a team that has lost all but 63 of 144 games.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati topped San Diego 3-2, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 4-0, Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 4-1, Philadelphia tripped St. Louis 6-3 and Montreal beat New York 6-5 and 6-1 in a twi-night doubleheader.

Houston's Cesar Cedeno hit two home runs and had six RBI before the Braves' biggest non-crowd of the season, almost single-handedly raising the Astros' record to 56-89 and bringing them within 41 games of first place.

Cedeno also rapped a two-run double in a three-run Houston first. His solo homer made it 40 in the third inning.

Evans' two-run homer in the seventh inning had given Atlanta a 5-4 lead.

Reds 3, Padres 2

Johnny Bench's 26th homer of the year, a two-run shot in the eighth-inning, lifted the NL West champions past San Diego. Willie McCovey's 18th homer of the year had given the Padres a 2-1 lead they held until the eighth.

Pirates 4, Cubs 1

Back in the division with a pennant race, the Pirates extended their NL East lead to 6½ games over St. Louis and seven games over Philadelphia behind a combined six-hitter by Dock Ellis and Ramon Hernandez.

Ellis was making his first start since the Pirates lifted his two-week suspension for refusing to pitch in relief and his criticism of Manager Danny Murtaugh in a team meeting.

"That's over," said Murtaugh.

"I know I would have climbed the wall to help Dock win tonight," said Al Oliver, whose triple helped key a three-run rally and snap a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning.

Phillies 6, Cards 3

Greg Luzinski, who admits he hasn't been doing the job, did it Monday night. His single and double drove in three runs, raising his league-leading RBI total to 110 and carrying Philadelphia past St. Louis.

"People get on me, because it's September and we've had a lot of guys on base and as the number-four hitter I'm supposed to be driving them in," said Luzinski. "I haven't been doing the job."

He had driven in just four runs with his last 47 at-bats.

Expos 6-6, Mets 5-1

"We're going to be a spoiler in this race," Carrithers said. "We've got to play all these (East Division) clubs and we're going to go in and knock them off. It's going to be fun."

Oakland wins the big ones

By The Associated Press

It looked like a World Series game. There was a big crowd at the Oakland Coliseum, the game meant something and, of course, the A's won.

"We proved again that this team plays a little better when the games mean a lot and when a lot of people turn out to watch us," said Sal Bando, the Oakland captain who contributed a home run and two singles to an explosive A's attack that steamrollered the Kansas City Royals 8-2 Monday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees blanked the Detroit Tigers 3-0; the Cleveland Indians dropped the Boston Red Sox 4-1, and the Baltimore Orioles tripped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2.

The script seems to be the same every year. The A's play as well as they have to in winning the American League West, then they play better than everybody else in sweeping to the world championship.

Last year, Texas made a September run at the A's but fell five games short. This year it's the Royals, who might as well pack up their bats and balls.

Do the Royals, now six games back, have a chance?

"No chance, no chance at all," Washington said. "If they won this game they would have had a chance. They had to sweep the series but they blew it."

Oakland fans are notorious for recognizing the football Raiders, the A's, after the regular season, and a bargain—anytime.

Monday night, there was crowd of 38,735, taking advantage of half-price family night while waching the A's manhandle the Royals on home runs by Gene Tenace, Bando and Washington and Ken Holtzman's five-hit pitching.

Orioles 6, Brewers 2

The little losses in May are looking bigger and bigger in September for Baltimore.

"We lost 11 of 12 games in May when we weren't hitting," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, "and we've never recovered from that, even though we've been playing .660 since the All-Star Game."

The Orioles latest success was keyed by Tommy Davis, who had three hits—including a two-run homer, and Mike Torrez, who pitched a six-hitter.

The victory and Boston's loss to Cleveland left the Orioles six games back of the first-place Red Sox with 20 games to play for both teams in the American League East.

"Actually," said Weaver, "we've got a better record right now than last year at this time when we passed them and won the division."

Indians 4, Red Sox 1

Don Hood, who hurled a seven-hitter, profited from three Boston errors leading to three unearned runs in the fourth inning and outdueled Rick Wise. John Lowenstein's homer accounted for the other Cleveland run.

Yankees 3, Tigers 0

Rudy May tossed a seven-hitter to pick up his career-high 13th victory. It was May's first shutout of the season and the second in the row for the Yankees. Catfish Hunter checked Baltimore 2-0 Sunday.

Graig Nettles blasted a solo home run in support of May.

"We've checked with the NCAA and the rules won't be in effect this week so we are planning to take 55 players to the Chico game," Vinci said. "We've had a few injuries so this should help us, expecially with our specialty teams."

RICHARDSON: "We checked in about 68 players when we opened practice and we're down to 55 now. All our running backs are new as is our defensive secondary. We're pleased with our quarterback competition between Jamie Broecker, Bill Childress and Larry Garcia. Our offensive and defensive lines are the most experienced. We scrimmage Moorpark this Saturday and open at Santa Barbara on Sept. 20. I would hate to be playing this week."

BURNETT: "We have a lot of question marks this year as we must replace eight starters on defense and five on offense. We like to play big people and MSAC is big and strong. It's going to be tough. It should be a hard hitting game."

EATON: "We have three new people on our staff this year. It got pretty hectic last year with only four on the staff. Now we have seven including myself. We should be much more capable of giving our players a fair shake coaching wise. We have 14 players from last year so it's mostly a new and inexperienced team. However, we recruited some of the better kids in our district. We play a killer non-league schedule."

ORTMAYER: "We haven't gotten into football enough yet to talk much about it. We start in pads Tuesday night. We'll scrimmage Riverside on Friday. We have as good potential as any team we've had."

VINCI — "We were able to watch Chico in a scrimmage Saturday. Chico State looks well disciplined, well conditioned and enthusiastic. They are a lot like San Francisco State and Cal State Hayward, who we lost to last year. Our players are ready for a game. They are tired of playing the same guys every day. We have more of a balanced offense this season."

Plunkett must undergo surgery

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have lost quarterback Jim Plunkett's passing skills for at least a month—"a big loss for us," concedes Coach Chuck Fairbanks of the National Football League team.

Plunkett was to undergo surgery today at Stanford University Medical Center in California for a left shoulder separation suffered in Sunday's exhibition victory over the San Diego Chargers.

"It's not encouraging to see key people keep getting hurt," said Fairbanks. "It's discouraging because to be successful, you need all your resources and talent. The margin of error is very small. We have to play hard to take up the slack for those missin."

"I don't know how big the (losses) can get," said Fairbanks, "but this is a big one."

Fairbanks predicted the Stanford All-American and Heisman Trophy winner would be out for at least a month—but medical specialists said recuperation from a shoulder separation operation could take six to eight weeks.

Graff, a former Wisconsin standout, spent most of the 1974 season on the bench, and Fairbanks wonders if Graff can make it.

"We'll have a chance to see," said Fairbanks.

Telly's Pop in Del Mar feature

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP)—Actor Telly Savalas' latest love, a thoroughbred colt named Telly's Pop, heads a field of eight today when Del Mar's greatest season closes with the $111,925 Del Mar Futurity.

Telly's Pop, a son of Bold Ruler stallion Bold Combatant, won his first two races at Hollywood Park and raced third in the Hollywood Juvenile Championship. Now nearing his third birthday, he and the others in this futurity will be prime candidates for derby races in 1976.

The Del Mar Futurity, which in the past has been won by such notables as Your Host, Tomy Lee, Coursing, Baffle, June Darling and MacArthur Park, is the first of the Western Juvenile Triple Crown. The others are the Norfolk Stakes at the Oak Tree at Santa Anita meeting and the California Juvenile Stakes at Bay Meadows. Both of those races are at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Bill Shoemaker, the world's winningest jockey, will be seeking his fifth consecutive triumph in this race aboard Thermal Energy. Francisco Mena has the ride on Telly's Pop. Don Pierce is on Crazy Channon, a son of 1968 Futurity winner Fleet Allied, and Darrel McHargue is the rider on Lexington Laugh. McHargue is currently the leading rider at the track.

Islanders take PCL

HONOLULU (AP)—Young righthander Dave Wehrmeister checked Salt Lake City on five hits Monday as the Hawaii Islanders captured the Pacific Coast League crown with an 8-0 victory.

The league championship was the first for the Islanders in 15 years of PCL play.

The Islanders, who exploded for six runs in a wild fifth inning, won the series four games to two.

Jerry Turner's run-scoring single started the scoring in the fifth, and an error by Gulls left fielder Morris Nettles allowed another run to score on the play. Sonny Jackson followed with another RBI single, Davey Hilton drove in two runs with a double and a passed ball gave Hawaii its sixth run.

Wehrmeister, who allowed no walks and struck out four, gave up only one run in 4⅓ and two-thirds innings against the Gulls this year.

Sports briefs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers say quarterback Terry Bradshaw has recovered from an intestinal virus and will be ready to start Saturday against Dallas in their final exhibition game.

Bradshaw was released Monday from Divine Providence Hospital after spending a day there for observations and tests to determine why he had been feeling poorly for the several days previously.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Greg Barton, 29-year-old head coach of the Portland Thunder, was fired by the World Football League team Monday night after a four-month career during which his team recorded one win and five losses.

Bob Brodhead, Thunder general manager who fired Barton, said he would personally take over as interim head coach until a replacement for Barton could be found.

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Center Billy Paultz, a member of the American Basketball Association's East Division All-Star team each of the past three seasons, was traded by the New York Nets to the San Antonio Spurs Monday for forwards Rich Jones and Chuck Terry, center Kim Hughes and guard Bob Warren.

Nets President Roy Boe announced the deal and said it was a straight player transaction with no cash involved.

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Raiders have taken care of a surplus of wide receivers by trading Kent Gaydos to Philadelphia.

"There are too many good receivers," Gaydos conceded after the trade was announced by the Raiders on Monday.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tony Perez of the Cincinnati Reds was named National League Player of the Month Monday after batting .398 with three home runs and 26 runs batted in during August.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Rangers said Monday their No. 1 draft choice, Jim Gideon, will pitch his first major league baseball game here Sunday afternoon against Chicago.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fullback Doug Dressler was traded by the Cincinnati Bengals Monday to the New England Patriots for undisclosed draft considerations.

Dressler, who has averaged 4.1 yards in four years with Cincinnati, was in his sixth National Football League season. He missed all of 1973 due to a broken collarbone suffered in an exhibition game.

The 6-foot-2, 228-pound Chico State product became expendable with the development of newcomer Ed Williams.

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons' defensive end Claude Humphrey, already sidelined for the season with torn knee ligaments, underwent his second operation in a week Monday.

Humphrey said the surgery was to adjust a pin placed in his injured left knee after he was hurt in a preseason game Aug. 30.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys announced Monday they have obtained running back Bob Anderson from the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed draft choice.

The 6-foot, 212-pound Anderson is in his fifth National Football League season. He missed the 1974 campaign with a broken leg.

Anderson was the Broncos No. 1 draft choice in 1970 following a standout collegiate career at the University of Colorado.

NEW YORK (AP) — Catfish Hunter, who recently tossed a pair of shutouts and chalked up his 20th win of the season, was named the American League Player of the Week Monday by League President Lee McPhail.

Kings sign young Bucyk

INGLEWOOD — The Los Angeles Kings have announced that second round draft pick Terry Bucyk signed a multi-year contract. Bucyk, 6-2, 205, a right winger and a nephew of the Boston Bruins' great Johnny Bucyk, was the 33rd pick overall in the draft.

Bucyk spent two and a half years with the Edmonton Oil Kings before switching last mid-season to the Lethbridge Broncos. Overall, he scored 29 goals, 20 of which were in the second half and 32 assists for 61 points in 62 games. He had 49 penalty minutes.

An all-around athlete, playing quarterback in football and pitcher in baseball, Bucyk's strengths are aggressiveness in front of the net, long strides that enable him to break quickly, strong upper body, and unselfish play.

"We are very happy to come to terms with Terry," said Kings General Manager John (Jake) Milford. "He signed a multi-year contract and will get a good shot at making the Kings. Terry has the ability with good size and moves to play in the National Hockey League and now it's entirely up to him."

Boosters set dinner

The Pomona High Boosters Club is holding a potluck dinner at the school's cafeteria beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

Varsity representatives are supposed to bring a casserole while the sophomores provide the desserts and the freshmen the salads.

Oregon loses 2nd AD

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The University of Oregon joined Oregon State University in a search for a new athletic director Monday after Norval Ritchey, who held the position at Oregon since 1970, resigned.

The mounting financial problems facing college athletic departments became even more apparent as Ritchey stepped down, less than a month after Jim Barratt resigned as athleic director at Oregon State.

"This should serve as a sign, I guess, emphasizing the crisis in funding of intercollegiate athletics in the state of Oregon," said Ritchey, who helped build an athletic program that was highly ranked in the country last year.

Ritchey, who has been with the university for 20 years, said he would take another job with the university administration. He said he would remain as athletic director until his new duties are assigned, saying he hoped to work on the financial problems facing athletic departments.

The Eugene Register-Guard had reported last week that Ritchey, 43, planned to step down. An athletic department spokesman said Ritchey denied it at that time because he felt an obligation to announce it first to his staff.

Barratt, athletic director at Oregon State since 1966, announced on Aug. 11 that he was resigning, effective in January. At that time, he said in a letter to OSU President Robert MacVicar: "I predict that Jim Barratt will be the first of several athletic directors throughout the nation to sacrifice themselves on the altar of HEW's Title 9."

Ritchey, in a telephone interview Monday, said Title 9 and other financial aspects of the job played a part in his decision. "But I am not a burnt offering to Title 9," he said.

NORV RITCHEY

Title 9 refers to legislation developed by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare and passed by Congress to equalize women's athletic opportunities.

In his letter to Oregon President William Boyd, Ritchey said: "Perhaps I have accomplished as much as I can as your director of athletics.

"However, it will be a privilege to remain a member of your staff," Ritchey wrote, "and continue to serve the university in a role which, hopefully, I can help solve the financial problems which confront athletic programs in the state of Oregon as well as throughout the nation."

Many of the metal things we use every day are made of stainless steel. The most familiar use of stainless steel in the home is in tableware, kitchen knives, pots and pans.

Stainless steel is a steel that has another metal called chromium mixed with it. A mixture of this kind is called an alloy. And it is the chromium in the steel that keeps the kitchen knife, pot or pan from getting rusty as an old nail.

Nickel and other metals may also be added to make stainless steel used for special purposes.

Stainless steels are hard and strong. They do not tarnish or stain easily and resist the attack of many acids.

Because stainless steel lasts long and can be sterilized easily, steel sinks and other equipment made of stainless steel are used in hospitals, restaurants, food processing plants and other places where cleanliness and easy maintenance is essential for reasons of good hygine.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1336 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

'Death Wish'

Author angry over film

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Brian Garfield is angry. The cause of his anger is the movie, "Death Wish." That violent film made a lot of people angry but Brian Garfield has a special reason for his wrath — he wrote the book the picture is loosely based on.

Garfield says there is a big difference in spirit between his novel and the picture which producer Dino DiLaurentiis, director Michael Winner and actor Charles Bronson made from it.

"They made the Bronson character a hero," Garfield says. "In the book, he was totally psychopathic."

In case you didn't see "Death Wish," it deals with a man (Bronson) who takes the law into his own hands. After his wife and daughter have been killed, he begins turning the tables and cold-bloodedly killing every hoodlum (or suspected hoodlum) he sees.

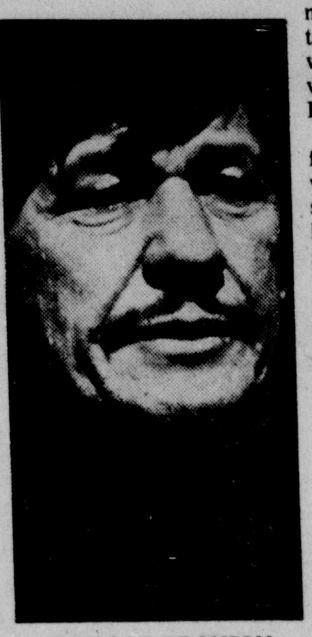
"I'm not saying that people who see it will immediately rush into the streets and kill people," he says. "But I think it's possible somebody who's on the edge might get an idea from it. Movies are very strong fare for impressionable minds.

"I remember reading about somewhere when 'Fuzz' was shown. That has a scene involving immolation. The next day a group of kids immolated a girl. Maybe, if they hadn't seen the picture, they would have mugged her or something, but I'm sure the picture gave them the idea of soaking her with gasoline and setting her on fire."



CHARLES BRONSON

Garfield got his idea for "Death Wish" one night in New York when he went to his car about 3 a.m., after a party, and found the convertible top had been slashed.

"I was very mad," he says. "I found myself saying to myself, 'If I'd have been there, I'd have killed him.'"

Of course, later I realized I probably wouldn't have done a thing — after all, the guy had a knife — but I realized there was a germ of a story there. What would happen if a man really got the vigilante bug?

But he objects to what DiLaurentis - Winner - Bronson did to his story. And he's taking pains to see that it doesn't happen again.

His newest novel, "Hop - Scotch," was written to prove that he could write a suspense novel with absolutely no violence.

And, to make sure that "it doesn't fall into the hands of a Michael Winner," he has already written his own screen play. He will also co-produce it, with director Brian Forbes.

"Death Wish" was the first novel he wrote which was filmed, although several previous books have been optioned for the screen.

"The whole thing," he says, "was a very frustrating business.

Spelling theft

Before Noah Webster compiled his dictionary, he produced one of the most useful volumes ever printed in English, the Blue-Back Speller. Unscrupulous publishers pirated the Speller and reprinted it without payment or credit. This led Webster to devise and champion the federal copyright law which Congress enacted in 1790 to protect the rights of authors. An 1870 law made the Library of Congress the first central agency for the registration and custody of copyright deposits in the U.S.

BACK AGAIN — TV star Carol Burnett rehearses with guest star Jim Nabors for the season opener of The Carol Burnett Show Saturday night. Nabors was a guest on the opener nine years ago and has been on each one since then. Nabors says, "It's the best variety show on television and I like the exposure. Carol thinks I'm a lucky charm for the show so we both hit it off great."

Mexican ballet sets programs

Ballet Folklorico Mexicano de Graciela Tapia will present a program of Mexican songs and dances at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium, and at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the California Theater of the Performing Arts in San Bernardino.

The company was a hit at Expo '74 World's Fair at Spokane, Wash. A cast of 40, with 16 being dancers, will be seen in such numbers as "Danza de los Chinelos," a pre-Hispanic dance from the State of Morelos; "La Danza del Venado," a traditional dance performed by the Yaqui Indians before a hunting expedition; "Fiestas del Sureste" from Oaxaca; and "Tarascan" group dances from the states of Michoacan, Jalisco and Guanajuato, accompanied by mariachis. Also on the program are "Chiapanecas" and "Jarabe Tapatio," the so-called Mexican hat dance, which is Mexico's national dance.

Miss Tapia, noted as a choreographer and director, was chosen by the Mexican government to portray the culture of her native Mexico in music, dances and songs. She is the star soloist.

The costumes were hand-made in the towns of the regions and states represented in the dances. For "Chiapanecas," hand-embroidered dresses shown in the Spanish influence are featured. For numbers from the State of Veracruz, the women wear white-lace dresses while the men are outfitted in all - white linen or "quayaveras." For "Jarabe Tapatio" from the State of Jalisco, the women wear their "China poblana" dresses with hand-sewn sequins in distinctive Mexican design, and the men are dressed in Charro outfits with the classic wide-brimmed, decorated sombreros.

MINING GOLD — Rod Stewart, right, and guitarist Ronnie Wood party it up in New York hotel suite after Stewart received a gold record for his solo album, "Atlantic Crossing." Stewart strongly implied that the current world tour of his group, "The Faces," is the final time the musicians will appear together.

Is Faces' tour the swan song?

By STEPHEN FORD

NEW YORK (NEA) — Well, nothing lasts forever . . . and that includes The Faces. Rod Stewart, bouncing all over New York City last week to promote his Warner Bros. debut "Atlantic Crossing," strongly implied that The Faces' current world tour is probably their last.

Garbed in a fitted white sailor suit with Britt Eklund on his elbow and a splash of mascara about the eyes, Stewart lamented the future of The Faces in view of Ronnie Wood's overwhelming desire to be a Rolling Stone. Adding to Stewart's woe is the imminent release of drummer Kenny Jones' solo LP, aided by Paul and Linda McCartney. Furthermore, "Atlantic Crossing" was recorded without any of Stewart's fellow Faces.

Toujours amour, Faces. Rock 'n roll won't be the same without you.

Violinist to play at UCLA

Violinist Yehudi Menuhin and his Festival Chamber Orchestra will present the West Coast premiere of the late Frank Martin's "Polyptyque for Solo Violin and Two Small String Orchestras" in UCLA's Royce Hall Nov. 7.

Pianist Hephzibah Menuhin will make her only California appearance at the same concert.

The Polyptyque was the Swiss-born Martin's last composition. It was inspired by a polyptych seen by Martin in Siena depicting in a series of minatures the various episodes of the Passion of Jesus Christ: Palm Sunday, The Last Supper, Judas, Gethsemane, Judgment and Glorification.

Martin dealt with this subject matter in much the same manner that he treated religious themes in his three previous works of this nature.

Orchestra calls auditions

The Frances and J. E. Libaw Orchestra of Webb School will hold auditions for student musicians in the auditorium from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday and from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

Candidates must play scales and a selection of their own choice. Rehearsals will start at 7:15 p.m. Sept. 17. Further information can be obtained at 626-3587.

The Webb auditorium is at 1175 W. Base Line Road, Claremont.

No. 1 ranking no cinch

NEW YORK (AP) — Most coaches claim there's nothing really new in college football and it certainly seems that way when the time comes to ferret out the annual contenders for the national championship.

Any talk about No. 1 must start with defending champion Oklahoma, but the Sooners are by no means a cinch to win another Big Eight crown, much less national honors.

"We should have a good football team, but we won't be as good as we were last season," says Coach Barry Switzer, who has an incredible 21-0-1 mark in two years at the helm of the Sooner Schooner. "Our offense ought to be good, but we won't be as good on defense as we were. A couple of key injuries here and there would make us very ordinary all of a sudden.

"Every team on our schedule scares me. We had to come from behind to beat Texas, Nebraska and Oklahoma State last year and we had some close games with other folks. For a team to go undefeated like we did in '74, you have to get a lot of breaks—no injuries, etc.—and you have to be just plain lucky once in a while."

The folks Switzer hopes stay healthy include running back Joe Washington, quarterback Steve Davis, wide receiver Tinker Owens, guard Terry Webb and defensive linemen Leroy and Dewey Selmon and Jimbo Elrod.

Oklahoma will get a severe challenge from Nebraska in the powerful Big Eight and Colorado, Oklahoma State and Missouri might make things sticky, too.

Elsewhere, the candidates for The Associated Press Top Ten include most of the old familiar faces—Notre Dame and Penn State among the independents, Southern California and UCLA in the Pacific-8, Alabama and Auburn in the Southeastern Conference, Ohio State and Michigan in the Big Ten. Texas A&M is favored over perennial champ Texas and Cinderella Baylor in the Southwest. North Carolina State should challenge Maryland in the Atlantic Coast Conference and many Western Athletic Conference observers pick Arizona to beat out Arizona State, Brigham Young and Colorado State.

By the way, Oklahoma is off probation and can go to a bowl game and the Big Eight starts a four-year pact with the Orange Bowl this season.

In other conference races, San Diego State is an odds-on favorite in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association; Miami of Ohio and Kent State should fight it out in the increasingly tough Mid-American Conference; the wild, mild Ivy League envisions a six-team scramble among Brown, Dartmouth, Harvard, Penn, Princeton, Yale, and VMI, Appalachian State and The Citadel could be the best in the Southern Conference.

Nebraska hopes either Terry Luck or Vince Ferragamo can replace record-breaking passer Dave Humm. The Huskers have runners coming out of their ears, led by fullback Tony Davis. All-American center Rik Bonness

Rams better with experience

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — In the first two exhibition games of the 1975 season, the Los Angeles Rams allowed 13 points.

The first team defense allowed none.

That defense, the second best in the National Football Conference last year, may be the key as the Rams struggle for a Super Bowl triumph this year.

Twice in two years the Rams have won the Western Division title; twice they have fallen in the playoffs. The Rams, a proven good team, hope to prove they are a great one this season.

"We had one of the league's youngest defenses last year," says Coach Chuck Knox, the third-year head man who has led Los Angeles to a 22-6 record in two years of league play.

"Except for Merlin Olsen, who is 34, and Charlie Stukes, who is 32, we were not an old defensive squad. So we should be better with more experience. We also have more competition for first team jobs, which means more depth.

The line of Jack Youngblood, Olsen, Larry Brooks and Fred Dryer anchored that defense. It led the NFC with 44 sacks as the Ram defenders surrendered 181 points, fewest in the league.

This year the defense has played well in victories of 35-7 over Dallas, which scored on a pass interception, and 10-6 over San Francisco.

The Rams are not without offensive weapons, either. Quarterback James Harris was the NFC's No. 2 passer in 1975 when he completed 106 of 198 passes for 1544 yards and 11 touchdowns.

Running back Lawrence McCutcheon slashed his way to more than 1,000 yards each of the last two seasons. His running sidekick is versatile Jim Bertelsen.

Bullet-fast wide receiver Harold Jackson has caught 70 passes for 18 touchdowns the past two years. To help him the Rams have signed Ron Jessie, who caught 54 passes last year while playing out the option year of his contract with Detroit. Standouts Lance Rentzel and Jack Snow battle Willie McGee for the remaining two wide receiver jobs spots.

The veteran offensive line has performed well in the past. Left tackle Charlie Cowan and guard Joe Scibelli are 15-year veterans, guard Tom Mack is a 10-year man and tackle John Williams is an eight-year vet.

Back on defense, the Rams' linebackers Ken Geddes, Jack Reynolds and Isiah Robertson are considered solid, but some have said the defensive secondary is suspect.

"I don't think it's suspect," Knox said of the unit of cornermen Stukes and Al Clark and safeties Dave Elmendorf and Bill Simpson.

"This secondary has helped us win 22 and lose only six over the last two years. Defense is a team game and the whole unit is responsible if a pass is completed."

SAL race wide open

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

After last year's wild and wooly title race, the San Antonio League will be hard pressed to provide its fans with a more competitive and more exciting time of it this season.

However, from the pre-season indications 1975 will once again feature a battle royal for the SAL crown.

In fact, if anything most of the eight SAL entries look stronger than they did last fall. None of the eight can be ruled out of the pennant picture at this point, which means that it's conceivable that five or six schools will have a shot at the SAL title going into late season action, as happened last year.

Two-time defending champion Pomona High will once again be under the guidance of head coach Mike Clifton. Clifton, in his sixth year at PHS, has traditionally turned out a competitive football squad and this year's edition of the Red Devils won't be an exception.

Pomona, coming off a 5-5-1 season, has lost star halfback Raymond Butler to graduation, but Clifton still rates his running game as the squad's strong point.

And no wonder. Returning to the Devil fold for their senior seasons are fullback Hank Zibell and halfback Charles Cole. Zibell is mighty tough to stop inside and Cole has real speed outside. Containing the Devil duo is going to be a rugged chore for Pomona opponents.

Middleton, who will co-captain the Devils along with Zibell, was a second-team all-CIF pick as a junior.

Damien, the team which posted the best overall mark in the SAL last year (6-3), will have a new coach and a new look for 1975.

Dick Larson is the new Spartan mentor, and feels he has the talent to challenge for the SAL top spot.

The Spartans return quarterback Joe Carroll and a good corps of receivers in what should be one of the top passing attacks in the league. Also back is fleet tailback Ruben Lopez, Damien's leading scorer in 1974.

Defense is the big question-mark for Larson, although the Spartans do have the services of all-valley linebacker Greg Elias again this fall, as well as returning defensive starters Mike Fraschetti, Mike O'Neil and Terry Allen.

Veteran coach Garry Norvell will be entering his eighth year as mentor of Ganesha High, and the Giants are gunning to improve on 1974's 4-4-1 mark.

The Giants will be just that on the offensive and defensive lines, with personnel like Mike Johnson (6-2, 231 pounds), Curtiss Allen (6-2, 218 pounds), Ed Lundstrom (6-1, 212 pounds) and Keith Lovett (6-0, 210 pounds).

Norvell feels he has two outstanding runners in fullback Ron Rentz and tailback Darryl Gardner, but the quarterback slot which plagued the Giants last year is still a question-mark.

Garey High also feels it has one of its best football teams ever, and Viking coach Lawson Bush is flatly predicting a SAL title for his squad.

The Vikings just missed that title last year and should improve on their 3-4-2 1974 record. Bush rates his squad's quickness and desire to win as the Garey strong points. It will be a young Viking team, however, and inexperience may hamper its bid for the first SAL grid title in the school's history.

Leading the offense for the Vikes is all-league running back Stanley Webster. Rounding out the Garey offensive backfield will be quarterback Milt Banks and tailback Ron Gibson.

On defense tackles Ned Young and Richard Saville and linebacker Larry Jones should be standouts.

Biggest problem Holycross has to solve for his team to

H.L. plays tough defense

PB Correspondent

Defense figures to be the byword this year in the Hacienda League as it has in recent seasons. Three of the league's entrants made the 1974 list of the valley's 10 stingiest teams, and it looks as if some of those defensive units may be even tougher this time around.

Bonita, last year's H.L. champion and tops in the valley in points-against average (5.6), made it to the quarterfinals in 1974 before being eliminated by Neff, 22-6. Pete Lopez' Bearcats were 6-1 in league play and 10-2 overall.

The 'Cats placed four starters on last year's All-Hacienda League first team, and two of them — Phil Mertz and Steve Hines — will be back to lead the two units which Lopez considers his strongest.

Mertz, a 6-2, 205-pound tackle, will head up an offensive line which includes Mark Malone, 6-1, 200, a returning guard who will play center this year, and David Ramirez, 6-0, 200, a returning tackle.

Hines will operate in the defensive secondary along with David Drury, but Larry Franco, a starting cornerback last year, moved to another district during the offseason.

The departure of Franco, also last year's starting tailback, along with the graduation of quarterback Harold Drake and fullback Brad Frick — both all-leaguers in 1974 — left Lopez with an all new offensive backfield. Scott Johnson, an end last year, is set at tailback and Sanford Coggins will likely start at quarterback. Hines and Drury will be the prime passing targets.

"We'll be very young this year, and we'll probably make a lot of mistakes at first," said Lopez.

The Bearcats made few errors last year, losing just one league contest — 12-0 to San Dimas, the valley's No. 2 defensive team. After dropping their first three games in 1974, the Saints finished strong for a final 4-4-1 mark and a CIF playoff berth. They were crushed, 41-6, by powerful El Dorado in the first round.

San Dimas allowed only five points per league contest last year, and head coach Bob Baiz' defensive squad should be even better this season. Nine of last year's starters will be back including Sonny LaFargue, a second team all-league selection as a sophomore in 1974.

Other returning starters are middleguard Don Edwards, linebackers Doug Gates and Dennis Moore, ends Don Millet and Doug Spahr, halfbacks D. D. Hollingquest and Andy Hegel and roverback Rosey Johnson.

With the defense largely set and quite experienced, the performance of the offensive squad will likely be critical to the Saints' title hopes. Starting at quarterback will be Steve Loumagne, last year's backup signalcaller. He will be joined by halfback Fred Carter and fullback Bob Pleasant.

"We should throw the ball better this year," said Baiz. Loumagne's main target will be slotback Jim Button. The offensive line will include returnees Edwards, Jack Clark and Doug Harbin.

"I'm looking forward to this season even more than I did the last," said Baiz, apparently pleased that his team is one of the league's favorites.

Coming off a 4-3 league season, Walnut head coach Ken Gunn said, "This could become Walnut's best defensive unit in several years." Guard Steve Chapple, linebacker Kevin Veselic, halfback Bob Walker and safety Mark Thompson were all first string defenders in 1974.

On offense, Gunn has two returning first team all-leaguers — tight end Alex Solorzano (the only sophomore named to last year's all-H.L. squad) and running back Keith McDermott. Both were given honorable mention on the 1974 All-Pomona Valley team.

The Mustangs will be inexperienced on the offensive line, where guard Dan Reed is the lone returning starter, and at quarterback. Three young players are battling for the starting quarterback slot — junior Kevin Loggins and sophomores Pat Flaherty and Steve Green. "One of them must develop rapidly if the offense is going to move," said Gunn.

Coach Tom Cook's Alta Loma squad will count chiefly on the size and experience of its linemen to improve last year's 2-5 league record. Offensive guard Cliff Houtz, 6-0, 190, a second team all-H L. pick last year who also plays linebacker, and tackle Mike Thacker, 5-9, 220, lead a corps of eight linemen with varsity experience who average over 190 pounds.

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Put together an experienced defensive unit with a green offensive group and you have Cal Poly's football team in a nutshell.

While Poly has six returning starters on defense, it has only two linemen back on the offensive unit.

"We can go 9-2 this year or 2-9," Vinci says. "I just don't know. Our offense is definitely an unknown factor and it's frustrating just waiting around for the first game. The way I see it our defense is our strength and it must carry us."

Poly enjoyed its finest season in a decade last year with a 5-3-2 mark but Vinci is eager to improve on it.

The top goal is a California Collegiate Athletic Association championship, something which was missed last year by five points.

Poly will be tackling an 11-game schedule including five contests at expanded Kellogg Field, which will have a capacity of 6,000 fans. A highlight of the season will be a Nov. 8 date with North Texas State in Denton, Tex.

All of last year's big offensive names are gone but Vinci feels more depth and a much bigger line will compensate for the losses.

Because of the new personnel, Poly will be using more of a power offense geared to a running game

Senior Curtis Frick runs for La Verne College.

Leos, Stags eye SCIAC crown

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Based on the number of prospective returnees, La Verne and Claremont-Mudd should field very interesting football teams.

Whether or not they can challenge perennial powers Whittier and Redlands remains to be seen. But both the Leos and Stags figure to be very competitive.

Graduation hit the Leopards' defense the hardest. On the other hand, almost all of the Stags' defense is returning.

At La Verne, coach Roland Ortmayer will be depending on 245-pound Chris Willits to replace star middle guard Jeff Button. Willits has a lot more size than the 195-pound Button. But Button had great mobility and was a ferocious tackler.

Defensive end Chris Hawks also graduated. Ortmayer will start a pair of sophomores at the ends this year. Ron Kimball, a 6-2, 210-pound Hawaiian and Scott Bowser, at 6-1, 205 pounds from Fresno shape up as formidable defenders.

Ortmayer also will have to find a replacement for kicker John Karns.

On offense, Ort can start an entire backfield of returnees.

As of now, he has penciled in Ben Morrow at fullback. The 220-pound Morrow started last season as a fullback and wound up playing a lot in the line.

If Morrow is the fullback, that means Curtis Frick, a three-time all-conference fullback will be at left half. That experiment was tried last year and proved unsuccessful.

The 195-pound Frick is a devastating blocker as well as a powerful runner. It was largely Frick's blocks that sprung Roy VanderKallen many times last year.

VanderKallen returns this year and should be one of the most exciting runners in the SCIAC. Last year he had far more dif-

Building year for JCs

By MIKE RAWLINSON
PB Staff Writer

What Mt. San Antonio College lacks in experience this season it may more than make up for in size and what the coaches feel is a good crop of talented youngsters.

Head Coach Mal Eaton begins his fifth campaign at the valley's largest junior college with perhaps his most muscular team. The Mounties will average better than 220 pounds per man across the offensive and defensive lines when it opens the season Saturday in the annual cross-valley tussle with Citrus College at Citrus Stadium in Azusa.

While size is encouraging, Eaton worries that his troops may be a bit too green.

"I have absolutely no idea what these guys are going to do," he said. "I expect us to improve with every game. We're going to be better this year, but every team we play is a contender for its conference title."

Eaton greeted only 16 returnees from 1974's 2-6-2 team when practice began late in August. One of the 16 would bring a smile to any coach's face.

Robert "Binky" Benton, (5-7, 175), the South Coast Conference's leading ground gainer with more than 1,000 yards rushing in '74, is back in the fold. Benton earned the conference's most valuable offensive player award as a freshman and he is expected to defend that honor and then some this season.

The Mounties have an abundance of Bentons. Binky's older brother Rick, 22, 5-11, 205, is a likely starter in the defensive line and younger brother Steve, 17, 6-1, 170, may work into the starting lineup as a wide receiver. All three played on CIF champion teams at Los Altos High.

Eaton has four quarterbacks to choose from this year, including 1974 starter Kurt Porter. The others are former Pomona High star Steve Taylor, Rowland's Flavio Garcia and West Covina's Greg Gano.

Taylor, who sat out last season with a shoulder injury, is pressing Porter for the starting job in early season drills. In a weekend scrimmage with El Camino, Taylor completed 3 of 4 pass attempts for 31 yards. Porter was 4 of 8 for 68 yards.

Traditionally a slow starter, Citrus College will get a break this season by playing one more non-conference game than it has in other years because of a realignment of junior college conferences.

Coach John Strycula's Owls, coming off an 8-1-1 championship year in 1974, will play three games before it opens the eight-team Mission Conference campaign.

The Mission was a nine-team alignment last year but Grossmont, a perrennial powerhouse was releagued into the South Coast Conference, boosting the SCC to seven teams.

"We've always been in favor of an eight-team conference," said Strycula who is the most successful football coach in Citrus history. "We've always been a slow starter and the new set-up gives us that much more time to get organized."

Strycula has coached five championship teams in the past eight seasons but he may be pressed to make it six in the nine.

While Strycula and his staff rebuilds the defense they have most of the offense intact, including 1,100 yard rusher Roy Prather and his backup Herbie Holmes, who gained almost 600 yards in only eight games last year.

"Offensively we're about the same as we were at this time last year," says Strycula. Defensively, we're behind."

A Pomona High product, linebacker Coolidge Goodall, and two other lettermen are all that is left of 1974's defensive unit. Strycula will have to fill eight holes.

Another slot to fill will be quarterback, where Strycula's son Bill performed last season. Herb Daniels, second string last season, is the likely starter.

While the season opens Saturday for MSAC and Citrus,

Poly has new look

behind the larger offensive line.

"Thanks to our offensive line, we can run the dive and there is no tougher formation for the defense," Vinci said. "We have different people this year so you must change the offense to fit them."

Leo Costa, a transfer from the College of Sequoias in Visalia, will be the starting quarterback as he tries to fill the shoes of Jim Zorn, who graduated with most of the school's offensive records.

The rest of the starting backfield will be equally as new.

Aundre Holmes, a transfer from Drake, will open at what Poly calls the diveback. Brent Partridge of Golden West is the fullback while freshman Fred Sanders from Muir High in Pasadena looks like the tailback.

Two lettermen, Anthony Loville and Teddy Myles, will be the top receivers while Jay Johnson from San Diego Mesa will handle the tight end duties.

Three-year letterman Steve Weiss (6-3, 255) will be back at center. The rest of the offensive line includes tackles Bobby Costeldia (6-6, 285), a product of Garey High and Mt. San Antonio College, and Dan Mitchell (6-7, 290) plus guards Doug Fowler (6-6, 290) and Randy Taylor (6-2, 240).

It's a different story on defense.

Two returning All-CCAA players, linebacker Jim Castanon and safety Scott Sanders, anchor the defenders. Other returning starters are safety Ron Stewart, end Richard Gomez, linemen John Mealin and Leon Hooker and linebacker Terry Young.

The top newcomer figures to be nose guard Matthew Taylor, a transfer from USC.

Vinci feels the chief asset of the defensive unit besides the experience is their ability to move.

Jim Castanon (66), Richard Kluck (67) and Terry Young back up the line for Poly.

Leos, Stags may challenge for crown

The key is at quarterback, the trouble position last year. Unless Ortmayer gives Dave Maloof or some other prospect a chance to stake out a claim on the job, the Leos chances on improving their 5-5 mark of last year are debatable.

Randy Brown and Rick Teford divided most of the playing time last year. Neither appeared to be much of a passer and Brown is frustratingly slow.

At Claremont-Mudd, coach John Zinda will field a hard-hitting defensive unit headed by linebackers Eric "Hotdog" Haley and Mike Robles. Only drawback is the size of the Stag defenders. Robles weighs only 180 and Haley 185. are in big trouble.

Steve Schaumleffel, the 5-9, 150 pound quarterback is ranked first at that position with Larry Satterfield number two. Billy Nash, the halfback with the blazing speed, has graduated. But Nash was hampered by injuries his last two years and didn't play that great a role in Stag fortunes.

The Stags again will play only eight games this year. Zinda has three nonconference games in which to hone his squad and then a bye which will allow some time for minor injuries to heal.

Claremont-Mudd posted a 2-6 mark last year overall and finished in a three way tie for fourth place with 1-4 mark in the SCIAC. Pomona-Pitzer and Occidental were the only noncontenders.

Gone is quarterback Zinda has doubts about both his defensive and offensive lines and if they prove correct, the Stags Larry Cenotto, the all-time career passing leader. Gone also are his targets, tight end Biff Sherman and wide receiver Joe Budenholzer.

Lansdell had better be very quick, too. Sagehen signal callers usually have to start running for their lives once the ball is snapped.

Troy dominates West

UCLA and Stanford may alter the script in '75

By Associated Press Writer

Except for two years when Stanford ruined the script, Southern California has dominated the Pacific-8 football race and despite his youngest team in 13 years, John McKay's Trojans are the team to beat.

This year, though, the Trojans, coming off a 10-1-1 season, will have a pack of hounds at their heels, headed by UCLA, Stanford, California and Oregon State. UCLA's Bruins appear big, fast, strong and have perhaps the most explosive quarterback in the nation, John Sciarra.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, San Diego State rates the favorite on the basis of its fine defense. Fresno State is the PCAA team with the passing offense.

USC is the Pac-8 favorite, and McKay's Baby Brigade lineup includes one of the fastest fullbacks in the conference, junior Ricky Bell. He heads the Trojan backfield which also features senior Dave Farmer and quarterback Vince Evans. McKay admits he can't replace such 1974 stars as running back Anthony Davis, quarterback Pat Haden, flanker John McKay and linebacker Richard Wood.

USC's offense will operate behind a strong offensive line of 268-pound tackle Marvin Powell, guard Joe Davis, 244, center Jeff Flood, 240, and six others weighing 250-270.

"We may be young on defense, too," McKay said, "But we also have the fastest defense we've ever had."

UCLA, 6-3-2 last season, may challenge in 1975 because of what Coach Dick Vermeil feels is an unstoppable offense keyed by Sciarra.

As a junior last year, Sciarra opened the season with 390 yards in total offense against Tennessee and appeared headed for stardom until he broke an ankle in the seventh game. Still, he directed the Vermeil Veer offense for 1,235 yards and is fully recovered.

Wendell Tyler heads the Bruin halfbacks. The 5-foot-10, 185-pounder has great speed and averaged 5.7 yards per carry last year until an elbow injury in the ninth game of the season. Wide receiver Norm Anderson, all-Pacific-8 last year, is also back, and the offensive line averages 255 pounds.

Stanford lost only one of its last seven games in 1974 and the Cardinals, after opening games with Penn State and Michigan, could become Pac-8 factors.

Mike Cordova probably will wind up at quarterback. Behind him will be junior running back Ron Inge. Cordova started nine games last year, and his passing ranged from spectacular to horrid.

On defense, Stanford Coach Jack Christiansen calls on two of the coast's best linebackers, Geb Church and Rich Merlo, and defensive end Duncan McColl.

Cal won't replace All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski but the running back and pass catching positions appear in good hands. The Bears have Chuck Muncie to carry the ball, and he's one of the best in the conference. Steve Rivera was seventh in the nation in pass receptions last year with 56 catches.

Oregon State is expected to run more in 1975 and has the horses in fullbacks Charlie Smith and Dick Maurer, plus a host of halfbacks.

OSU also has veterans at the guard and tackle positions with Mike Kobielsky being touted as a likely pro prospect. Dave Brown starts at tight end, and he was all-Pacific-8 last year and the OSU's leading receiver.

On defense, Coach Dee Andros has nearly all of his linemen back, including tackles Dennis Boyd and Fred Anderson and end Tom Chamberlain.

Oregon will go with one of three quarterbacks who have never played a down of college football. Sophomore redshirt Jerry Jurich has the inside track. Two-year letterman Gene Brown and letterman George Bennett are the junior running backs but Coach Don Read's Veer offense will need some shuffling before he finds the right combination.

The Duck defense appears more solid with three linebackers and a five-man rotation on the line all coming back. The most experienced is Don Johnson, the defensive end.

Washington's new coach, Don James, suffered a major loss in the spring when quarterback Chris Rowland was injured and lost for the season. Cliff McBride, at 6-3, starts at the signal calling position.

There are 33 returning lettermen in the Husky camp, and the best of them is Robin Earl, a big fullback who averaged 5.6 yards per carry in 108 carries last year. But defense is perhaps James' strongest suit this year.

Two of the highly rated defenders on the squad are Dan Lloyd, a senior linebacker, and Al Burleson, a defensive back with extraordinary quickness, who was involved in 139 tackles last year.

The Washington State quarterback won't have any trouble seeing his receivers this year. That's because Wally Bennett is 6-5½. WSU was only 2-9 last

Best in the Midwest?

Associated Press

At about the same time that haystacks start showing up in Midwest corn fields, football fans begin predicting national titles for the perennial contenders from the country's heartland, and this year defending champion Oklahoma figures to get the most backing.

Michigan, winners of 50 games in five years; Ohio State, with three straight Rose Bowl trips; Nebraska, the strongest threat to the Sooners' bid for a second national crown and Big Eight title, and Notre Dame, with Dan Devine taking over from Ara Parseghian, also have their bids in for 1975 honors. But the Sooners' credentials are almost impeccable.

Oklahoma figures to have its traditional battle with Nebraska for Big Eight and national honors, but the Ohio StateMichigan grip on the Big Ten could be reversed this season, and Notre Dame, twice national champions under Parseghian, will need an overhaul by Devine to get through a tougher than usual schedule.

The Sooner offense that averaged 43 points a game and smothered 11 opponents last autumn is back almost intact, including quarterback Steve Davis, who ran up more than 1,500 total yards, and the brilliant Joe Washington who ran for 1,350 yards. Another speedster, Elvis Peacock, will join the Sooner backfield, and Davis' favorite pass catcher, Tinker Owens, also is back.

The Selmon brothers, Dewey and Leroy, again spearhead the stingy Sooner defense.

Oklahoma opens Oct. 4 against an improved Colorado team eager for an upset, but chances are the Sooners should escape harm until the season finale with Nebraska.

The Cornhuskers lost David Humm to graduation but can rely on Terry Luck or Vince Ferragamo who started two seasons at California before transferring to Nebraska. The offensive and defensive lines again will be strong with center Rik Bonness leading the offensive charge and seven regulars returning on defense.

Michigan's Bo Schembechler says his team will be "the youngest we've had in my seven years at Michigan, but our defense will be good again." That means the Wolves who, despite a 30-2-1 mark in the last three years, haven't been able to get to the Rose Bowl, have a chance to dislodge rival Ohio State from the New Year's Day trip.

Although Dennis Franklin, who guided Michigan's offense for the past three seasons is gone, Schembechler promises that Gordon Bell "is the most exciting runner" he's ever coached, and Mark Elzinga, who spelled Franklin last year, is ready for first string.

At Ohio State, Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin is back along with the dangerous Cornelius Greene at quarterback, but Woody Hayes has to find among his ample supply of talent, some trenchmen to fill holes in both the offensive and defensive lines.

Also missing from a weakened secondary is All American Neal Colzie, and the Buckeyes have a tough early schedule, including the season opener Sept. 13 with Michigan State, followed by Penn State.

Michigan State returns 33 players from last year's squad, including Charley Baggett leading an offense which includes game-buster Levi Jackson at fullback. The Spartan defense, traditionally tough, is a veteran unit. Coach Denny Stoltz says, "For the first time in a long time, we probably have as much good players as anybody else."

Notre Dame, No. 6 a year ago, is the top Midwest independent, but the Irish will be pressed to match last year's record which included an Orange Bowl victory over Alabama. Notre Dame opens against Boston College on Sept. 8 and by then Devine, who returned to college coaching after a fling at Green Bay in the National Football League, will have to find a quarterback, some runners and a host of blockers.

On defense, the return of end Ross Browner and Luther

Aggies tops in S'west

DALLAS (AP)—Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard was asked recently if he was concerned about all the preseason forecasters handing the Southwest Conference football title to his muscular and experienced Aggies.

Taking a puff from his ever-present pipe, Bellard smiled and said, "No, we don't mind. It's nice to be in a position to be noticed."

All-American linebacker Ed Simonini backed up the confidence of his coach by saying, "We're really looking forward to this season. We know what it's like now to work hard all year then see everying go down the drain at the end of the season. That's not going to happen again."

The Aggies blew a chance to win the SWC crown last year, losing to upstart Southern Methodist and then falling to Texas on the day after Thanksgiving.

Baylor charged to the championship—its first in one-half century — and Grant Teaff was named Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

The Aggies returned a mature and seasoned team from their 8-3 club in 1974. Twenty-three offensive lettermen and 17 defensive letterman suited up.

The SWC title is no certainty because the Aggies must develop a consistent quarterback—a deficiency which kept them from the throne last year. David Shipman sparkled like a silver belt buckle in the spring. Should he or David Walker jell the Aggies could be awesome.

At least the television folks think so. A&M is scheduled for dates on national television against Illinois, Texas and Arkansas.

year and coach Jim Sweeney blamed that on poor coaching.

Sweeney plans to revamp the offense into a 5-2-4 to stop the run more effectively and hopes linebackers Jerry Payne and Don Hover can help contain the pass.

The PCAA race seems to boil down to San Diego State.

The Aztecs, known in the past for their offensive punch and aerial fireworks, may win the PCAA this year on defense.

Coach Claude Gilbert has two of the coast's top defensive ends in 252-pound Mike Gilbert and 6-6, 263-pound Greg "Too Strong" Boyd, who can bench press 450 pounds. Other defenders back include backs Ed Kertel and Kevin Feeney and junior college transfer Kenny Hinton.

Two defensive linemen who started at other schools but transferred are eligible at San Diego State. They are Reggie Lewis from Oregon and John Tremblay from Colorado.

Fresno State's Bulldogs will field a big, experienced defensive team and an offense featuring the pass.

Fresno quarterback Nef Cortez threw for 1,916 yards and 15 touchdowns last year but Fresno needs running help.

Graduation hurt Long Beach State quite a bit but junior college transfer Joe Paopao appeared to take command of the quarterback spot in spring drills. He'll have a handful of top receivers including tight end Leanell Jones, a 6-3, 225-pounder who may consider a top pro prospect.

Stanford Brewer, who averaged 24.7 yards per catch last year, is the wide receiver with the most potential. And at running back Coach Wayne Howard can call on Herb Lusk, the No. 2 rushed from last year.

Guard Joe Davis of Claremont will be one of few starters back for USC.

Troy's loaded again

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John McKay's hair is already white, so there probably won't be any visible signs showing the coach's anger if his Southern California football teams misses tackles, fumbles, throws interceptions and acts like no McKay team in a dozen years.

But McKay readily admits that, "This is the youngest team we've had in many, many years... I think there's a lot of real good young talent, but as we all know, young players are prone to make more mistakes than more mature players."

Only 13 lettermen return from the team which wound up second in The AP's final postbowls poll, but McKay has nine starters in that group. And don't let the cigar-chomping McKay fool anyone: the Trojans, despite their youth, are still loaded.

All-American tailback Anthony Davis is gone from the position McKay is most concerned about. Sophomore Dwight Ford, junior college star Lynn Cain, high school all-American Paul Rice and junior Bernard Tarver appeared about equal in spring practice.

The fellow with the edge in that department, surprisingly, was an ex-fullback, junior Rickey Bell, who showed good quickness for his height—6 feet 2—and heft, 215 pounds.

McKay can afford to have Bell make the switch because he feels he's got the "best three fullbacks as a group in the nation." They are returning starter Dave Farmer, at 6-2 and 209; Bell and sophomore Mosi Tatupu, 6-0, 225 of Honolulu.

The passing combination of Pat Haden to John McKay which paced USC to a 10-1-1 record last season, including a 55-24 rout of Notre Dame, has departed for the World Football League. But the little-remembered Shelton Diggs is back.

He's the swift flanker who caught the two-point conversion from Haden in the waning moments last Jan. 1 as the Trojans stopped Ohio State 18-17. The 6-3, 195-pound Diggs has great hands, great speed and, even through he's a junior, experience.

Perhaps the strongest asset to a good running attack is the offensive line and returning for McKay to drool about are Marvin Powell and Joe Davis.

Powell is a 6-5, 270-pounder with good quickness who anchored the strong side of the line last year. Davis is 6-3, 245 and the senior plays the weak side.

"I'm worried about split end and tight end," said McKay, who once coached Bob Klein, now of the Los Angeles Rams, who is considered the best blocking tight end in the National Football League. "Both jobs are up in the air. No one at those positions has ever played longer than a few minutes."

Richard Wood, a linebacker who is USC's only three-time All-American, has departed, but four starters are back including budding star Gary Jeter at tackle and inside linebacker Kevin Bruce, who led everyone—including Wood—in tackles last year.

Lacking experience, McKay has elected to switch to a track team on defense this year. Ten of the 11 who'll probably start run the 40-yard-dash in 499 seconds or better.

"Greatness depends on how fast your material develops," said McKay philosophically. "And a bit of luck," he quickly added.

"But I also think the harder you work, the luckier you get. This team worked awfully hard this spring, and if they come back this fall in great shape and work that hard again, we could have a heck of a team.

"But there's no doubt our young players must come through fast."

McKay admitted, however, that "there are less pro prospects among the seniors than in any year since 1962. It'll be a very large, very fast team and so I would say we'll be pretty good early in the year—and by the end of the year we should be excellent.

"Truthfully, though, we're a year away from greatness. USC has a chance to be a great team in 1976."

Of course, McKay hopes the day is Jan. 1, 1976.

UCLA coach rates Sciarra

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA Coach Dick Vermeil will use his veer offense again in 1975 but he said there will be much more dropback passing "because we've got the best college football player in America right behind the center."

Vermeil, speaking to the Pacific-8 Skywriters, said his veer would be better because "the coaches are better as describing it and we'll throw a little bit more, to open up the offense.

"We're a running team; we know that, but we think we can pass a lot better this year than we did last. And John Sciarra is the man who'll do it. He's got a great arm, an NFL arm, and we know we'll face a lot of third-and-long situations.

"I'm running the veer because I want to make sure I give the guy who can do it all the opportunity to do it. I don't believe in fooling around with the quarterback spot. That's why I told Jeff Dankworth that John would be the quarterback—there wasn't really any competition for the job."

The coach said Sciarra, at 5 feet 10 and 178 pounds, would be No. 1 unless he proved ineffective—which Vermeil doubts—or if he gets injured, such as happened last year in the Bruins' seventh game. Sciarra broke an ankle and was out for the rest of the season.

Vermeil said the veer produced good yardage in 1974 "but we were sloppy and sometimes disorganized. This year we're preparing differently. And the players are more familiar with the offense."

Vermeil termed his players more organized and a lot happier this year and showed more character. One of the writers who has traveled down the coast seeing the Pacific-8 teams said every coach on the tour has talked about character. The writer asked Vermeil if character was just a catchword, something to say.

"No, it's something very real. If talent and character are close to equal, I'd rather have character. I've seen a lot of talented people who haven't done it on game day."

He declined to predict a title year: "I'm as optimistic as any of them but I'm trying to be realistic. I'd like to say we're going to the Rose Bowl but right now the Rose Bowl is not very important. UCLA has only one bowl game right now and that's Sept. 13 against Iowa State."

He continued, however, to say that Sciarra was the key to his club.

"The nice thing about John is that he's gonna be 25 per cent better on game day than he is on the practice field, and he's a fine player on the practice field."

Vermeil added, "I don't know how many teams can beat us, but the team that does better strap it on. They're gonna need it."

Vermeil praised a number of his huge offensive linemen for their development this year— guards Phil McKinnely and Randy Cross, tackles Jack DeMartinis and Bob

Plunkett injured

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Ever since quarterback Jim Plunkett joined the New England Patriots in 1971, the National Football League club has done a pretty good job of keeping the former Stanford All-American and Heisman trophy winner patched together.

Plunkett has survived knee, rib and various other injuries while managing to play in 84 games, missing just two because of the players' strike last year.

However luck ran out on the durable signal-caller Sunday night in an exhibition game with the San Diego Chargers. The Patriots' 31-24 victory was meaningless.

Auburn challenges 'Bama's bid in SEC

ATLANTA (AP) — College football in the South remains in a familiar rut this year. Bear Bryant still has his houndstooth hat and the area's most powerful team—Alabama.

"Our players feel like we should have won at least one national championship the last couple of years, but didn't," says Bryant. "I hope that's foremost in their minds."

Alabama, which has won 43 of its last 44 regular season games but failed miserably in bowl competition, is heavily favored to capture its fifth straight Southeastern Conference crown this fall.

The Crimson Tide's major stumbling block should be archrival Auburn, where Shug Jordan, one of the nation's most successful coaches, is retiring at the end of the season.

Meanwhile, tight races are anticipated in the area's other two major conferences—the Atlantic Coast Conference where North Carolina State and Clemson are favored and the Southern Conference, which really has no clear cut favorite.

Georgia Tech, hoping to return to the glory days of the Bobby Dodd era, appears unchallenged as the South's top independent, reboudning under the guidance of flamboyant Pepper Rodgers.

More than a half dozen teams appear to be strong in college division competition—Elon, Alcorn, Grambling, Eastern Kentucky, Jacksonville, Ala., State, Delta State and Western Carolina.

"Our goal, of course, is always to win the national championship," says Bryant. "You have to set your goals high to motivate your players thinking along those lines."

If any team in the South has the potential to challenge such national powers as Oklahoma, Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame and Southern California, it is Alabama.

The Tide, operating from the wishbone, again has a stable of outstading running backs headed by fleet Willie Shelby and Calvin Culliver, with experience at quarterback in Richard Todd.

Graduation depleted the defensive secondary, but Alabama still has talent on that unit, most notably All-American end Leroy Cook and all - conference linebacker Woodrow Lowe.

Auburn presents a different picture this fall Normally potent on defense, this year the offense is expected to shoulder the burden until the defense gains experience.

Darkhorse contenders in the SEC are Tennessee, which faces a vicious schedule early, and Florida, which doesn't have to play Alabama.

Tight races predicted in the South

If Tennessee survives its first five games, the Vols should coast to another fine season. They open with Maryland, followed by UCLA, Auburn, Louisiana State and Alabama.

Tennessee has one of the SEC's most versatile athletes in Stan Morgan, an outstanding runner and pass receiver who also returns punts and kickoffs.

The remainder of the SEC presents question marks. Georgia will be explosive on offense, where All-SEC running back Glenn Harrison, 959 yards, returns, but may give up more points than it scores.

LSU has the opposite problem. The Bengals have problems on offense, but should rank among the league's better defensive units because of two outstanding tackles, Steve Cassidy and A.J. Duhe.

Kentucky returns two all-conference stars—running back Sonny Collins and offensive tackle Warren Bryant. An injury prevented Collins from cracking the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the second straight year.

Mississippi State, winner of the Sun Bowl last season, lost quarterback Rockey Felker and defensive tackle Jimmy Webb to graduation, but should be tough again. The Bulldog ace should be Walter Packer, an All-SEC running back after gaining 994 vards last season.

Vanderbilt has the only new coach in the conference—Fred Pancoast, who moved over from Memphis State to replace Steve Sloan, who went to Texas Tech. Vandy also has two All-SEC performers back, tight end Barry Burton and safety Jay Chesley.

Mississippi is still rebuilding under Ken Cooper, but the Rebels offer an outstanding defensive tackle, Ben Williams.

Lou Holtz has 38 letter winners back at North Carolina State, hoping to replace Maryland in the ACC throneroom. The top star is quarterback Dave Buckey, who had more than 1,600 yards total offense last year.

All-American tight end Bennie Cunningham heads a group of 48 lettermen returning to Clemson, which could capture the title in the ACC.

Maryland was stung by graduation, but the Terps' program has reached a stage where it can overcome some of those losses. Jim Brechbiel, a defensive back, is highly regarded.

North Carolina set an NCAA record last fall with two tailbacks surpassing the 1,000-yard mark in the same season—and both return. All-SEC James Betterson, the starter had 1,082 yards last year and his substitute, Mike Voight, contributed 1,0..

Virginia has two of the ACC's top performers. Quarterback Scott Gardner was the nation's offensive leader until shelved by an injury after seven games. He passed for 1,344 yards, ran for 2 and threw for 4 touchdowns in those seven games. The other ace is offensive guard Tom Glassic, a 250-pounder.

The wide open Southern Conference race has VMI seeking a second straight crown, but facing strong opposition from East Carolina and possibly Appalachian.

Georgia Tech returns eight defensive starters, including stellar linebacker Lucius Sanford, and two veteran backs with a year's experience in the wishbone, running back David Sims (881 yards) and quarterback Danny Myers.

Reyes. McKinnely weighs in at 260 pounds, Cross at 246, DeMartinis at 273 and Reyes at 252.

The coach noted that his offensive and defensive lines were "big and much quicker off the line" than last year because of a special conditioning program that has made them faster.

"Bruce Davis, for example, is only a freshman. Now, he's 6 feet 6½ and he weighs 275 and he'll probably play in our opener."

Vermeil installed the veer last year and it produced a 6-3-2 record. The coach wasn't at all pleased with the mark, perhaps because rival Southern California was 10-1-1, including an 18-17 Rose Bowl triumph over Ohio State.

But Vermeil likes the veer and most of his conversation Wednesday concerned the offense.

"The veer is a running offense and that's what we hope we'll do best," he said. He added that last year's starting left halfback, Wendell Tyler, was now only second string because he still hadn't fully recovered from a left elbow injury last year.

He said 5-9, 192-pound Carl Zaby and 5-10, 185-pound Eddie Ayers were among the top candidates for halfback. "Wendell knows he'll have to beat out someone, but Zaby will be so hard to outwork. He's a tremendous worker. And pound for pound Ayers is the best blocker I've ever seen."

The top two wide receivers are Wally Henry and Norm Anderson. Henry, at 5-8 and 167, "has been much better catching the ball and he can run like mad." Anderson, at 6-2 and 167, suffered a compound thumb dislocation a week ago and had the stitches removed Wednesday. He caught 27 passes for 480 yards last year and scored six times.

At tight end is "the finest athlete on the whole team, maybe in the state," the coach praised. "Jerry Robinson of Santa Clara can do anything. I don't think there's a position, with the exception of the center of the line, that he can't play."

Robinson, at 6-3 and 218 pounds "was a fantastic basketball player in Northern California, he runs the 100 in 9.7 and he can catch the ball and block like crazy. He'd be an incredible linebacker if we put him there."

But Vermeil, despite the effusive praise, recalled that Southern California was the Pac-8 representative to the Rose Bowl last year:

"We are a more complete football team than a year ago, but if it takes 14 NFL draft choices to go to the Rose Bowl and win it, then we're a long ways away.

"But the discipline of our program is beginning to show and we have the attitude of a squad that can win. The kids are getting to know the veer better—it isn't even close to last year—and I hope that I, as a head coach, can do a hell of a lot better job than I did last year. We have a lot of weaknesses, but we have enough good football players to be competitive with anyone on a given Saturday."

UCLA head football Coach Dick Vermeil gives quarterback John Sciarra some advice.

Irish may need lots of luck

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame football this season could be a dud—or with a little of the traditional Irish luck, pretty good.

It's been 13 years since a Notre Dame team lost more than two games in a season, and new Coach Dan Devine says although it will be challenging, he hopes to keep the string going.

"I've been coaching a long time, and I've never gone into a season saying, 'Well, we should lose this game' or 'We can lose this game,' or gone into a game thinking we're gonna lose," he said.

On offense, tackle Al Wukiak is the only returning starter. The other 10, including mainstays like Pete Demmerle and Tom Clements, are gone.

Replacing Clements at quarterback is Devine's big task.

The leading candidate is senior Rick Slager, with another senior, Frank Allocco, also challenging.

But Devine seems to be leaning toward building a strong young team, so he's not necessarily committed to experience over youth.

"We're going to be a very young ball club, and inexperienced," he said. "But we'll get it together."

Michigan eyes roses

Pat hand or not, the Wolverines again figure to battle for the Big Ten title, and possibly the national championship, in 1975.

"This is the first time in seven years we've had rain at this thing," he told a recent Press Day gathering. "That means we'll have good luck this year — which we haven't had the last three."

Michigan has been co-champion of the Big Ten the last three seasons, but each time arch-rival Ohio State has been picked for the Rose Bowl.

The Maize and Blue have been conference titlists or cochamps five of Schembechler's six seasons at Michigan. His teams have posted a 58-7-1 record.

The Wolverines were 10-1 last year, losing only to Ohio State 12-10 in the season finale at Columbus. They could go unbeaten this year, but the going should be tougher than usual.

Michigan opens the season Sept. 13 at Wisconsin, which Schembechler said "could have the best offensive team in the conference."

The three non-league foes who follow are more impressive than in recent years: Stanford, Baylor and Missouri, the last team to beat Michigan before it went on its current 35-game home winning streak.

A possible title challenger, intra-state rival Michigan State, is next at East Lansing. Even in a down year the Spartans battle Michigan in a tough, usually close, game.

Michigan faces five more Big Ten teams before closing out at home against Ohio State in the game that could again decide the title.

"This is the youngest football team since I've been here and maybe one of the most enthusiastic," Schembechler said. "But we have enough sprinkling of veterans to give us the senior leadership we need."

Sophomores, including three in the secondary, will be in a number of starting roles and up to three freshmen might crack the lineup—including left-handed quarterback Rick Leach of Flint. He is expected to challenge junior Mark Elzinga of Bay City.

Aggies best in the S'west

Texas will field a potent offensive club behind fullback Earl Campbell, but Texas Coach Darrell Royal says the team will be only average or slightly below par defensively in the early going.

Baylor will have talent galore but Teaff has the unhappy distinction of facing Auburn at home and Michigan. Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech on the road. The schedule could take some sap out of the Bears, who will field Teaff's finest defensive team.

Baylor won't be quite as explosive as it was in 1974 with quarterback Neal Jeffrey and stubby tailback Steve Beaird.

Arkansas has enough offensive talent and defensive potential to loom as a darkhorse as does he Texas Tech Red Raiders under new Coach Steve Sloan.

Tech should be deadly on offense and the switch of Ecomet Burley from tackle to noseguard could help settle a shaky defense.

Southern Methodist will boast a potent offense but Coach Dave Smith must count on freshmen to help a leaky defense. The Mustangs will have to score a lot of points in every game to win.

FIGHT ON FOR OLD S C
IN THE OLD SCHOOL COLORS

USC

Dogfight in the East

NEW YORK (AP) — Rarely has Penn State had so many challengers for Eastern college football supremacy.

Alphabetically, Boston College, Navy, Pitt, Rutgers, Temple and West Virginia all think they have a shot at dethroning the Nittany Lions and most of them will get a chance to prove whether or not they are for real before the season is many weeks old.

Boston College opens against Notre Dame, followed by Temple and West Virginia. Pitt starts with road contests against Georgia and—gulp!—Oklahoma. Temple starts with none other than Penn State itself and the Owls also show West Virginia, Boston College and Pitt among the first five foes. West Virginia meets Temple, B.C. and Penn State in the first five weeks of the campaign.

Joe Paterno refuses to call Penn State's schedule the toughest in his nine years as head coach but it is an impressive one, with Temple, Stanford and Ohio State—in Columbus— the three first opponents. Paterno has the best winning percentage (85-15-1—.847) among the nation's major college coaches so it's a good bet the Lions will win a goodly share of their games.

"This is a young squad that probably will have to struggle," Paterno says, "but it is a squad that should get to be pretty good before the season is over."

The interior line, flanker and tailback appear to be the strong points of an offense that may include eight underclassmen in the starting line-up but could develop quickly if either John Andress or John Carroll takes charge at quarterback. "Our problem is inexperience; there is no question about the potential," Paterno says.

Defensively, there are more experienced players available, led by linebacker Greg Buttle and tackle John Quinn, but Paterno is concerned "about our inexperience and lack of size on the defensive line."

Boston College returns its entire backfield, including Mike Kruczek, a 68.8 per cent passer, and national scoring leader Keith Barnette, while wide receiver Dave Zumbach is on the verge of setting a number of school pass-catching records.

Penn State's supremacy challenged by many

The defense, led by cornerback Dave Almeida, will be solid while the Eagles' kicking game—placekicker Fred Steinfort, punter Jim Walton—is one of the best in the country.

Navy upset Penn State last fall and led Notre Dame for three quarters and the Midshipmen could make it to the winner's circle for the first time since 1967 if they can beef up the offense to go with a veteran defense. Eight defensive starters return, headed by rover Chet Moeller, tackle Dave Papak and linebacker Andy Bushak.

At Pitt, Coach Johnny Majors has gone to the Veer to take advantage of speedsters like running backs Tony Dorsett— an All-American as a freshman in 1973—and Elliott Walker and quarterback Robert Haygood. But the Panthers have holes on the offensive line and in the secondary.

The offensive line and the secondary also are concerns at Rutgers, which returns its top two rushers—Curt Edwards and Mike Fisher—and quarterback Bert Kosup.

Temple has gone 17-3 in the past two seasons and the defense, led by 260-pound middle guard Joe Klecko, hopes to improve on last year's 12th-place finish nationally. The problem is finding a replacement for quarterback Steve Joachim, the country's total offense leader.

West Virginia has a flock of fine runners—Artie Owens, Ron Lee, Heywood Smith, Dwayne Woods—but allowed 224 points a year ago and is inexperienced, to boot.

The other independents have problems of one sort or another, although Holy Cross has a solid defense featuring Lou Kobza, Frank Matasavage and John Trimbach up front. Wide receiver Dave Quehl caught 62 passes last year, a New England record.

But Syracuse is still sorely lacking in team speed, Army's defense must play over its head while the offense shifts between a ground attack led by Scott Gillogly and the passing arm of Leamon Hall, Villanova looks to new coach Dick Bedesem to improve on last year's 3-8 mark and Colgate must bolster a defense that surrendered 31.8 points a game in '74.

Yale will rely on a defense led by linebackers John Smoot, Brent Kirk and John Cahill while the offense catches up. Harvard lost record-breaking receiver Pat McInally but the main concern is at quarterback where no one has ever completed a pass in varsity competition.

Brown has quarterback Bob Bateman, who completed a lot of passes...for Vermont. He transferred when the Catamounts dropped football and joins 18 returning starters at Brown. Dartmouth will be strong defensively with the likes of linebackers Reggie Williams and Skip Cummins.

Princeton quarterback Ron Beible and receivers Neil Chamberlin and Kevin Gropp form a potent aerial combination and Bob Casciola has the Tigers on the way back. Graduation left a large offensive hole at Penn despite the return of running back Jack Wixted, but the Quakers could be solid on defense.

No. 1 ranking isn't cinched

At Notre Dame, Dan Devine returns to the college ranks, succeeding Ara Parseghian as coach of the Fighting Irish. He has problems on offense, starting at quarterback, but the Irish should have a super defense with ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry and safety Luther Bradley returning from a year's suspension to join star tackle Steve Niehaus.

Penn State, without a bruising type runner for the first time in ages, will resort to formation finesse. Coach Joe Paterno threatens —nay, promises—some single wing and double wing gimmickry . . . maybe even some triple wing.

Southern Cal Coach John Mckay says his Trojans—nicknamed the Baby Brigade—are a year away from greatness but the question is whether McKay will be around to see it since he's rumored en route to the National Football League's new Tampa franchise in 1976. They lost 14 starters—most of them to the pro ranks—but the flow of talent never seems to end at USC.

Explosive Quarerback John Sciarra leads UCLA's struggle to raise its football team to basketball level. Stanford and California are the darkhorses, but Stanford opens with road games at Penn State and Michigan while Cal must replace All-American quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

Alabama Bear Bryant had to discipline a couple of his Crimson Tiders recently with suspensions but Tennessee's Bill Battle says 'Bama still has "the best bunch of talent ever assembled in the South." Among them are running back Calvin Culliver, quarterback Richard Todd and, if he gets back into Bryant's good graces, All-American defensive end Leroy Cook.

For those of you who thought no one was older than Bear Bryant, Shug Jordan, who's older than Bryant, starts his 25th and final campaign at Auburn with some defensive problems but a nifty offense.

If there is an SEC darkhorse it looks like Florida, where Doug Dickey has brought the Gators back to prominence. But just about every team in the SEC except Mississippi is given a shot at the first division.

Ohio State returns its starting backfield, led by Heisman Trophy-winner Archie Griffin and quarterback Cornelius Greene. The Buckeyes could surrender their Big Ten laurels to a young Michigan team that has barely missed a Rose Bowl trip the last few years and should get better as the season progresses. Watch out for Michigan State, 1974 conqueror of Ohio State, and maybe Wisconsin.

Texas lost the SWC crown to Baylor last fall and the Longhorns' bid for a return to power rests with a defense that isn't up to its usual standards. The offense, however, is powerful, featuring sophomore fullback sensation Earl Campbell.

The experts have given the preseason nod to Texas A&M. The Aggies, under ex-Texas aide Emory Bellard, have a veteran team, with nine players, including star linebacker Ed Simonini, seeking a fourth varsity letter. Baylor, Arkansas and Texas Tech are next in line.

Maryland may have enough to retain its ACC title despite the loss of super tackle Randy White and a bunch of other starters. N.C. State will sacrifice some offensive firepower but the Wolfpack could have its best defense ever.

Midwest's best?

Bradley at safety, both suspended last season, figure to strengthen a solid unit led by Steve Niehaus who goes either at end or tackle.

Miami of Ohio, No. 10 nationally last year and unbeaten in 23 games, is trying for a third Mid-American Conference title, but with Michigan State, Purdue and Cincinnati in nonconference games, it will be hard to remain unbeaten.

Two of the Midwest's surprise teams could be Colorado in the Big Eight and Wisconsin in the Big Ten. Nine regulars come back to Colorado's offense with running backs Bill Waddy and Terry Kunz supplementing the passing of David Williams and Jeff Austin, a transfer fighting for Williams' starting job.

Oklahoma State and Missouri will display versatile offenses, but Missouri's non-conference schedule against Alabama, Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin, could wreck the Tigers' season at the start.

Kansas and Kansas State have new coaches and will be rebuilding, and Iowa State is counting on Luther Blue, moved from sp'it end to slotback, for its biggest offensive thrust.

Wisconsin's strength is the ground attack led by Billy Marek who ripped 1,215 yards last year behind the blocking of big tackle Dennis Lick. Besides Marek, the Badgers have Mike Morgan and Ken Starch for infantry duties but need a replacement for departed quarterback Greg Bohlig.

Purdue could be a conference darkhorse with depth on offense and defense. One of the nation's best offensive linemen is the Boilermakers' Ken Long. Iowa and Minnesota are going to rely mostly on offense and need to close the defense. Illinois and Northwestern are deep in running backs but have gaps, while Indiana has the Big Ten's leading passer in Terry Jones.

Tulsa posted an 8-3 mark to capture the Missouri Valley Conference in 1974 and Jeb Blount's passing should boost the Hurricanes to another title.

New Mexico State will rely on senior Bill Bowerman, and West Texas State's chances for improving its 6-5 mark a year ago rest with Tully Blanchard. Drake and Louisville are solid teams which should win more than they lose.

Webb coach set to retire

Biggest news among the local entries in the Arrowhead League this season is the pending retirement of Webb School's Les Perry.

Perry will be in his 27th year of coaching the Gauls this fall, and has announced it will be his last.

It would be nice if the Gauls could give Perry an A.L. title as a going-away gift, but that hardly seems possible. Super-rugged Arrowhead entries Big Bear and Notre Dame are everybody's favorites to run one-two in the loop, leaving Webb and La Verne Lutheran to fight it out with the other five league schools.

Perry's Gauls do have the services of two fine all-purpose backs in Doug McCowan (all-league last year) and Paul Richards, and some good sophomores coming up, but don't appear to have the depth or experience to better 1974's 4-4-1 record.

Lutheran has a new coach in John Rode and the Trojans look ready to improve on last year's 2-7 mark. However, the L.V. squad consists of only 20 players which will make it tough.

Returning to the Lutheran fold for 1975 are quarterback Steve Yager, fullback Ted Trahms and halfback Don Liles. Yager will have two talented targets in tight end Dale Pomo and wide receiver Jim Balderson, but the Trojans have a lack of experienced linemen and figure to be no match for the bigger Arrowhead League entries.

The Ontario Christian Knights have been developing a winning football tradition and from all indications 1975 will not be an exception.

Ed Werkhoven, in his sixth year as head coach at the Ontario school, feels his squad can improve on its 5-4 1974 slate. Unfortunately for the Knights, they reside in the Olympic League, which has been about the toughest CIF 1-A loop around the past couple years.

Werkhoven doesn't feel his team has the depth to upset pre-season Olympic favorite Whittier Christian, but that does not mean it won't be an exciting season for OCHS' fans.

The Knights have the services of quarterback John VanderSchaaf once again this fall. The 6-3, 190-pounder looms as one of the top signalcallers in the valley and will be tough for OCHS opponents to contain.

Running back Mike Siegersma is also back for 1975, but the Knights will need to find some linemen for last year's J.V. squad for him to run behind.

The Panthers hope to improve on last year's dismal 1-8 record and will be counting on a veteran defensive line to do it with the likes of Dave Hurd, Marty Martinez and Honnie Vanderkallen.

Richardson will have to fill an entire offensive backfield however. The prospects are Alta Loma's Jamie Broecker and Chaffey's Bill Childress and Larry Garcia at quarterback and Marcus Jennings (Ontario), Dominic Licavoli (Upland), Mark White (Upland) and Randy Campbell (Norco) at running backs.

Bonita plans food, football

A pancake breakfast will precede Bonita High's varsity football scrimmage with visiting Costa Mesa on the morning of Saturday, September 13.

Breakfast will be served from 8 to 11 a.m. at the Bearcats' field with the scrimmage immediately following. The donation for adults will be $1.

CBL title in sight for Tigers

Chaffey High's veteran grid coach Ray Stark feels he has the talent to win the Citrus Belt League title this fall, but it won't be easy.

Chaffey, the valley's only CIF 4-A entry, has traditionally found CBL play to be highly competitive and 1975 will not be an exception. Both Fontana and Redlands will be the favorites to cop the loop crown but Starks' squad should make its presence felt.

The Tigers have highly touted offensive tackle Anthony Munoz, all 6-5, 245 pounds of him, back for his season. The quarterbacking will be in charge of John Gable (J.V. QB last year) and Randy Johnston (signalcaller for the soph squad in 1974). Returnees Kirk Young, Rick Fellhauer and Skip Champion will handle the running back chores.

On defense, Stark has his entire defensive secondary returning but has some question-marks along the defensive line. The Chaffey mentor feels that if some of his younger players develop quickly enough this fall the Tigers could very well find themselves in CIF playoff competition come November.

Braves' chief running threat will be fullback Steve Robinson, who gained over 600 yards in 1974 as a junior and was named to the all-H.L. second team.

Ontario will try to improve in last year's 1-6 league record, and coach Doug Brooks hopes that junior quarterback Ramon Flores' extra year of experience will help.

While all the coaches agree that the Hacienda League title race looks wide open, the consensus gives San Dimas a slight edge.

"But I don't look for anyone to go undefeated," said Alta Loma's Cook. "Everyone's going to take some lumps. There'll be some real dogfights."

American tries new grid league

American Christian Academy will be the only valley high school playing eight-man football this year, and the Minutemen hope that a new coach and a new league will change their fortunes.

American Christian went winless last year but new coach Bob Williams has his squad entered in the Christian League for the fall after the locals resided in the tough Academy League last year.

Home field for American will be Ontario's John Galvin Park, where five of its games at slated to be played this season.

"I'm sorry Alabama did this," Houston football coach Bill Yeoman on Alabama's successful suit against NCAA concerning rule limiting traveling squads to 48 players.

become a big winner is the Highlander defensive unit. That eleven lacked consistency last fall as Upland posted a 4-5-1 season mark and would appear to lack both experience and size for 1975.

Loss of 18 of 22 starters puts Claremont High coach Esper Keiser in a rebuilding situation for this season. However, the Wolfpack mentor is the dean of SAL coaches and his squads can always be counted on to produce their share of upsets.

Biggest plus for the Pack from last year's 4-6 team is place kicker Jim VanZee. VanZee figures to be one of the top scorers in the league and may well challenge a few CIF field goals marks along the way.

Mike Davis is the tentative Claremont starter at quarterback, with halfback Chuck Purdy the chief rushing threat. Mil Pompa is one of the best tight ends in the valley, but Keiser may need other equally talented receivers to make the passing attack work.

Chino High is coming off a 5-4 season under coach Jim Rawls but will have to pull an upset to cop the SAL title this time around.

The Cowboys have two fine runners in Rick Riedel and Art Carbajal but are going to have to develop a passing game to go with them.

Rawls is also concerned with his squad's lack of depth and size on defense, an area in which Rawls' coached teams are normally strong.

Rich Bare is taking over a Montclair High football squad which finished 3-6 overall last year, so the new Cavalier mentor has no where to go but up.

The Cavs do have a fine running back returning in Jim Donaldson, but not much else. They also lack size and experience, but Bare is hoping his team's desire and enthusiasm will make the Cavaliers a dark horse candidate for SAL honors.
